Sounder Bonneville Business Basis Sought

WASHINGTON, March 21.—(AP)—Legislation which its sponsors said would "put Bonneville power administration on a sounder business basis" has been introduced in congress.

COMMISSION ON TRIAL

By Charles V. Stanton

The Oregon state fish commission doubtless will receive close surveillance from conservation interests during the ensuing two years. For many years the fish commission has been virtually a partner in the fishing industry.

The commission has offered numerous alibis, none of which, however, excuses the lack of foresight, and inept conservation practices which have permitted existing conditions of fish depletion to occur.

Because the take of commercial species of fish has dropped to a point where poundage fees are insufficient to support the work of the commission, the legislature has authorized appropriations from the state's general fund to maintain the commission's operations.

In pleading for state support, the commission promised to give greater attention in the future to conservation measures. It has been given the opportunity to make good on its promises.

The demand for an "about face" in commission allegiance does not come alone from the sports fishermen. The large body of organized commercial fishermen are likewise demanding more efficient administration of Oregon fisheries.

Unless the fish commission can show satisfactory results by the time the next session of the legislature rolls around, there is every reason to believe some real fireworks will develop.

Many fish commission members in past years have been definitely antagonistic to the rights of sports fishermen. There has been little recognition of the fact that recreational fishing is a source of far greater revenue than commercial fisheries and that the rights of the people of the state, which the commission, in theory, should consider, demand that the fish life of our streams be utilized to the greatest good of all.

Mr. John Veatch, chairman of the fish commission, during legislative hearings, and in other public statements, uttered severe criticism of sports fishermen. Governor Earl Snell recently appointed Representative Earl Hill of Cushman, in Lane county, as a member of the fish commission. Mr. Hill is a public-spirited man who has played an important part in the development of the coastal section of Oregon.

17-Yr. Olds Still Accepted by Navy, Recruiter Advises

To clear up confusion caused by the recent army-navy announcement that men between the ages of 18 and 20, inclusive, would be earmarked for infantry replacement by their selective service boards for the next three months, Lt. Comdr. John F. Biehler, navy recruiting officer in Oregon, emphasizes that the navy still is accepting 17-year-old volunteers.

Hundreds of telephone calls have been received at the main recruiting station in Portland and at all the substations from 17-year-olds and their parents who misunderstand the army-navy announcement and were of the opinion that all navy enlistments had been stopped.

The joint service order affects only those in the 18, 19 and 20-year groups," Comdr. Biehler stated, "and therefore does not change the navy's policy of accepting 17-year-olds and men over 30 for volunteer enlistment."

The recruiting officer also pointed out that men of draft age who can qualify for the navy's radio technician (radar) training program will continue to be given directed letters of assignment to the joint induction board in Fort Lewis and will automatically be inducted into the navy.
