DAILY DEVOTIONS

DR. CHARLES A. EDWARDS

If the foundations be destroyed, what can the righteous do. A rendering of this verse by a modern Bible scholar gives new meaning and significance to it. It reads: If the foundations be destroyed, what have the righteous been doing? The implications of this are startling. It is obvious that the righteous are the ones who build the foundations of morality and religion. It is equally true that if they are genuinely righteous they are the ones who can best preserve and defend these foundations. If these things be true, then they must also take the responsibility if the foundations are destroyed. What have the righteous been doing or failing to do in large areas of our world today, that the foundations are being destroyed? Are the foundations here in our own country in danger of crumbling too? Have we lost our sense of mission and our standard of values? Has our moral fiber been weakened? Are we more interested in saving our own skin than in preserving and strengthening the foundations of freedom, morality, and religion. "The foundation of God standeth sure."—Amen.
