army. Little is disclosed as to its Whereabouts.)

THERE seems little doubt that Montgomery, to the north, and Bradley, to the south, will be able to effect a junction soon east of the Ruhr, thus SURROUNDING this most important of the German industrial areas.

EISENHOWER now has seven armies fighting east of the Rhine—with maybe a million and a half men COMMITTED to the battle. He has two other armies in reserve.

What the Germans have to oppose this mighty force hasn't been disclosed in detail to us outsiders, even if our high command knows, but it can't be more than a fraction of Eisenhower's total strength.

THE Russians, stopped temporarily at least at the Oder by defenses as intricate and complete as German military engineering skill can devise, have shifted their thunderous attack from Berlin to Vienna.

One red army group moving up the south bank of the Danube has smashed Gyor and Komarom, key defenses of the Bratislava gap, where the great river breaks through the northern spur of the Alps in a relatively wide and level valley. This force has reached the Austrian border, less than 40 miles from Vienna itself.

Another Russian army, moving westward through Slovakia, crossing north and south rivers against the best opposition the Germans can put up, is now roughly 70 miles from Vienna A third Russian force is moving down from the north, through the Moravian gap that for centuries has been a favorite path for conquering armies.

DON'T discount this drive for Vienna.

Conquered Czechoslovakia has always been one of Europe's outstanding industrial centers. Austria's Skoda arms plant has long rivaled the Krupps of Essen in importance. Austria, Czechoslovakia and western Hungary have been turned by the Germans into a beehive of military industry. So far as we outsiders can know, this area has been far less battered by our bombers than the German industrial districts.

This Russian drive into Austria might be even MORE important that the smash to Berlin.

SO much for the NEWS itself. Among the straws in the wind, Churchill, in a campaign letter endorsing a candidate for membership in the house of commons, says: "The hour of success is NEAR."

There are reports that members of Churchill's cabinet have been ordered to remain close to their posts and that arrangements have been made to call parliament back into session if necessary during its 8-day Easter recess.

A sharp INCREASE has been noted in the flow of government communications among the Big Three capitals.

KEEP your fingers crossed. But the time IS HERE when we are justified in paying some attention to these straws in the wind.

THE Japs, who have been insisting for days that we have already LANDED on the Keramas (a small group of yin-point islands 15 miles west of Okinawa) assert that 20 to 30 of our transports are trying to reinforce our troops there and that new fleets of our transports are moving into the central Ryukyus.

Our Pacific command remains silent on landings, but Nimitz announces that Okinawa has been bombarded for six days—by the heaviest guns of our fleet as well as planes. He admits that three of our ships have been seriously damaged and an unspecified number damaged less seriously by Jap air attacks.

It's as near certain as anything can be that something big is shaping up in the Ryukyus behind all this screen of silence.

THERE is a report (unofficial and unconfirmed) that the Japs have rushed 300,000 Manchurian puppet troops into northern Manchuria to meet a POSSIBLE Russian invasion.

Our B-29s go on pounding the Jap mainland and our General Arnold says that Superfort raids on Japan will be DOUBLED OR TRIPLED within the next three months. Contemplating what our planes have done to German production, that can't give the little yellow men much comfort.

LIFE BEYOND THE GRAVE

A Guest Editorial

By Rev. Morris H. Roach, Th.D.
Pastor First Presbyterian Church

To get life's balance we must find its center of gravity. Easter points to the reality that life's center of gravity is beyond the grave. When Jesus said, "Because I live, ye shall live also;" He gave a pledge concerning our present and our future.

When Job was in trouble he said, "I know that my redeemer liveth." David faced the loss of a son with the assurance, "I shall go to him, but he shall not return to me." Later when he faced death himself, it was with confidence—"I will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever." When Paul was unjustly detained as a prisoner of Rome, he still professed faith in a moral universe for he had "hope toward God . . . that there shall be a resurrection of the dead, both of the just and the unjust." The center of gravity through life's great trials is beyond the grave.

The basic instinct of life is its preservation. We love life, we want to live; but threescore years and ten is a rather small twinkle of eternity. Jesus came to redeem us from this limitation. "I am come that ye might have life, and that ye might have it more abundantly." The center of gravity for life is beyond the grave. But the life beyond must be under perfect conditions. Here is a second basic desire of mankind, namely, living conditions that are free from fatigue, fear, frustration, pain, sorrow, or trouble. Our Lord put the center of gravity beyond the grave when He said to His disciples, "I go to prepare a place for you." "And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain: for the former things are passed away." Another fundamental desire which man has is to live this future life in heaven with a full personality. Jesus kept His after His resurrection; and we are told that "we shall be like Him for we shall see Him as He is." Taps sounded over the graves of our service men is in the major key. It is more than the requiem of a life laid down; it is the heralding of a resurrection day when we "shall know even as we are known." The center of gravity for life is beyond the grave.

There are nations and peoples who have put the center of gravity for life on this side of the grave. Materialistic views of life that make the grave the end of life have developed a biological god they call man. When the grave is the end for the individual, the nation and race become man's "eternal life." It breeds the "superman," "nation of destiny," and "super-race" ideas. Believing they are not accountable to God, they achieve their destiny by pogroms, ghettos, mercy killings, concentration camps, liquidations and war.

Easter puts the center of gravity for life beyond the grave. It puts the hope for a better world in the hands of a risen and victorious Prince of Peace and King of Kings.

Beauty Salon Here Changes Locaton

Mrs. Carl Raffle, owner and operator of Lerah's Beauty salon, has announced the change of location of the business from 112 W. Cass street to 912 S. Stephens street. The business will be closed from Saturday, March 31, until Tuesday morning, April 3, when it will resume business in the new location.

Mrs. Raffle has just completed the new shop building, which is constructed of concrete blocks, is fully air-conditioned, and is reported to be one of the most modern and best equipped shops in the state. The telephone number of the business will remain the same as at present.

Mrs. Raffle came to Roseburg 13 years ago and opened the Northside beauty shop, and seven and a half years ago opened Larah's Beauty salon on Cass street. She reports that the grounds surrounding her new shop will be landscaped within a short time.

Limitations Statute Quashes Fraud Charge

PORTLAND, March 31—(AP)—The statute of limitations today had brought dismissal of a suit in federal court charging fraudulent manipulation of mortgage company funds totaling $442,014.35.

Judge James Alger fee ruled yesterday that too many years had passed to bring suit against C. H. Farrington, former president and director of the defunct Western Bond & Mortgage Co. George M. McBride, trustee, in bankruptcy, charged that Farrington illegally obtained control of the company, made fraudulent book entries and transferred to unknown persons 40,000 shares of stock valued at $120,000.

McBride said federal investigation of tax claims revealed the transactions.

Grey Mask, Hager Clash Tonight On Mat at Armory

Double-barreled in that the dreaded "Grey Mask" is to appear in one main event and Ivan Jones, one of the strongest lightheavy matmen in the bicep business, in the other. Matchmaker Elton Owen's weekly grappling card is ready for the 8:30 bell tonight at the armory.

Stonefaced Mr. Mask, the master who mashes noggins with ferocious head butting for a pet "hold," tackles popular Tex Hager of Creswell in the second mainer after Jones debuts here against lithe Gust Johnson in the opener. Both brawls will be preceded by another boxing match between 'teen-agers, according to the matchmaker.

Demonstration Included

Vancouver, Wash., Athletic Instructor Jones, who can match muscles with an Atlas, will demonstrate the art of first applying and then breaking numerous wrestling holds before his debut stunt with Johnson. One of the best read misters in the mat game, Jones has demonstrated in other northwest rings and has always had encores. He'll be up against another of the stronger matmen in Johnson during their match.

Hager intends using his cleverness and speed, of which he has gobs, against the unorthodox tactics employed by the hooded hombre. Hager has never met the Mask in the squared circle before, but insists he'll keep his win streak here intact with an upset nod over the roundly disliked headsman. It will be mustachioed Hager's third appearance in Roseburg after winning his first two outings.

Turkey Food Rated High; Production Costs Rise

WASHINGTON STATE COLLEGE, Pullman, March 31—Turkeys rank high in relation to other livestock and poultry in efficiency in converting feed into more desirable forms of human foods, is a conclusion of bulletin 433 on turkey production and marketing, co-authored by Carl N. Berryman and Mark T. Buchanan, for the Washington agricultural experiment stations, just off the press.

The study shows production costs of commercial turkeys on their way up rising from 25.2 cents in 1942 to 31.74 cents last year.

The term "game preserve" instead of "game reserve" is used in the United States and is limited to areas set aside for the protection of those species of wild mammals and birds that are defined by law or commonly hunted as "game."
