In the Day's News

is already in allied hands.

GALLAGHER says that a JUNCTION between us and the British on the west and the Russians on the east may be the time chosen by the allied high command to declare ORGANIZED WARFARE WITH GERMANY AT AN END.

Such a declaration, he adds, would give German soldiers one of two choices—to surrender and be treated as prisoners of war or to continue fighting and be hunted down as guerrillas ("franc tireurs" is the European term for guerrillas; it is French and means "free shooters").

Gallagher says that judging by German morale of the past two weeks there is little doubt as to which course they will choose—as those now willing to die for the fuehrer are few and far between.

HE says that most Germans, officers and civilians alike, seem agreed that there will be no formal peace, as the nazis never will surrender and no other group is strong enough to. He thinks the German soldiers would LIKE to give up, but won't until they know they can surrender without danger of retaliation by the nazis.

SO much for northern Germany. Let us turn now for a moment to the south, where Hitler and his gang had planned to hole up for their last "twilight of the gods" stand.

The Russians are already BEYOND VIENNA and HEADED UP THE DANUBE for Munich and Prague to LINK UP with us. Patton is reported on the loose again and seems to be headed toward the Russian thrust.

Vienna itself has been by-passed, and Moscow says its fall is imminent. The Germans in the city (apparently fanatical nazis following Hitler's orders) are fighting to the death behind street barricades. Only 1700 of them have surrendered in the past day and night of bloody extermination battling. (At that, the nazis are nowhere near as good at dying in a hole as the Japs.)

THERE is a significant little paragraph in the Austrian news. The Russian force that turned to the southwest at Wiener Neustadt (south of Vienna) and headed through the narrow passes of the Alps for Hitler's hideout is reported only 133 miles from Berchtesgaden. They're creeping up steadily on the doomed fuehrer's last rat-hole.

THE storm that long has been gathering in Italy has broken at last.

The British 8th army, on the Adriatic side, supported by a barrage from HUNDREDS of guns and the heaviest allied air assault ever launched in Italy, has started its drive to destroy as much as possible of the opposing German army before it can retire into the mountain hideout.

The purpose is to SMASH the German forces in Italy as we smashed von Rundstedt at the Rhine, so that instead of retiring into the Berchtesgaden area as an organized and disciplined force capable of putting up a long and stubborn fight it will be sent fleeing back into Hitler's mountains as a broken and disorganized rabble that will do the nazi last-stand cause more harm than good.

THE hour is finally striking for Hitler and his dream of world conquest—as it finally struck for Napoleon.

THE Russians take Koenigsberg, capital of East Prussia, and Red Star, the Russian army newspaper, sounds this grim note for the future:

"From now on and FOREVER East Prussia, birthplace of arrogant aggressors and would-be enslavers of the Slavs, has been SEPARATED FROM GERMAN SOIL."

That's that for East Prussia, home of the German war lords.

IN the Pacific, the tough and bloody battle for Okinawa, which we have known must come, is under way. Some 60,000 Japs are holed up in the mountains and the caves of the island's southern part, selling their lives for delay.

It will take quite a while to kill 60,000 Japs. And will be a bloody, nasty job.

Such is warfare against subhuman INDOCTRINATED savages.

THERE'S a grim note in the Pacific dispatches.

EXCLUDING CHINA (from which statistics are unavailable) 865,000 JAPANESE HAVE BEEN KILLED SINCE PEARL HARBOR.

FISH SEASON TO OPEN

By Charles V. Stanton

Fishing season opens Saturday—so we read in the papers. It used to be that the opening of trout season was an event in our lives, but in these busy wartime days our favorite sport has been sadly neglected. In fact, we haven't even overhauled our tackle so far this year.

Ordinarily—that is, during peacetime years—we spend the winter scanning catalogues, hunting new lures, accessories, appliances, etc., that may aid in catching fish.

We usually buy a lot of fancy flies, filling fly books and hat bands with gaudily colored lures, and yet, when we get to fishing water, we consistently rig up with a bi-visible grey hackle or a bucktail coachman, and maybe we'll go through an entire season without so much as putting one of the fancy creations in the water.

Fly fishermen are funny that way. Every fisherman has his own special "killer"—a fly he swears will get fish when all else fails. He usually tries to keep its pattern a deep, dark secret.

Now we have a fly that just can't be beat. It's our own special creation. It must be tied exactly right. But what a "killer" it is!

Of course, almost any punk amateur can fish right alongside of us and catch two fish to our one, but that fly sure is a honey. We once caught a steelhead on it, so we know it's good. It couldn't possibly be the fault of the fly that the other fellow gets the most fish. He just has a better spot to fish in.

And then there's our lucky fishing hat. If we fail to wear that hat, the day is a complete washout. The wife has been trying for ten years to get us to throw that hat away. It has lost both its color and its shape. It is dirty and begrimed. It is ragged and torn. It is as flop-eared as a bloodhound. But we couldn't possibly have any luck if we didn't wear that hat. What we'll do when it finally falls apart, as now threatens, we don't know. Maybe we'll have to take up golf.

We heard a fisherman "beefing" a few days ago that it doesn't pay to go fishing any more, now that the limit is only 15 fish over six inches. If we caught 15 fish in one day we'd probably drop dead with heart failure, so great would be the shock. They could cut the limit to six fish per day and we still wouldn't be breaking the law with most of our catches.

Maybe if we'd do more fishing and less gawking around the country, we'd be better off.

But when we find a mossy bank, where spring flowers peep shyly through, and boughs of the stately dogwood sway overhead; and a heron stands motionless on a grey rock, or a muskrat plies busily between the pool at our feet and his subterranean doorway, nibbling out the tender, white, underwater grass roots, we find it difficult to concentrate on fishing.

We find our eyes watching the birds building their nests in the trees, the squirrels chattering their way along limbs bursting with buds, the lazy pattern of the clouds, the astigmatic reflections of the towering fir trees in the riffled surface of the pool.

We hear the patter of tiny feet of timid wild things, the flutter of wings, the drone of a passing airplane. We smell the pungent odor of the fir and the myrtle, or a wisp of smoke from a nearby home or brush fire.

It is the beginning of spring, the awakening of new life. There is a freshness in the air that brings rest and relaxation,—that restores vigor!

Maybe there are showers which bring chill and discomfort and we seek shelter under the protective arch of a giant fir, while we watch the drops of water leap and bounce upon the pool. And we see a hungry trout leap for a flying insect, and we mark the spot for a cast which we're usually too lazy to make.

Heck! Who cares about fish anyway?

Culprit Flees Rather Than Accept Free Meal

In preference to a morning meal with the compliments of the city police department, Lewis Bailey, who had been arrested on an intoxication charge, escaped this morning from the custody of the police, Erwin Short, chief, reported today.

Bailey, who had been fined $20, was being taken to a restaurant about 9 a. m., when he fled.

"Onion" came from the Latin word "unio" which means a "single large pearl."

Funeral Arranged for Mrs. Alfred Pederson

Tax Expert Lauds Legislative Work

The Oregon state legislature was given much praise Tuesday by F. H. Young, manager of Oregon Business and Tax Research, Inc., who spoke at the regular weekly luncheon program of the Roseburg Kiwanis club. "There need be no apology for the length of the session," Mr. Young declared, pointing out that the recent session acted upon legislation of the greatest importance and gave to all major matters considered deliberation "with less horseplay than ever before."

Mr. Young reviewed the principal legislative acts with paticular emphasis upon tax bills.

Following his talk before the Kiwanis club, he met briefly with directors of the Douglas County Taxpayers league to further amplify his discussionof tax legislation and plans for research in preparation for tax proposals to be offered at the next regular session.

DIAL-LOG

By SUSAN

Here's a quick reminder that Music You Remember is scheduled for 6:15 tonight, followed by Treasure Hour of Song at 6:30 with the Viennese composer, Oscar Straus, conducting. With the exception of the orchestral number, "Fiesta Mexicana," composed by his son, Erwin Straus, the entire half-hour will be Oscar Straus favorites. Naturally it includes "My Hero" and a selection from "A Waltz Dream". Bulldog Drummand at 8 with another hair-raising episode. It occurs to us that right now none of the fictional exploits of these characters can touch the real life drama unfolding before us from minute to minute as the news from Europe and the Pacific comes over the wires. And that make this an appropriate spot to remind you once again that KRNR has a twenty-four-hour news service, so that you'll get the latest news flashes as they come off the wire. As a matter of fact we've had the happy experience of scooping the network a couple of times, and that, brothers and sisters, is what makes a local news coverage worthwhile. We're all on pins and needles around the studio these days and spend half of our time listening for a bulletin or a flash signal from the teletype, or else just hanging over it reading the news as it comes through. We're about as jittery as all of the rest of you, but, rest assured, you won't miss the first news when and as it breaks; that's a promise.

Opening of World Peace Meet With Prayer Asked

The Garden Valley Sunday school has dispatched telegrams to President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Edward Stettinius, urging that the San Francisco World conference "be opened with prayer asking God's guidance on postwar planning." The organization, of which F. Graham Ewens is superintendent, also wired Harold Stassen, one of the conferees, commending him for his recommendation that the conference be opened by prayer.

Fines Paid Here by Five Traffic Law Violators

Traffic fines paid in the Roseburg justice court today were reported by Judge Thomas C. Hartfiel to include Vincent G. Theiss, $10, no muffler; Henry J. Hendrick, $10, axle overload; James R. Green, $10, insufficient license plates; Wm. H. Smith, $20, overload; Wm. H. Strain, $15, axle overload.

Homes of Money Kings up for Rent

NEW YORK, April 11—(AP)—"For rent" signs appeared, figuratively, on the J. P. Morgan and William Guggenheim suburban mansions today, shortly after the Charles M. Schwab town house and William K. Vanderbilt country home were registered similarly with the city's vacancy listing bureau.

Both the $1,500,000 Morgan house—46 bedrooms, 21 baths, two kitchens—and the relatively cottage-like Guggenheim mansion—20 rooms assessed at $380,000—were offered primarily for foreign government missions.

The 75-room, $3,000,000 Schwab mansion on Riverside drive had been offered for $75,000 annual rental.

A spokesman for the Chase National bank, custodian of the Schwab showplace, did little to entice potential tenants.

"There is not a piece of furniture in it," he said. "It takes about 10 tons of coal per day to heat it in the winter and it could be made suitable for accommodating a number of families only at great expense."

NEWS OF OUR MEN...WOMEN IN UNIFORM

Richard (Dick) Burke, son of Mrs. Frank Bergh, Roseburg, is now in a rest camp in the Philippines, according to word received here. He is serving with the Bushmasters, 158th infantry of the U. S. army. He reports that the days are very warm, but the nights and morning remind him of the Oregon climate. He also stated that he was well and that he enjoyed letters from his friends.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Wood of Toledo, Ore., former residents of Roseburg, have received word from their two sons, Wallace, who is convalescing in a hospital in England, and Freddie, who is serving with the 15th U. S. army in Germany. Both boys attended Roseburg schools before entering the service.

F. H. Cavanaugh Dies

Michael H. Cavanaugh, who operated a barber shop in Roseburg about 30 years ago, died last Sunday in Astoria at the age of 70. Surviving are his widow, nee Amy Sly, whom he married in Roseburg in 1912, and a son, Floyd Cavanaugh, in the U. S. postal service overseas.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Lud Denny Solves the Locust Problem

Lud Denny may not be much of a farmer, but most folks allow he's pretty smart at solving other people's problems. Like Alvin Blake's locusts.

For years Alvin has been trying to get rid of a grove of locusts. They aren't using up any good land, but they annoy Alvin. Every time he cuts them down, up they shoot again.

"What'll I do about them locusts?" Alvin asks Lud. "Well, if you can't get rid of 'em," says Lud, "I'd say you better get to like 'em."

From where I sit, that's sound philosophy—applied to people just as much as locust trees. You can't always change folks to your way of thinking—some may prefer beer to buttermilk, or a double harness to a single one—but you can get to like them (if you take the trouble).

And first thing you know, the little differences don't matter.
