

Heroic Yank Saves German Girl Hit By Enemy's Fire

BY HAL BOYLE
WITH THE U. S. FIRST INFANTRY DIVISION—(AP)—A small, pigtailed German girl stood frightened in the middle of a shell-swept street, and to a New Jersey corporal she was just a kid in danger and he risked his life to save her.

Because he was wounded his name may not yet be used.

The girl was one of a group playing in a Lichtenberg street just after 18th regiment Doughboys had captured the town. Headless that the town was filled with German civilians the nazis panted it with a savage barrage of mortar and artillery shells. From a vantage point just outside, a self-propelled gun raked the street with shells and machine gun fire.

The screaming children ran to cellars. All except the little girl who stood helpless with terror.

A German mortar shell hit a few yards from her. Steel fragments ripped through her legs and the youngster fell to the ground, her screams drowned out by the blasts of shells falling nearby.

Wounds Don't Halt Soldier

The young corporal saw her fall. He could hear the deadly machine gun bullets zinging down the street. Without hesitation he dashed out to the child. As he ran from the shelter of a building, another shell burst near the girl and fragments struck the American in the face and chest.

He fell, but slowly regained his feet, blood streaming into his eyes and blinding him so he had to grope to reach the child.

She was unconscious when he reached a combat first aid station, carrying her in his arms as he staggered through the bullet plowed street. Then he collapsed from shock and loss of blood.

"Those dirty nazis, shelling their own kids!" exclaimed the

Oregon Found Backward in Boosting Products

PORTLAND, April 25.—(AP)—A prominent chain store operator today had urged standardization of brands and advertising, as a prescription for postwar prosperity in Oregon's food producing industry.

Fred G. Meyer told the Oregon Advertising club that "we do the poorest job of advertising our community of any western state."

He said that where Oregon goods are well-promoted they are popular, pointing to Tillamook cheese as "making a small community famous all over the country."

Meyer declared that, among other things, "Oregon produces the best berries, apples, potatoes, prunes, peaches and walnuts—on which other states have put their own labels and for which they have become famous."
