of Jap-killing we've had since the campaign began. Blunt-spoken General Hodge says the enemy lost 2,000 killed and adds: "We hope they continue to come out of their holes, for it's a hell of a lot easier to kill them that way than to root them out."

BURROWING Japs and murderous artillery and mortar fire meet the Australians battling for the Borneo oil island of Tarakan—these being Jap specialties.

The Japs are reported in flight in most of Burma. On Mindanao, they have given up Davao city with relatively little fighting and are retreating to the hills and caves in the island's interior—another Jap specialty.

We've still got work to do licking the Japs.

THE little yellow men get a jolt. It is announced in Washington (unofficially) that the army will discharge two million men and send SIX MILLION of the picked remainder against Japan.

The speed with which the discharging will proceed will depend on the rate at which we can send the discharges home. The army transport command says that in two months it will be in shape to begin transporting 50,000 men a month by air.

The discharging process will follow the formula of dependency, length of service since enlistment, foreign service, etc., first announced last fall.

THERE was the usual effort to keep the plans for discharging these 2,000,000 men a secret, but it leaked out of the "closed" meeting of the house military affairs committee.

It is just as well it did. We've had too many of these secrets already. Too much secretiveness shakes confidence in government, which is BAD.

THERE has been an extremely interesting note in the news of the past week or more.

The stock market, in the face of VICTORY news that signals the beginning of the turn from a war economy to a peace economy, RISES HOPEFULLY and goes on rising—indicating that our people look forward hopefully and confidently to the change from war (with its industrial war babies) to the far-from-easy days of reconversion and return to peace-time pursuits.

Business Property at Reedsport Purchased

REEDSPORT — Verne Finley, who for the past ten years has owned and operated the Reedsport Shoe Repair business, has announced that he has sold his property and business to Leland C. Dobler, formerly of San Diego, Calif. The new owner has taken charge and is now operating the business.

The property purchased by Mr. Dobler consists of a one-story 60x70 ft. building on a lot 50x100 ft. on H. street, and besides being occupied by the repair machinery, which was a part of the purchase, contains a four-room apartment, a room occupied by a beauty parlor, in one half of the building, and in the other half is a confectionery and beer parlor owned by Ward Powell. The rear portion of the block is vacant except for a small two-room cabin and a woodshed.

Meeting Scheduled — Members of the Past Matron's club will meet at the home of Mrs. Eva M. Ferrier, West First St., Roseburg, at 7:30 p. m., Monday, May 7. Mrs. Blanche Elliott and Mrs. Ferrier will serve as joint hostesses.

STUDENTS TO SELL BONDS

By Charles V. Stanton

Roseburg High school students sold $23,800 worth of war bonds in a door-to-door canvass during the Sixth War Loan campaign. They will attempt to set a new high record Wednesday and Thursday of this week, when they will canvass the residential area of the city of Roseburg on behalf of the Seventh War Loan.

We have a right to be very proud of our high school students for their cooperation in the war effort. Not only have they personally purchased thousands of dollars worth of bonds and stamps, but they have given a great deal of time to soliciting sales, have conducted two very successful waste paper salvage campaigns, while aiding in many other ways, particularly by furnishing entertainment, in home front activities.

During their house-to-house canvass on behalf of the Sixth War Loan, some of the students were rudely treated. These, however, were exceptional cases, the students being well received in the majority of homes. But a few people insultingly slammed doors upon solicitors, while some used rough and abusive language in their refusal to buy bonds.

We believe that when our high school students are willing to assume a task such as selling war bonds—a job for which adult manpower is lacking—they should be received with courtesy and appreciation.

It should not be necessary to urge the American public to buy war bonds. We should voluntarily aid the war effort by investing all idle money in bonds, knowing that such investment is in our own self interest in addition to being essential to progress of the war. But we are careless in performing this part of our duty, and must be coaxed by direct appeal, entertainment, etc., into buying bonds, which are our greatest assurance for an early end to the war and one of the best possible investments we can make for our personal welfare.

Naturally, it is not expected that bonds will be bought through high school students in every home. In many homes the wage earners are buying bonds to the limit through payroll deductions. In others the head of the house is putting his money through his own place of business, or through a club or organization in an effort to help reach assigned quotas.

On the other hand, there are many homes in which the high school students may expect to sell bonds. Every possible encouragement should be given the students by permitting them to handle our purchases of war bonds.

We should-keep in mind, also, that we are expected to buy more bonds during the "Mighty Seventh" than in any other campaign. The quota is much higher than ever before, particularly on E bonds.

So, when high school students come to your door next Wednesday or Thursday, if you live in Roseburg, treat them courteously, show your appreciation for the work they are doing, and buy war bonds to the limit of your financial ability.

And while we are mentioning the work of students, we would urge public participation in the school program during the short time remaining in the school year. One of the public events will be the appearance at the Senior High school auditorium Tuesday night of the University of Oregon symphonic band. This will be an entertainment well worth the small cost. The major portion of the proceeds will go to the fund being raised for school band uniforms. You can give yourself a pleasant evening and help the school by your attendance.

U. of O. Band to be Heard in Concert Here Tomorrow

The University of Oregon symphonic band will be presented in concert at the Roseburg Senior high school gymnasium, starting at 8 o'clock Tuesday.

"This is a very unusual organization, due to its versatility and thorough musicianship and its appearance is unquestionably a real treat for Roseburg," Les Irvin, music director in the Roseburg High school, said today. "Thoroughly rehearsed by the capable John Stehn, one of the nation's outstanding directors, this group presents a pianist, student of George Hopkins, in solo with band accompaniment, and a violinist. These numbers will be in addition to band selections."

"From the realm of modern symphonic band, selections by Bartok and Shostakovich will be played, along with a Wagnerian selection. In the lighter vein will be selections from Ravel's Bolero and Rimsky music from the "Student Prince."

Auto Thieves Taken to Oregon Penitentiary

Oreville D. Goss and Fernie L. Medlin, sentenced to penitentiary terms upon arraignment in circuit court last week, were taken to Salem today for delivery to penitentiary authorities. Medlin was sentenced on count of auto theft and larceny to five years and Goss was sentenced to three years on the auto theft charge. The pair went to Salem in custody of Deputy Sheriff R. G. Baker and Ben Zenor.

DAILY DEVOTIONS

DR. CHARLES A. EDWARDS. Gratification is the fulfillment of desire. Satisfaction is the fulfillment of the soul. People will go to almost any extreme to get satisfaction for their souls. But the man who has experienced Christ knows that there is but one source of satisfaction. That is God. The great revival of the eighteenth century cleansed the springs of Protestantism by ringing all the changes on the experiential note. At first it was ridiculed for that. All sorts of fun was made of the new teaching of its enthusiasm and its doctrine of assurance. But the last radiance of religion was restored to an age that was well nigh lost when John Wesley began to insist that religion is always the life of God in the soul of man. Shall not modern Protestantism keep on emphasizing that eternal truth? A great teacher spoke of the deity blind. Must not the deity-conscious bring to the deity-blind and the deity-dull their experience of God. It is not just a matter of opinion; it is a matter of life and death. Go where you may, search where you will, only God can satisfy. Satisfaction is the fulfillment of the soul. St. Augustine was right. "The soul can find no rest until it finds it in God."—Amen.

at Reedsport, said today. Officer Miles and State Policeman Clyde Clark, serving in the Reedsport district, were in Roseburg on official business today.

Only very few salmon have been taken in the nets to date, Miles stated, and, as shad are beginning to show in the river, the bulk of the commercial fishing will be switched from salmon to shad during the balance of May and throughout June.

Acid Test of Peace Still Faces Allies

Germany in Economic Chaos Poses Huge Task Of Rehabilitation

By DEWITT MacKENZIE. Associated Press War Analyst. Now that the allies have knocked out nazism in the bloodiest and most devastating conflict ever known, and we stop to check up on the great achievement, we find ourselves facing the staggering paradoxical problem of what sort of victory we have in hand—in short, whether we really have won the war.

The measure of our success should soon be known, and it will lie in the extent of allied cooperation in the rehabilitation task. Six months ago Marshal Stalin said that there was no need to doubt that, if the fighting powers of the democratic powers had stood the trial of war that he, the more so would the alliance stand the trials of the concluding stage of the war.

Well, the alliance has stood the trials thus far, but it is about to be put to even greater tests. The exigencies of a war of survival have provided bonds to hold us together, but with the coming of "peace" we shall be plunged immediately into a politico-economic mess which will be filled with dangers which have no precedent.

Acid Test Still Faced. To win the war we must win the rehabilitation period. Edwin L. James, managing editor of the New York Times, remarks in his weekly column that "in the occupation of Germany there will be an acid test of the ability of the Big Three to work together for common purposes." That's an aptly chosen phrase by an observer who knows his Europe from long study at first hand.

At the end of the last war the German armies laid down their arms and marched home to a country which was short of supplies because of the naval blockade, but didn't have a war scratch on it. Its factories were undamaged and its fields were ready for the plow.

Now Germany's mechanized engineering industry, which was a vital part of her life, has other been destroyed in the main or is being taken over from her. She is left with a few agricultural lands in East Prussia and Silesia. Her mineral wealth will be greatly reduced.

Economy Out of Gear. Thus the reich, which was an integral section of the European economic structure, is dropping out of this place and undoubtedly will come back over a long period of years in an entirely different role. So the specialists must now figure out a way to balance the economy of a Europe which is badly shot to pieces, quite apart from the German position.

This situation is complicated by the political changes which are sweeping the continent, and especially by the political vacuum which will exist in Germany until she can find her feet and decide what form of government she wants. That will provide a staggering task of diplomacy for the occupying powers—America, Russia, Britain and France. The Germans will be bitter and sullen under defeat, and difficult to handle.

All this, of course, will put a test even greater than the war on the stability of the alliance among the major allies. There will be innumerable problems, and probably there will be differences of opinion compared to which the present Polish question is mild.

Still, while the allies have a straight and narrow path to tread if unity is to be preserved, there's no indication that they can't make the trail together, if they proceed with cool deliberation, especially in the matter of Germany, which certainly is a package of dynamite.

An Open Letter to Showgoers... The other day we looked at a little picture you probably haven't heard much about and, ordinarily, probably wouldn't. It's called "My Pal, Wolf." About a little girl and her love for a dog — a handsome German Shepherd. It's not a BIG show... it hasn't a "big name" cast... no trick photography... it'll probably never win any Academy Awards. BUT... it's a honey of a picture... it's sweet... and clean... with a tear here... a smile there... and through it all a simple little story that doesn't try to deliver any "message"... doesn't try to do anything except carry you along with its two main characters — the girl and the dog. We think you'll like it when it gets here... just as much as we liked it. Remember the title — "My Pal, Wolf". It Starts Wednesday, May 9th. STAR THEATER
