Why does he make only 5¢ a day?

1. Transportation can create wealth just as surely as farming or manufacturing. For it increases the value of a product by taking it from where it exists in abundance to where it is scarce and needed. Therefore, the more product you can move, the more wealth you can create—and the more you can earn.

4. The average American can't produce much more with his bare hands than the average Chinese—or European. But he has far more machinery at his disposal with which to multiply the labor of his hands. At Union, for example, there is $43,525 in equipment—oil wells, trucks, etc.—for each employee.

2. Both the Chinese coolie and our Union Oil truck drivers are transportation workers. Yet the coolie makes only 5¢ a day and our truck drivers average $9.90. Why? Well, the coolie, with his equipment, can only transport 10 gallons of kerosene about 20 miles in a day.

5. This equipment is owned by 32,227 Union Oil stockholders. But who owns it isn't so important as the fact that it is available for use. For while the stockholders' dividends last year amounted to 3% on net capital invested in equipment, the employees were able to earn far more than that from the use of the equipment.

3. But our trucker, with the machinery at his disposal, can transport 5,000 gallons 300 or 400 miles in a day. Consequently he can create many times as much wealth with his day's work. In other words, mechanization—not the popular fallacy that China is "overpopulated"—accounts for the difference.

6. So the important point is not who owns the machines of production but under what system will those machines be best and most plentiful. Our free, competitive American system isn't perfect yet, but it has put more and better machines at our disposal than any other system known to man.

This series, sponsored by the people of Union Oil Company, is dedicated to a discussion of how and why American business functions. We hope you'll feel free to send in any suggestions or criticisms you have to offer. Write: The President, Union Oil Co., Union Oil Bldg., Los Angeles 14, Calif.
