Value Limit Raised on Construction on Farms

Under a liberalized WPB order affecting farm construction, farmers may spend up to $1,000 in a calendar year for farm dwelling construction, remodeling and repair, and an additional $1,000 for construction of other farm buildings, announces R. B. Taylor, chairman of the state

AAA committee. Previously the maximum per farm was $1,000, including net more than $200 for farm dwellings.

Any new farm construction for dwellings or service buildings which exceeds the two $1,000 allowances requires WPB approval. Farmers may apply at county AAA offices for lumber permits for repair and construction not requiring WPB approval.

Most county lumber quotas are limited, however, and not all farm needs can be met.

Meningitis On Wane
PORTLAND, June 14—(AP)—A three-week period without any new cases of spinal meningitis is Oregon's longest on record since August, 1942. State Health Officer Harold M. Erickson said today. However, five cases of diphtheria, all in Multnomah county, ranked high for eight weeks.
