ADVENTURES OF A SOLDIER BOY

By ALDEN HARNESSE
In his heaven, when eleven,
Was Roy Rosalia on the Congo
He killed a bongo by the day
at one shot a mile away.

For Thomas Tasso, with his lasso,
When his years were twelve and three,
He caught a lion, crouching high
on an uprooted jungle tree.

When Rudyard Kipling's tales of strippling,
O'er his growing mind prevailed,
With Captain Pruner in his schooner,
All around the earth he sailed.

Where, kind and clever, he could ever
Sell to widows and to wives,
In Alaska and Nebraska
He peddled pans and kitchen knives.

Where aviation gives a nation
Super-strength from coast to coast,
Roy Rosalia in Australia
Has joined MacArthur's fighting host.

Our resources and our forces
Shall help him wipe out to a man
The Mikado's desperadoes
In islands that comprise Japan.

Report Itself Is Evidence Big Three Still in Harmony

By DeWITT MacKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst
The number one point of significance in connection with the historic Big Three communique of Potsdam, as I see it, lies in the fact that the statement could be made at all.

This is to say, the outstanding feature is that the three statesmen were able to reach an accord in what must have been by far the most delicate and difficult conference of the American-British-Russian partnership. The demands of the war had rolled the wheels of previous parleys, but this meeting dealt with urgent postwar problems which most certainly would produce a divergence of views on some vital questions. And still we have unity. Therefore, as the most important paragraph of the lengthy communique, I give you this:

"President Truman, Generalissimo Stalin and Prime Minister Attlee leave this conference, which has strengthened the ties between the three governments and extended the scope of their collaboration and understanding, with renewed confidence that their governments and peoples, together with the other United Nations, will ensure the creation of a just and enduring peace."

Now, of course, one swag doesn't make a summer, and one love feast doesn't necessarily guarantee a continuance of accord. Still, it's great news that the Big Three have negotiated a dangerous course so well.

Stalin Mum on Japan

Naturally it's a keen disappointment that out of 6,000 words devoted to the communique, the conference couldn't find a half dozen to tell us what the sphinx of Moscow has in his mind regarding Japan. However, it really would have been surprising if a statement had been made in this matter. If Russia isn't going to war against Nippon, it would be wise to tell Tokyo that now. And if the soviet is going to join the conflict, it wouldn't be smart to advertise it in advance. Anyway, we have the right to believe that things will work out well.

Poles Fare Well
The communique indicates that the Big Three are getting ahead with the job of dealing with Germany, both as regards penalties and rehabilitation. That's highly important, for the reich is the center of the European turmoil, and a return of tranquility to the continent is dependent in great degree upon the progress made in readjusting Germany's affairs.

Another striking item is the temporary territorial award to Poland. Pending a final adjustment, the Poles are given the rich German territory east of the Oder river line and a large section of East Prussia.

If this is confirmed it will mean that Poland will become one of the great European powers. It can reach the skies, what with its agricultural and industrial possibilities and great Baltic ports through which it can pour its products to the world at large. The creation of a Big Five council of foreign ministers — America, Russia, Britain, France and China — to draw up the peace treaties of Europe is another gesture of unity. It is notable that these five countries are the permanent members of the council of the United Nations, peace organization formed in San Francisco and the foreign ministers will report to that organization. We have here another step towards world peace.
