numbers, with a considerable fringe of Norwegians, Poles, Dutch, Czechoslovakians, Free French, etc. You can see almost every kind of uniform on earth here—except, of course, German and Jap.

As to the American, British and Empire troops, leave and redeployment account for the most of them. The mixed fringe is largely stuck here for one reason or another.

There are hundreds of thousands of Poles (nobody seems to know the exact number) and what to do with them is a British problem. They and the Czechs, the French, the Norwegians, the Dutch, etc., were WELCOMED in the days when anybody who could pull a trigger was an asset if the Germans should decide to invade.

Yet, headache or no headache, the Poles are treated with the utmost courtesy and consideration, and as long as they are in uniform are paid out of the British treasury—paid, housed and fed.

TO these thousands upon thousands upon thousands of troops in uniform you must add the civilian employes of the various governments having large war establishments here—quite a total in itself.

The troops, and to some extent the war-service civilians, are housed chiefly in billets and fed in messes. The number of these establishments is literally LEGION.

YET, amazingly, in the face of this staggering foreign invasion, Londoners are uniformly courteous, and when you break through the outer shell that is their peculiarly British armor they are uniformly friendly and helpful.

We hope, of course, that it could be done. It WAS done, in a minor sort of way, during the UNCTO conference. But the conference was a great, glittering show, in its outer aspects.

And yet they take it and almost seem to like it—AFTER-

WE MUST NOT FAIL AGAIN

Japan has surrendered. The war is over. Hostilities have ceased. Four long years of the most bloody warfare the world has ever known have culminated in victory over two nations which have worshipped the art of war and which, throughout modern history, have repeatedly waged war upon neighboring nations who sought no quarrel.

There must be no soft peace. Germany and Japan know no doctrine except that of force. The virtues of compassion, benevolence and tolerance, according to their creed, are indications of weakness.

It will be difficult for us as Americans, who above all people are benevolent and charitable, to be stern in administering justice to our defeated foes.

The softening influence will be encouraged by artful propaganda from the German and Japanese peoples. Both nations have proven themselves most skillful in the art of propaganda, and we may be certain their ability will be used to the utmost degree to weaken our imposed discipline.

But to permit ourselves to be swayed from our present determination would be to remove the barriers to another war.

We are conquerors and we must impress our enemies with that fact and treat them as conquered peoples for many years to come, for unless we do we will soon be engaged in a third world war too terrible for comprehension.

If and when we are tempted to relax our control, we should refresh our minds concerning the cost of victory.

The United States has had more than one million of its finest young men killed or wounded. More than a quarter of a million lie in graves on foreign soil. Thousands upon thousands will go through life maimed.

We did not want war. We utilized every means at our command to avoid the conflict. Because we attempted to escape armed struggle we were scoffed at as weaklings by our enemies, who have learned at great cost to themselves the magnitude of their error.

Richard Baxter, famous English clergyman of the seventeenth century, in his prayer to the Holy Spirit, said: "Be in me the resident witness of my Lord, the author of my prayers, the spirit of adoption, the seal of God and my inheritance."

Never before in their careers have the clowns, acrobats, aerialists, animal trainers and keepers been so determined to bring an interlude of cheer to a nation. Hence particular stress has been placed upon the interpolations of comedy relief occasioned by the frequent appearances of the many clowns.

But with all that, the circus is still the circus, so that almost two hours of their packed entertainment is replete with acrobats, gymnasts, aerialists, and animal acts of almost every kind and character.

Two performances are given daily at 2 and 8 with doors to the menagerie opening one hour earlier. The circus will show at that is, YOU break the ice. Seldom, if ever, does the casually met Briton speak first.

Hager, Dusette to Headline Next Mat Card in Roseburg

Tex Hager, the popular little matman from Lane county, and Georges Dusette, the dynamic Frenchman who recently lost his Pacific coast junior heavyweight championship, are rated as leading contenders for the new junior-heavy title now held by Jack Lipscomb.

Hager and Dusette have been signed by Matchmaker Don Owen to meet in the headline attraction of his weekly wrestling show at the Roseburg armory next Saturday night.

Owen is promising a stirring, compelling match of unusual interest to local fans. He has an agreement from one of the matmen, a great local favorite, but was unable to announce the match until getting the opponent's "John Henry" to the contract.

The main event, however, carries enough interest to fill the armory arena to capacity. The skirmish is expected to be one of the best scientific bouts of the season.

Hager, who wrestled for the world light-heavyweight title in Mexico slightly more than a year ago, depends mostly on speed and agility. Dusette is more of a rugged, aggressive matman who depends on superior strength.

The complete program is expected to be announced Friday, according to Owen.

News of 4-H CLUBS

The Smith River Livestock club held its regular monthly meeting August 12 at the H. A. Lyster ranch. Forty people attended. The club members voted to hold their annual achievement day Sunday, Sept. 16, at the rodeo grounds in Reedsport. Garden club and canning club members will hold their exhibit day at the same time.

The Gardiner-Reedsport Lions club is again sponsoring a foods production contest for 4-H club members on the coast section of Douglas county. Les Haggerty, chairman of the committee on boys' and girls' work, will have charge of raising the money for awards in the contest.

The 23 boys who attended the Willamette Valley livestock tour August 6 and 7 reported that they received a lot of valuable information on fitting and showing livestock and judging and selecting livestock. In addition to training given the group on livestock, they were shown how hybrid corn is developed, methods of controlling weeds, methods of growing vegetable seeds such as cabbage, turnips, onions and sugar beets.

A number of girls have sent in their names as wanting to take part in the breadbaking and canning contest to be held in the Roseburg Senior High school August 25. The county winners will be eligible to enter the state contest to be held later in the year.
