is reasonably certain he is going to be hungrier still before long. Every time it rains (which is about every other day) people are cold and damp, with no fuel to build fires to dry themselves out, and they are flatly certain they are going to be much colder still when winter closes down.

Everyone is acutely miserable.

THE result is this perfectly natural psychological reaction: "While the nazis were in power, we were well fed, well clothed and well housed. There was plenty for everyone to do. Now the nazis are out, and the Americans are in, and WHAT have we?"

Maybe they don't put it into words, but they feel it. This feeling, which is universal, makes our job much more difficult.

THE same thinking is loose in France.

In the years when the Germans were there, liberty was GONE—and the Frenchman values his liberty, perhaps more than anyone else in Europe. But still there is the indubitable fact that the years of German occupation were BUSY years in France. The factories were all humming. Everyone was employed. Prices were high. Business was active. The Germans paid good prices—in PHONY francs, of course—and the mirage of material prosperity was everywhere visible.

Now the Germans are gone and the Americans are present—and France is prostrate economically. The French are glad we came and they don't want the Germans back. But still there is the CONTRAST. There was activity when the Germans were there, and there is none now.

They feel it in their bones, even if they don't put it into words.

ALL this bothers us. It bothers us in Germany, where our job is to create a new order that will appeal to Germans as BETTER than the old militaristic order.

It bothers us in France, where we hope to keep the friendship of the French people.

OTHER than industrial plants and machinery and processes with a WAR POTENTIAL, we are taking nothing out of Germany. It seems highly probable that before we take anything at all OUT in the way of reparations we shall have had to put quite a lot IN.

The water table in Germany is so low at the present moment that it looks very much as if we shall have to prime the pump if we are to get any water out of the well.

MEANWHILE the Russians are pursuing an opposite course. They are taking everything out of Germany they can lay their hands on, and so far as may be seen now they have no thought of ever putting anything back.

Their apparent simple purpose is to TAKE BACK from Germany what Germany took from them.

If Russia is doing any worrying, it doesn't appear on the surface. She gives no evidence of it. From the beginning, she has seemed to know where she was going.

Russia never worried about fraternization. If her people wanted to mix with the Germans, that was all right with her. There has been no ban on political parties or political acts in the Russian zone. The Russians are apparently perfectly confident

RAIL TRAVEL PROSPECTS

By Charles V. Stanton

The Southern Pacific company has, at least, restored through service on the Siskiyou route and a person can travel by train directly to and from California. It isn't much of a train—only coaches—but at least it's an improvement over no service at all, and we do not doubt that better accommodations will be made available as soon as equipment can be released from the burden resulting from the war with its returning veterans, redistribution of military supplies and other demands upon rail transportation.

But whether the Southern Pacific will really seek to develop passenger business on the Siskiyou line remains to be seen. The transportation picture, insofar as railroads are concerned, is not too bright. Prospects are for a great advance in air travel, with feeder line service into areas heretofore by-passed by the major air lines.

Peculiarly, Southern Oregon, grossly neglected by the Southern Pacific company from the standpoint of passenger service, will be one of the areas least affected by air travel, offering a special opportunity for rail business. Blanketed by fog during the greater part of the winter, the mountainous area is not as suitable for regularly scheduled flight service as is Eastern Oregon, where planes have little difficulty in negotiating flights on a year-around basis.

If the Southern Pacific is willing to compete for passenger travel by giving superior service, it is our opinion it can maintain profitable operation in Oregon and California, but it will not be able to compete with airplanes and streamlined busses if it continues the policy of placing on its Southern Oregon run its worn-out, obsolete equipment and maintaining slow, inadequate service.

We hope that restoration of through service to California means the Southern Pacific will endeavor to actually become "friendly" with Southern Oregon.

Give To the Community Chest

Solicitors now are canvassing the city of Roseburg on behalf of the Community Chest. No project is more worthy of our support and cooperation. Included in its budget are the 18 national and 8 state agencies which compose the National and State War Chest. In addition there are six strictly local agencies, all of the greatest importance to community welfare.

Successful operation of the Community Chest means elimination of many solicitations which would otherwise take time and effort of workers and inconvenience those who would be canvassed for subscriptions. The Community Chest offers budgets of 32 agencies combined into one money-raising program. Generous response should be given the appeal by every Roseburg resident.

Roseburg High school's oft-humbled Indians are really on the warpath this season. Sports fans are finding much pleasure in the victories chalked up to date, after having watched our team on the losing side of the scoreboard so frequently in the past. The Indians have some of the other localities of the state considerably worried, as a result of the upsets they have staged in their two games so far this season, particularly when it is pointed out that the team is composed almost entirely of juniors and sophomores, making it certain that the Redskins will be formidable opponents not only this season but in the future as well.

There is a great deal of comment these days about disposition of the atomic bomb. One thing about the subject—it can't be safely dropped.

that they can handle anything that develops.

They probably can. Their methods of handling such developments are a bit rough, but they seem to be efficient.

It is not the purpose to say here that the Russian method is right and our method is wrong. This writer doesn't know. He hasn't been able to find anyone over here who does know—or even professes to know.

Here in Europe, where we are beginning to rub up against them, the Russians are as great a mystery as they are to our people back in the States.

About as far as anyone here is willing to go, for publication, is to HOPE the Russians turn out all right.

Parking Meters Legal, Oregon Court Decides

SALEM, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Parking meters are legal, the Oregon Supreme court ruled unanimously today in upholding Circuit Judge Howell of Multnomah county.

The court decision, by Justice Day, was in the suit brought against Portland city officials by James Hickey, who contended the Portland ordinance providing for parking meters were invalid. Hickey contended that these ordinances were class legislation, that they were designed

Grey Mask Takes On Lynam on Next Mat Card Here

After a tour of several months in other states, the Grey Mask is returning to the wrestling mat in Oregon. The head-butting rouser and audience rouser is billed on the regular weekly card at the Roseburg armory next Saturday night. His opponent will be Joe Lynam, the Redmond, Oregon, grappler, and South Pacific war veteran, who returned to the states with an Australian championship in the light-heavyweight class. Fans incidentally wonder what sort of a cranial catastrophe would result if the Grey Mask and Rufus Jones, also a head-butting expert, were to clash, and they probably will on some future card.

Opening match on next Saturday's card will pit Lou Franco, well-known local boy, against Chet Newton, the latter a blue-jacket from the Corvallis Naval hospital staff. Newton is a veteran in the mat game. During his status as an amateur he was edged out by Robin Reed for entry into the Olympic games. After turning professional, he built up an impressive record of victories, assuring a good account of himself in the forthcoming bout.

DIAL-LOG

Well, girls, you can relax now because the World Series is all over for another year, and friend husband will relax and eat his lunch in peace and quiet once more. You may even get a little conversation out of him, now—providing he didn't bet on the wrong team. Anyway tonight there's Spotlight Bands at 6:30, western music at 7:15. The Lone Ranger at 7:30, Main Line at 8, and Fresh Up Time at 8:30—a good solid evening's entertainment with many a whodunit to chill your blood. Tomorrow night is the night for murder on 1490 with Bulldog Drummond and Richard Rogue of "Rogue's Gallery" sharing honors.

It seems pretty nice to be back on schedule again, with programs coming through on their regular spots. A few more changes are in the offing, but they are all to the good from the listener's point of view. Three of them come up next Sunday, when "Murder is My Hobby" moves in to the 1 o'clock time; Human Adventure takes over the 6 to 6:30 spot and Bookmarks moves to 7.

Advance the department: Remind the children that House of Mystery is heard each Saturday morning at 9, and warn the grandstand quarterbacks in the family that the Oregon-Oregon State game will be aired next Saturday afternoon at 1:45. And, of course, there is an opera broadcast on Friday night at 10, so there's something for every taste if you'll just stay tuned to 1490.

Radio School Requires License, Neuner Rules

SALEM, Ore., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Continental Radio institute, a newly-incorporated Portland school, must obtain a vocational school license from the State Department of Public Instruction, Attorney General Neuner ruled today.

The fact that it is organized for profit makes it necessary that the school get a license, Neuner said.

Strong U. S. Needed to Ensure Peace—Nimitz

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Cheered by millions, Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz rode through wind-whipped paper storms on Broadway today and then told an assemblage at City Hall that never again should the United States "risk the threat which weakness invites."

"We must make certain now and for the future that the peace is secure," he warned. "We must remain strong. We must retain adequate sea power to ensure that we do not lose the peace."

Rufus Jones Butts Way To Win Over Lipscomb

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 10.—Using his head for a battering ram to hammer out a niche over Jack Lipscomb's left eye, Rufus Jones, Detroit Negro star, Monday night won two of three falls from the Hoosier Hot Shot in the main event of a nip and tuck card at the Labor temple. The Indianan won the first fall, but he was butted from pillar to post as Jones returned to action and the Negro squared accounts
