BUT still there is a jarring note. Something somewhere that doesn't fit in. A readjustment you haven't yet made.

These buildings are ALL STANDING. There are no rubble heaps, broken only here and there by gaunt steel joints thrusting starkly out like a splintered bone from the crumpled flesh of a leg or an arm.

BY the time you've reached your destination you're in a chastened and humble mood. You reflect with horror on the occasions when you've been narrow and selfish, when you've put your own petty and trifling PERSONAL considerations ABOVE your country's welfare.

Enjoy Day in Eugene—Mrs. A. D. Parr, Mrs. S. J. Cooper and Mrs. O. R. Hess have returned to their homes in Eugene, following a trip to Eugene to visit friends and attend to business.

BETTER RESPONSE NEEDED

By Charles V. Stanton

Solicitors engaged in raising funds for the Roseburg Community Chest report encountering the condition which had been generally feared—contributions in denominations equal to what donors ordinarily would give to a SINGLE charity.

This is a HABIT of giving, formed over a long period of years, during which Roseburg has been solicited by INDIVIDUAL organizations. Unless contributors realize the Community Chest campaign is a COMBINED effort, the drive is very apt to fail of its purpose.

The amounts, of course, differ with various individuals and firms, but let's take for example the $5 man. The solicitor approaches him on behalf of the Salvation Army and receives a donation of $5.

The Community Chest budget DOES include the Campfire Girls, Cancer Control fund, Salvation Army, Roseburg Recreational program, Christmas Cheer fund (which is used for patients in the veterans' hospital) and Boy Scouts.

Seventy per cent of all money raised for the Community Chest will be retained for the six local groups. Of the remaining 30 per cent, going to national and state welfare agencies, the largest participant is the U. S. O., which still has a tremendous job to do on behalf of occupation armies and returning veterans.

Obviously it is impossible to finance 32 organizations with the same amount of money which normally would be received by each, if they conducted separate fund-raising campaigns.

Labor unions, actively supporting the National War Chest, have set up a standard of one hour's pay each month, or a total of 12 hour's pay—a day and a half's work—for the War Chest alone.

The Community Chest program has one important advantage in that it brings in a fairly large sum of money from corporations which would not subscribe to individual campaigns.

Directors of the Community Chest are urging Roseburg people to keep in mind the fact that they must give much larger sums for the COMBINED drive than if they were making their contribution to only ONE organization.

To those who already have made their donations by rule of habit, we suggest that they voluntarily add to the amount a sum reasonably representative of their combined annual contributions and notify Community Chest workers of the increased sum.

The wider, deeper, permanent interests of the nation as a whole. In this chastened mood you tell yourself you aren't ever EVER going to be narrow and selfish and petty at the expense of your country again.

Bowling Leagues Show Good Scores In Late Season

The two Roseburg bowling leagues got away to a belated start this week, but, despite delays in organization, good scores were obtained in the first round of games.

The leagues started late because of the plans for moving the alleys to the new location now being prepared in the Central garage building, opposite the public library on Rose street, but construction work has been delayed because of material shortages and it was decided to start play even though an interruption of two weeks will occur when the change in location is made.

Scores for the first week in the City and Industrial leagues were reported as follows:

Seals Win Series; Sheridan's Bat Is Again Top Factor

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13. (AP)—San Francisco's Seals slammed their way to a third straight Pacific Coast league governor's cup playoff championship last night with a dramatic ninth-inning rally that defeated the Seattle Rainiers 6-5 and gave the Bay City club the series four games out of six.

The victory was the Seals' third in a row over the Rainiers. By annexing the cup for the third year in succession, San Francisco equaled the record of consecutive wins set by Seattle in 1940-41-42.

Harvey of the series was Neil Sheridan, Seal right fielder, who provided the payoff punch for the second straight night.

Trailing by one run going into the last of the ninth, the Seals had knotted the count at five-all and had men on first and second with two away when Sheridan stepped to the plate.

Gray Mask, Lynam Clash Here Tonight; Franco vs. Newton

An evening of wrestling with an all-star cast will be on tap tonight at the Roseburg armory when Sailor Lou Franco meets Chet Newton and the Gray Mask tangles with Joe Lynam in a twin main event wrestling card.

Promoter Elton Owen promises the Roseburg fans one of the best shows ever staged on the Roseburg mat with these two head-line matches. Franco is a local boy who has made good in the wrestling game. His opponent is also a sailor and is stationed at the Corvallis Naval hospital. Newton is no newcomer to the wrestling game. He has plenty of experience behind him both amateur and professional.

The Gray Mask-Lynam bout, which will be second on the program, will probably satisfy the blood-thirsty fans since the Mask in previous appearances in this area has shown little regard for the niceties and courtesies of the game. His favorite tactic is the same as that of the much-hated Rufus Jones. In other words the Mask uses his head for more than thinking and a handle for headlocks. He claims his skill is harder than Jones' and will be out to show it tonight.

The Gray Mask may find himself busy most of the time in trying to elude the crafty Lynam, who was extremely popular in Oregon wrestling circles before the war. Lynam hails from Redmond and showed no qualms about being pitted against the highly touted Gray Mask.

The outfielder came through with a sharp single that brought in Suhr with the winning tally. Thursday night Sheridan powered San Francisco to victory in the last half of the ninth by breaking a 4-4 deadlock with a three-run homer.

Sharing honors with the outfielder and his big bat was Bob Joyce, the league's top winning hurler, who got credit for his third triumph over Seattle in the six games when he took over as relief pitcher in the eighth inning.

Joyce entered the fray without any rest, having tossed the Seals to victory in the previous night. The 30-year-old chucker, who won 31 games during the regular season is headed for the New York Giants next year.
