Indies islands, which have long been ruled from a distance by the Dutch. It occurs to us quite naturally that the British empire doesn't want to see the Dutch empire broken up by revolution.

That might put into people's heads ideas that would be troublesome to Britain.

BUT—We must also remember that in an election that in itself was little short of revolutionary Britain went over to a labor government whose program is distinctly socialistic and as such is opposed to the old ideas of British imperialism.

The British people are as tired of war as we are. They want new houses, new cars, new comforts of living as much as we do. They DON'T want to fight to protect SOMEBODY ELSE'S empire.

Their leaders know that.

SO, until we learn definitely and unmistakably to the contrary, let's concede that the British (probably against their wishes), are merely acting in Java as a POLICEMAN to keep the peace until these red-hot problems that follow in the wake of a great war can be settled in a saner mood.

There is too much suspicion loose in the world already. Let's not add to it by going off at half-cock over possible British motives in the East Indies.

AFTER all, how can you run a world without a policeman? Everybody knows that even a small community can't be run without a police force.

HEAVY shooting war breaks out between the Chungking Chinese and Chinese Communists along the Great Wall of China. Artillery and heavy mortars are used for the first time. Large bodies of both Chungking and Communist troops are deployed in that general area—where the match is certainly close to the powder keg.

WE'RE in a tight spot in this North China area. We have TROOPS there—Marines. Our Navy department says they are there SOLELY to help the Chungking Chinese government obtain the surrender of Jap forces and carry out the Jap surrender terms according to international agreement.

Our General Wedemeyer says that U. S. troops will be out of China by early spring, and adds that our forces are NOT being employed to help the Chungking government against "disident" groups.

MEANWHILE the Chinese Communists are needing us daily—demanding that we GET OUT pronto and insisting that we're backing Chungking.

RUSSIA is the KEY to all of this Chinese trouble. Until we know what Russia WANTS and intends to DO about it, we can't know what the future holds.

We can only HOPE that Russia will turn out all right.

BUT—

We mustn't lose sight wholly of the historical possibility that Russia's leaders (some 4 or 5 million members of the Communist party who RUN ARSOLUTELY a nation of 180 million people) may for their own selfish reasons prefer war to peace.

In PEACE, the 175 million Russian non-Communists might get dissatisfied with AND REVOLT AGAINST their 5 million Com-

THE NEWSPRINT SQUEEZE

By Charles V. Stanton

Now the war is over, a good many people seem to think everything should be normal around a newspaper office. There seems to be increasing opinion that newspapers should have ample space available for any and all kinds of publicity (a kind term for free advertising) and "offerings" grow more and more profuse. We have even received light criticism from purely local sources because we have denied space for lengthy publicity and propaganda "items."

Anyone who believes the war is over, insofar as newspapers are concerned, is badly mistaken. Of course, conditions have improved. The labor shortage is less critical. Machinery and equipment gradually are becoming available, although still difficult to obtain without long delays. But no one has been able to figure out a method for crowding a 12-page newspaper into six pages.

The newsprint shortage remains acute and all indications point to continuation of newsprint restrictions until well into 1946—possibly longer. In fact, a further cut of as much as 20 per cent is entirely possible.

The News-Review is limited strictly to 40 pages per week, if it is to stay within its newsprint quota. This quota is furnished by a federal agency and an advisory board composed of newspaper publishers. The advisory board was set up by the newspaper industry for the purpose of making the fairest possible distribution of short supplies. Thoroughly advised upon prospects for future newsprint production, the advisory board, in communications to newspapers, is definitely pessimistic concerning any material improvement in the near future.

But, apparently, "public relations experts," the men big concerns hire to disguise advertising by giving it news form, aren't bothered in the least by any paper shortage. They seem to have ample supplies with which to fill the country's editorial wastepaper baskets—which, by the way, are usually made oversize just for the particular purpose of holding the large volume of "trash" which an editor must con daily.

We could, for instance, fill up any day's edition of the News-Review with the publicity offerings of automotive concerns, attempting through news columns to exploit advantages of new models now on the market or in process of manufacture. And, as a supplement, we could tell you about all the various fuels, lubricating oils, improved synthetic tires and other items associated with automobiles.

Or, if you're not interested in postwar automotive propaganda, we might concoct an edition from the offerings of scores of new associations, each offering a panacea for the world's political ills, or the copies of speeches by industrialists, politicians, educators, etc., who send advance copies with release dates.

Or we could give you recipes, each with the name of some advertised product neatly "salted" in a not too conspicuous spot. And we could give you dope on linens, synthetic shoe soles, commercial radio programs, wirebound boxes, electrical appliances, excerpts from the encyclopedia, or popular magazines, tips on how to keep your refrigerator running, provided it is manufactured by Blank & Co.; how to use "Sticko" molasses, the latest findings of insurance companies, fadeless ink, or what have you.

But being one of those stubborn, misguided, unreasonable editors who believe in putting news in news space and advertising in advertising space, instead of trying to mix up a typographical hash, we do our best to save our limited columns for the best possible selection of news. When the time comes that we have more paper, we'll print more NEWS.

LETTERS to the Editor

A REAL HOME TOWN

Roseburg is to be congratulated on the fact that it is about to enter on its third season of Community concerts. Its third season of bringing us the opportunity to enjoy and learn from the hearing of some of the greatest music ever, and to bring some of the great musicians of this country and Europe to appear on our own stage here in Roseburg.

It was Sidney Lanier, the poet himself a flute player, who said: "To make a home out of a house—hold, given the raw materials—to wit, wife, children, a friend or two and a house—two other things are necessary. These are a good fire and music. And inasmuch as we can do without the fire half the year, I may say music is the one essential."

And really, what would the home be without music? From the mother's cradle song, down through the merry songs of the little children, the gay songs of the wideawake young folks, the music at school, and the school band! Songs of joy, yes, and songs of sorrow, for music comes from the heart.

But if music, as the poet said, is an essential element in a real home, so certainly is music an essential element in the growing life of a real Home Town. The pleasure and uplift we get out of listening to the world's great music is not all. These are COMMUNITY concerts. Music is a unifying influence. It makes one musical RULERS.

WE hope, more than anything in the world, that Russia's leadership is peaceful. Only with peaceful leadership in Russia can the world hope for lasting peace.

But we can't afford to stake our national future on BLIND HOPE.

WE must be ready to face the FACTS as they develop.

New Quota Fixed For Pork Shipped To Pacific States

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—(AP)—OPA set up yesterday a new quota system limiting shipments of pork and pork products into California, Oregon and Washington.

The purpose, OPA said, is to prevent diversion of these supplies to the West Coast as a result of a reduction in freight rates ordered by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The OPA order limits shipments during each quarterly period to 75 per cent of the volume by weight shipped for civilian consumption in these states during the first three months of 1944.

OPA said this is about the same amount of the West Coast currently is receiving, since pork supplies are considerably less than they were in 1944.

The restriction is not applicable to lard.

The quota is necessary, OPA said, because price ceilings for pork are not being changed as a result of the freight rate cuts.

The quota applies to buyers as well as sellers.

Those not in business during the first three months of 1944 are permitted to use as a base period the first full quarter of 1944 during which they were in operation.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Only one side to our railroad tracks

Folks who are better off in our town live on the west side of the railroad tracks. We've got a lake there, and the local park, and some real nice land.

There used to be a phrase "from the wrong side of the tracks." It meant what you think... but you don't hear it any more. Not since Charlie Jenkins came home with the Purple Heart, and Willie Wells got the Silver Star. There isn't any "wrong side" of the railroad tracks now!

And that change is going on all over America... where our heroes have come from obscure homes... and greatness has overshadowed wealth and shallow social definitions.

From where I sit, it all comes down to tolerance... tolerance for what a man is and does... tolerance for his freedom and opinions, whether he's rich or poor, likes beer or cider, Shakespeare or the comic section. It's a great thing—tolerance!

DIAL-LOG

By SUSAN

Tain't worth it! Every vacation we have knocks our workday schedule for the well-known loop. Not that we're planning a workday for Thanksgiving; it's just that it would be a good idea to have several days instead of one.

Well, tonight at 6:30 you'll hear the last broadcast of the season for Starlight Serenade. Next Thursday our old friend, "Treasure Hour of Song," comes back for the winter. Remember, too, Rogues Gallery and Bulldog Drummond for murderous chills between 8 and 9.

Here's advance notice for Saturday A. M.: Gather round the radio at 11:30 and listen to Opry House if you like good old mountain music (and we do). This is the first broadcast of the new show. The addition of Opry House on Saturdays in this 11:30 until-noon strip makes that the biggest and best half-hour of the day all through the week as far as radio listening is concerned, since that is also Queen for a Day time. Other new programs and program changes are coming along, but we'll tell you about those later. Just remember to listen tonight, tomorrow and Saturday, so you won't miss out on anything.

Gardiner Serviceman Does Provision Duty

PEARL HARBOR, T. H.—William Logan Hedges, chief water tender, USN, Gardiner, Ore., served on the provision ship USS Hyades in the Pacific campaign that brought Japan's surrender.

The record of the Hyades shows she brought more than 14,168 tons of fresh and frozen provisions to the fighting men in the forward areas, representing a year's supply of food for 11,500 men, and including meat, fresh vegetables and fresh fruit. The ship traveled 70,000 miles in the course of her Pacific operations.

Paul Geddes Appointed Governor of State Bar

SALEM, Ore., Nov. 15.—(AP)—The state supreme court today confirmed the appointments of William S. Fort, Eugene, and Paul Geddes, Roseburg, to the board of governors of the state bar. Fort succeeds John Mohr, Hood River, and Geddes replaces Alden E. Miller, Oregon City.

John W. Shuler and Edward J. Clark, both of Portland, were reappointed to the board, with Clark serving as board chairman.

Rent Control Ended

SALEM, Ore., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Salem's rent control, in effect for three years by city ordinance, ended today.

Volcano Believed Active in Rockies

SHEEP CREEK, B. C., Nov. 14.—(AP)—Existence of an active volcano in the Rocky mountains is being considered following a report that Lava has been seen flowing down a mountain side.

Residents of this village, which is 35 air miles northeast of Kimberley in the Kootenay area, have reported a rumbling sound like thunder and a red glow appearing to the northeast over the mountains.

Ted Baker, Sheep Creek resident, said lava has been seen flowing down the mountain side and cattle refused to drink from Sheep Creek because of the presence of volcanic ash. The stream, for which the settlement is named, rises about 30 miles north-east of the village.

The range of mountains in the area has two well known commercially developed hot springs, Radium and Fairmont springs, as well as several lesser known hot springs.

Hungry Japan Appeals to U. S. for Food and Fuel

TOKYO, Nov. 14.—(AP)—Desperately-hungry Japan appealed officially today for allied food and fuel, promising to pay—in installments—by shipments of gold, diamonds, silk and other goods.

General MacArthur's headquarters reported that it was not ready to indicate what the allied answer might be. Japanese minister of commerce Ogasawara announced the formal application for the imports—mostly from America—to stave off threatening famine. He made it clear that Japan's alternatives are simple: barter or die.

Monopoly Charge Hits Artificial Limb Industry

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—(AP)—Attorney General Clark today announced the indictment of 45 corporations, 34 individuals and a trade association on charges of conspiring to fix non-competitive prices for artificial limbs used by amputee cases.

Clark said that the alleged conspiracy "deprived the United States Veterans administration of the opportunity to make artificial limbs for war veterans" and also:

1. Forced the Veterans administration, various state agencies, and war veterans buying limbs direct from manufacturers to pay non-competitive prices.
2. Prevented various charitable institutions from making artificial limbs for indigent amputees free of charge.
3. Impeded and discouraged the development and improvement of the utility and comfort of artificial limbs.
