things like that. We need the whole unvarnished story, no matter what the consequences of telling it might be.

As nearly as can be got at from the dispatches, the communist party in France (which is the largest of the three parties represented in the newly-chosen assembly, but is still a MINORITY of the whole) is demanding ONE of the three big ministries—foreign affairs, interior and war.

De Gaulle has refused to grant their demand. Persons close to him say he won't budge from his decision not to entrust the communists with the nation's foreign affairs, police force or army.

So he has tendered his resignation as interim (temporary) president. DE GAULLE may not be one of the world's great leaders. But he is unquestionably the most popular figure in France—where popular and reasonably trusted public figures are scarce.

It will be interesting to see how he comes out. Most of us will hope (possibly without knowing why) that he manages to save France from communist leadership.

IN Java, one of the world's trouble spots, there is a sign of something better. Leaders of the Indonesian (native) republic are reported to be about to meet with the Dutch governor general "to substitute words and contracts" for the bullets and knives with which the controversy has so far been carried on.

That is at least a hopeful development. What the world needs now is a little rocking of the boat as may be possible under the circumstances.

WHAT is happening in China is still obscure. It will REMAIN obscure until we know what Russia is going to do about it.

MUCH will remain obscure until we know what Russia is going to do about it.

WE simply must keep open minds toward the Russians, giving them the benefit of all possible doubts. But also we must STAY STRONG.

We can't deal successfully with Russia if we permit ourselves to go weak and flabby.

If you follow the stock market, you are aware that another big boom is on.

As to the reasons for the boom, there are two schools of thought. One holds that a long upswing is due and that in spite of delay in reconverting our industrial machine from war to peace an extended period of activity lies ahead.

The other theory is that this bidding up of security prices is merely a reflection of the fact that as we move farther into inflation values have to be quoted in MORE PAPER DOLLARS.

Time will tell.

FIGHTING TUBERCULOSIS

By Charles V. Stanton

Many Douglas county residents have received through the mail this week envelopes containing Christmas Seals, issued by the National Tuberculosis association.

Although the idea originated in Denmark, Christmas Seals have become an American tradition and through them partial control has been gained over "The White Plague," which, at the turn of the century, caused more deaths in the United States than any other disease.

Hope is held out that through the discovery of a new drug of the mold family, the threat of tuberculosis may be removed. But to date this is only a hope and, even should the drug prove to have the miraculous power hoped for, there will still be a long, hard fight to eradicate the disease.

To maintain this fight we must furnish funds, which we can do through the Christmas Seal program.

In spite of astounding progress in control of tuberculosis, the disease still claims more lives in the 15 to 45 age group than any other disease and is responsible for approximately 57,000 deaths each year.

Statistics have not yet been announced, but it is safe to assume that our fight against tuberculosis lost ground during the period of the war. People engaged in war production worked long hours. They exposed themselves to inclement weather, cold, drafty factories, industrial fumes, dust, smoke; they secured insufficient rest, irregular and inadequate meals.

Under such conditions, persons with lower than average vitality became easy victims of the ever present tubercle bacillus.

Money furnished in Oregon through sale of Christmas Seals provided a most effective weapon in combatting the spread of tuberculosis among war workers.

The Oregon Tuberculosis association, with funds obtained from sale of seals, purchased a mobile x-ray survey unit. This piece of equipment, housed in a truck and trailer, went from plant to plant making chest x-ray pictures of workers. Hundreds of cases of tuberculosis were discovered in the early stages—in time to prevent serious illness—in time to enable complete recovery.

Now, with war production slackening off, the survey unit is traveling the state of Oregon furnishing a free service to every community and every individual. This unit will be in Douglas county early in December. All possible cooperation should be given to secure examination of as many persons as possible.

No person should neglect an opportunity to detect possible presence of infection. The tubercle bacillus is ever present. When bodily resistance becomes low, infection may start and may remain undetected for a long period. If early diagnosis is obtained, complete recovery is assured in the great majority of cases, as a result of modern methods of treatment.

The mobile survey unit, therefore, is accomplishing a most worthwhile work of lifesaving by making available to everyone, without cost, an examination which will disclose infection before it has a chance to cause serious bodily damage.

This work is financed through the sale of Christmas Seals. It is only one of the many important activities of the National Tuberculosis association, the State association and community public health groups in combatting the disease. Out of each dollar raised through sale of Christmas Seals, 95 cents is retained within the area where the contribution was made, with five cents going into the national fund for administration and research. Certainly, here is a program in which we can all cooperate with pride.

30 Turkeys Given Away At Winchester Shoot

In the first turkey shoot since the war, at Winchester Sunday, the Roseburg Rod and Gun club gave away 30 birds as prizes to more than 125 shooters in one of the most successful meets ever held by the club, and plans were announced for Sunday shoots as weather and supply of ammunition will permit.

Because of rainy weather, a large delegation expected from the coast failed to arrive.

Arrangements for yesterday's contest were by John Amacher, president and Bruce Yeager, secretary; Fred Kuck was captain of the shoot.

The club is hoping to obtain land as a permanent shooting range, according to Yeager.

Catholic Bishops Score Russian "Persecution"

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—(AP)—The nation's Catholic bishops contend Russia is imposing its sovereignty and "ruthlessly setting up helpless puppet states" in eastern and southeastern Europe.

Their statement, issued Saturday at the conclusion of the bishops' annual conference here, also said that "religious persecution which is both brutal and cunning rages in many lands" in that area.

The statement criticized the "absorption by force and artifice of the Baltic countries into the Union of Soviet Republics."

Home and Drier Destroyed By Fire At Myrtle Creek

MYRTLE CREEK.—Fires last week destroyed the home occupied by Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Klumbach and a walnut drier owned by W. R. Patterson.

Mr. and Mrs. Klumbach, who had been residing in a home on the Herman Wardrip place on South Myrtle creek, lost all of their household goods in the blaze. They were assisted in finding a house on the Pallard place, recently vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Brownson.

A benefit dance Saturday night at the I. O. O. F. hall and assistance from women's groups of the Myrtle Creek churches will aid the Klumbach family in refurbishing their home.

The Patterson drier, located on the Hohenstein property on the cemetery road, was completely destroyed, together with contents Thursday.

Rally day was celebrated Sunday at the Myrtle Creek Christian church. Among out of town visitors were Lloyd James, pastor at Riddle; Misses Lois Rasar and Mary-Lou Barth, Riddle; Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Wood, Roseburg.

The speaker was Eldon Wood, recently pastor at Carlton, where he served for the past 13 years. He is the eldest son of Mrs. J. T. Wood, Myrtle Creek.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Jackson, the latter the former Blanche Alcock, who were married at Reno, Nev., Nov. 8, have occupied the residence at Howland and Cedar streets.

A family reunion was held recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Powell to celebrate the return of their three sons, Leo, Dorwin and Dean, who recently were discharged from the army. Also present were their two daughters, Mrs. Richardson and her five children from Cot-

Has anyone got an apartment?" Karbel says the baby is expected around Christmas. He and his wife came here seven months ago from Miami, Fla.
