Important Job Handed Farm Committeeman

One of the first big jobs of 1946 farmer committeemen now being chosen at AAA election meetings in 300 Oregon communities will be to survey the conservation needs of agriculture in every community. The results of the survey will be used to develop conservation practice programs for a direct attack on soil and water problems and on the job of building back into the soil the fertility that was sent to war during the past four years of all-out production. In addition to gearing the practice program direct to needs of local communities and individual farms, the summary will be used in allocating funds to counties for practice payments—the means through which the gov-
