In the Day's News

GENERAL MARSHALL arrives in Shanghai. As his plane lands, the Chinese Communists ask the Chungking government for an IMMEDIATE, UNCONDITIONAL cessation of hostilities. A Chinese Communist party spokesman in Manchuria expresses "sincere hopes of reaching a compromise with the Kuomintang (Chungking-Chiang Kai-Shek) party."

THE Chinese Reds, who were cussing us up one side and down the other a few weeks ago, are now going out of their way to speak softly and conciliatingly to us.

IT'S unfortunate that we have to do all this guessing about the foreign policies our sons and grandsons may have to die for. A truly MODERN American foreign policy would explain IN ADVANCE what the American people are being committed to.

FOR the present, let's give these Chinese Communists the benefit of the doubt and HOPE they mean what they say—that they want to get civil war stopped and get to work building a NEW China that will be a TREMENDOUS customer of the United States.

LARRY TIGHE, Tokyo correspondent of the American Broadcasting Company (formerly the Blue network), reports what looks like a showdown with the Russians over Japan.

He quotes MacArthur as having refused to permit them to bring in an ARMY, limiting them instead to a DIVISION. They then insisted that they be allowed to occupy Hokkaido, northernmost Jap island, and again MacArthur said NO—that they could occupy only Kyushu, the southernmost island, where there were no American forces to the NORTH of them.

IF this story turns out to be accurate, it is immensely interesting. This writer's snap judgment (for whatever it is worth) is that we'd better keep the Russians out of Japan. We're having trouble enough with JOINT occupation of Germany.

THAT STAR STILL SHINES

A CHRISTMAS MEDITATION By Dr. Charles A. Edwards

"And the Star which they saw in the East went before them till it came and stood where the young child was. And when they saw the star they rejoiced with exceeding great joy."

Among the many symbols associated with the birth of Christ, none seems more appropriate or beautiful than the Star. Even the tinsel stars which adorn Christmas trees seem to evoke admiration and delight from both young and old.

The Magi set out on the supreme quest by the light of a star that did not fail. It guided their footsteps till the quest ended, and the light of the Star was lost in the glory that shone from the child who was born a king.

Centuries roll by and kingdoms rise and wane; civilizations rise, flourish and pass away, but always the silent stars look down. They are universal, and all men can gaze upon them.

From each of the five points of the star we catch a beam and learn its message of truth and beauty. 1. THE STAR OF HOPE. It is not difficult to discern the first faint beam of hope which shone in the hearts of the men from afar as they pondered over the ancient promises.

2. THE STAR OF PATIENCE. But hope alone must eventually lose some of its brilliance as the goal remains hidden from sight. Continued disappointment and frustration will cause it to wane or flicker like a candle in a storm.

3. THE STAR OF FAITH. In these days of rays, beneficial and dangerous, we have come to know that different rays possess different qualities. In our star we find the same principle. The beam of faith is energizing and produces activity.

4. THE STAR OF COURAGE. Men cannot long follow a gleam of active faith without meeting opposition. The journey of the Wise Men in following the star eventually led them into danger both for themselves and for the Child.

5. THE STAR OF DIVINE LOVE. Sinister and threatening forces are as active today as ever. It is not easy to follow Christ in this world of ours. But that beam will shine on and inspire to suffer and sacrifice.

The wonder of the story is the fact that the Star still shines. It was not a transient gleam which guided the Wise Men over hill and dale. The King they found was not one whose reign or glory passes with things that are mortal.

It can rise to even an approximation of American standards of living is a problem. Our standards are founded upon great NATURAL wealth, plus HUGE PRODUCTION based upon intelligent utilization of machinery and power.

Some 300,000 Jap school teachers (who must have been reading the American papers) have filed a petition asking the Jap government for a 500% INCREASE in their salaries.
