garian government will be recognized by the United States and Britain, which have so far been holding back.

AMERICANS in general are not greatly concerned with peace settlements in the Balkans, but RUSSIA IS. The Balkans are as much a part of Russia's sphere of influence as the Western Hemisphere is of ours.

What we want, above everything else, is to get the world back onto an OPERATING basis. Settlement of the Balkan disagreements will help in that direction.

FROM London comes a significant statement that a five-power meeting of military leaders is expected to take place in JANUARY to discuss establishment of the International PEACE PRESERVATION FORCE contemplated by the United Nations charter.

If there is to be international co-operation to prevent war, there must be an international police force of some sort—for human nature is not yet perfect enough to be good without police pressure.

GENERAL WEDEMAYER, U. S. commander in China, says: "Plans for moving more Chinese government armies into Manchuria are under consideration."

That sounds like the green light for unifying China and getting her back to work.

THE speed with which these developments are beginning to get under way suggests that the whole program of reorganizing the world was held up by lack of agreement among the United States, Britain and Russia and that FULL AGREEMENT was finally reached at Moscow.

THE world is moving forward to JAPAN, where the "New Japan Women's Party" has just been formed. It is small in numbers, but expects to have some candidates in the forthcoming Japanese elections.

The new Social Democratic party of Japan has just come out for equal rights for women.

IN Portland, some 4000 Japanese men, women and children sail for Japan aboard an American ship. Most of them had requested repatriation (return of their Jap citizenship). A few were being deported.

A considerable number of them, the dispatches tell us, "sailed in the FIRM belief that they are going back to a VICTORIOUS homeland." One of the repatriates, a Jap from Stockton, told the reporters: "The majority of these people really think Japan WON THE WAR. They think what they read in the papers is just propaganda and that Japan is actually FORCING the United States to return us as a part of the peace conditions."

NO CONFLICT OF INTEREST

By Charles V. Stanton

The Eugene Sportsmen's club has published a tabloid paper, "This High Dam Business," which is being circulated throughout the state, protesting high dams which would destroy recreational values in the Columbia and Willamette Basins.

Publication of the tabloid at Eugene follows a very complete and interesting study, "Wealth of the River," covering the proposed Columbia River development. A 60-page booklet, "Table Mountain Dam, A Public Liability," recently made its appearance in Northern California.

Thus there is evidence that the general public is rousing itself to protect its natural resources against "make-work" federal projects which would be of damage rather than benefit.

One factor in this "dam" fight we believe should be dragged into the open. A deliberate attempt is in the making to set farmers and sportsmen at one another's throats for the purpose of building up local fights to divert opposition from federal agencies endeavoring to protect their existence by forcing expensive and useless public works upon the country.

Farmers rightfully are interested in cheap power, irrigation, flood control, etc. Propaganda from federal bureaus would lead to the belief that the old adage, "you can't get something for nothing," is untrue and that all these high dams, public power units, irrigation projects, and other dreams of engineers and economy planners, can be had without cost.

Sportsmen contend that high dams are not necessary at every site where a high dam could be built, and that objectives can be achieved at far less cost and without destroying recreational and scenic resources.

Actually there is no conflict between sportsmen and farmers, except as friction has been deliberately created through propaganda. No sportsmen's organization, we believe, would oppose a high dam if it could be shown that the benefits to be derived would be greater than the destruction to be wrought by the proposed project.

On the other hand, we do not believe our farmers, already tax-ridden, desire useless expenditures of funds, or destruction of any recreational resources which can be preserved, while, at the same time achieving a maximum benefit to agriculture.

The entire question revolves around determination of values.

If, as sportsmen contend, low dams will serve the purpose of irrigation more cheaply than high dams with expensive distribution canal systems, then, certainly, farmers would be in agreement with the policy of low dams in preference to more expensive high dams. If high dams can be built on tributary streams, or outside recreational areas without destroying fisheries, homesites and scenic values, yet serve the purposes of cheap power, we do not believe farmers would insist upon a dam which would destroy recreational values without providing additional benefits.

We must determine whether increased property valuations and income, resulting from development projects, will offset taxes and operating and maintenance costs. We must ascertain whether recreational values of an affected area are being unnecessarily endangered by the "damitis" malady from which our engineers appear to be suffering.

We know personally a great many of the leaders in sportsmen's organizations, men who are taking an active part in combatting the proposals to stick a dam in every stream where a dam site exists. But not one of those men, we are certain, would oppose any project in which public welfare would be more greatly benefitted by dam construction than by preservation of existing recreational resources.

Lumber Plants in Klamath District Again in Operation

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore., Jan. 2.—(FAS)—Wheels turned today in several AFL lumber plants in the Klamath Basin district, council area, after a three months strike shutdown.

Operations were resumed this morning in the box factory and planing mill of the major Klamath Falls mill involved in the strike—the Big Lakes Box Company. The mill proper will hum tomorrow.

Kalpine Plywood Company of Klamath Falls and the Ralph L. Smith Lumber Company plants at Klamath Falls, Canby and Alturas went back to work, as did the Associated Lumber and Box Plant at Dorris. All AFL operations at Lakeview were cleared for action, and AFL headquarters here said that work resumption would be generally effected through the area within two or three days.

gional strike, had expressed its disapproval of the Klamath Basin settlement, but the council's frowns thus far have not affected ratification by local unions. Where meetings have been held, ratification has been voted. Weed Plant Still Idle. A remaining trouble point is at Weed, Calif., where the big Long Bell Company's sash, door and plywood operations are still involved in a wage issue. The Pine Industrial Relations Committee, Inc. which represented employers in the strike settlement, was not authorized to bargain for the sash, door and plywood units at Weed, but did represent the Weed Mill and Box Factory. Unionists here said it is possible the Weed locals will not be willing to return to work in the mill and box factory until the situation with respect to the sash, door and plywood units is settled.

Disappointed With 1945, Girl Carries Out Suicide Pact

WILMINGTON, Calif., Jan. 3.—(FAS)—"A year ago exactly," read the note Mrs. Mildred Johnson tore open yesterday. "I made this sort of agreement, or bargain, with God, or fate—or something."

"I agreed that if something did not happen in 1945 to make life worth living, that at the end of the year I'd quit living. That wasn't asking too much, but I did not get it. I can't see any happiness ahead for me so I'm hoping and praying that I succeed tonight."

In the garage, Mrs. Johnson found the body of her daughter, Wanda Williams, 18, a telephone operator, hanging from a rafter. Police Sgt. H. N. Corredge listed the death as suicide.

"Please don't think this is something brought on by late events," the note added. "It isn't. Suicide is a coward's way out so I'm a coward. I don't have the courage it takes to just go on existing."

It gave explicit instructions for the girl's funeral and disposition of her possessions.

"I don't have any special requests, like boogie-woogie and gardenias, like I used to kid about, with this exception—for God's sake don't put a pink dress on me," she wrote.

In a postscript she added: "If you ever hear from Bill, tell him I would have liked to have known the truth about him—it might give me a laugh."

The latter, her mother said, referred to a 23-year-old Marine who disappeared soon after she met him.
