out by those countries. There was no racial trouble in Spain. The Jews weren't persecuted here, nor was any other religion. There is religious freedom for all in Spain.

Advance Must Be Gradual
"Do you subscribe to the political views of Hitler and Mussolini?" I persisted.

He replied emphatically that he did not, and then said in amplification:

"Spain went through a bad civil war, and after such a conflict the country must proceed carefully. It can't jump to another regime haphazardly. "Are you headed for absolute democracy, that is, rule by the people?" I asked.

"Yes," he answered. "But we must proceed slowly, step by step, until the people are properly prepared."
Spain, he continued, had some 20 parties under the late republic, and "foreign countries" got control of Spain's policies. Franco didn't identify the "foreign countries." But the connotation was clear enough. He was referring to Communism. He added that this couldn't happen after the revolution which overthrew the republic. He was, of course, the leader of that revolt.

Missionary From Thailand to Speak in Roseburg Church

The Rev. Horace W. Ryburn, Presbyterian missionary to Thailand, will speak tonight in the First Presbyterian Church. A potluck dinner will be held at 6:45. Mr. Ryburn, who has been a missionary since 1938, taught at Prince Royal's College in Chiang-mai, Thailand. The school was christened in 1906 by Prince Maha Vajiravudh, the then crown prince. Comparable to American second-year high schools, and a leader in sports, this school was one of its permitted by the Thai government to give its own examinations.

Mr. Ryburn ministered to a small church in a nearby village. He also was editor of the Thai Outlook, a quarterly publication in English.

Flees Jap Invasion
When the Japanese occupied Bangkok in December, 1941, Mr. Ryburn and other missionaries hoped to go on with their work in the interior, unmolested. When it appeared that Thailand could no longer maintain her sovereignty, Mr. Ryburn was part of the hurried caravan that traveled across the Thai-Burma border, riding by truck and ox cart, or tramping over dusty roads, through foaming rivers and along treacherous jungle trails. The refugees boarded a blacked-out troopship in Rangoon amidst a Japanese air raid and returned to the United States in three months, a trip ordinarily accomplished in five weeks.

Mr. Ryburn is a graduate of Davidson College, North Carolina, and of Princeton Theological Seminary. He took graduate work at Teachers' College, Tennessee; Duke University, Cambridge University, England, and Tubingen University, Germany.

dispute was reached by Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen leaders and officials of the three roads.

The strike was scheduled despite President Truman's appointment of an emergency mediation board but it was called off shortly before the deadline after, a union spokesman said, the roads had agreed to set up a panel to negotiate with its grievance committee. The Brotherhood had charged the roads with contract violations.

New Parleys Scheduled
In Detroit, the CIO United Auto Workers Union planned to resume wage negotiations with Ford Motor Company and Chrysler Corporation. In the General Motors strike, now in its ninth week with 175,000 idle, the company and union made no move to resume talks on the union's demands for a 30 per cent wage increase.

The steel strike resulted in another 14,000 workers being added to the country's list of idle, boosting the total away from work because of labor disputes to approximately 1,635,000. The workers were employed in 52 coal mines in West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Alabama which were forced to close. Other related industries were threatened with curtailing operations or closing.

Oregon Declared Facing Worst Liquor Shortage

Army Demobilization Program Submitted

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—(AP)—A nine-point program calling for speedy demobilization of the Army was submitted today by the Senate Military Affairs Subcommittee which investigated the matter after recent protest demonstrations by soldiers.

"The real answer to all complaints about demobilization is a quick return to a voluntary Army," the subcommittee advised in its report.

The senators said that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Army chief of staff, favors the volunteer system and they added in the report:

"It can be done. It must be done. An Impressed Army in peacetime is not sound and will not work."

strike in the absence of legislation supporting his fact-finding and "cooling off" procedure. The steel strike, he continued, is not in the public interest.

The public interest requires that the steel industry settle its dispute with the CIO Steelworkers' union on a basis of the increase he suggested.

Legislation Withheld
A reporter asked what he meant in saying the government should assert itself further in labor disputes.

The president replied he had not seen fit to give him. At the present time, the president said, he didn't see how the steel workers could return to their jobs unless the management accepted his proposal.
