Iran can be arranged by means of DIRECT negotiations with Russia this danger can be bypassed—for the time being, anyway.

IT IS quite possible that Iran may have realized that in addition to upsetting UNO's apparent here at the beginning of the great international experiment she would be likely to lose in the long run in any conflict with big Russia.

Whatever else may be said of it, that would be REALISTIC thinking.

WE MUST be careful not to accept any of these international MAYBES as accomplished facts. Favorable developments today can be upset by unfavorable developments tomorrow.

ON THE disturbed home front, Ford makes a settlement with the union—reported as these words are written to be an increase of 18c an hour, amounting to an up of 15.1%.

THE government seized 134 struck packing plants, AFL (with 55,000 workers involved) agreed to work in the plants pending a settlement.

THERE is at least an interesting (whether hopeful or not remains to be seen) development in the meat strike.

The government seized 134 struck packing plants, AFL (with 55,000 workers involved) agreed to work in the plants pending a settlement.

Thus again we get PRODUCTION RESUMED.

IN OUR complicated modern society, it is hard to understand clearly that our cherished ideals of prosperity and rising living standards can be realized only by means of increased production based upon what the experts term "increasing technological efficiency" — which in simple words means more output per man hour.

Money has been tangled up in the situation so long that we have come to think of money as wealth—which it is not.

OVER and over, in Europe during the past summer, this writer saw people STARVING with their pockets full of money. BECAUSE OF LACK OF PRODUCTION OF THINGS.

That sight shakes one down to fundamentals as nothing else can.

OPINIONS BY "EXPERTS"

By Charles V. Stanton

A convention of sportsmen is one place where every man in attendance is an "expert," Governor Earl Snell declared in addressing the Oregon Wildlife Federation at its state meeting in Corvallis last week.

Instead of basing wildlife experiments upon predominant opinions of untrained but observant and sincere sportsmen, we are now seeking to learn facts, through surveys and studies by thoroughly trained men.

Heretofore our sportsmen's organizations have gone before commissions with their opinions and have urged certain policies, simply because it was believed, from observation, that such policies would be effective.

Sportsmen, in discussing issues before the convention, recognized that many desired improvements will be delayed by taking time for studies and surveys before issuing regulations.

There was one definite exception to the policy of awaiting scientific study before taking action, the exception relating to House Bill 378, which will come before the people of Oregon at the November election.

Taking advantage of the existing program of scientific approach to game management problems, opponents of H. B. 378 are urging delay in any controls on net fishing until surveys are completed.

The state convention of the Oregon Wildlife Federation was significant in its spirit of cooperation. Although, as do most "experts," delegates differed upon certain issues, they were unanimous in demands for protection of Oregon's recreational resources.

Faster Return of Troops is Planned

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Secretary of War Patterson said yesterday he believes it will be possible to speed up the withdrawal of U. S. troops from the India-Burma and Middle East theaters and discharge all men now there prior to the previously set June 30 deadline.

Patterson, just back from a globe-girdling inspection trip of Army installations, said that only a few hundred men will be retained from air transport operations in the India-Burma and Middle East theaters.

He said also that negotiations are in progress looking to dispatch of a British commonwealth force, including Australians, to assist in the occupation of Japan, under command of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Asked about a report that 40,000 Australians and possibly other troops would be sent to Japan to reinforce American forces, he said that neither the proposed speedup of evacuation of the "secondary theaters" nor the proposed British commonwealth reinforcements in Japan would have an "appreciable effect" on War Department estimates of a total Army force of 1,500,000 needed by June 30.

Social Club for World 2 Veterans Planned Here

Organization of a social club for veterans of World War II will be undertaken at a meeting called for 7:30 P. M. at the Roseburg Armory Wednesday, it was announced today by A. C. Kennerly, Jr., home service secretary of the Douglas County Red Cross chapter.

Plans tentatively outlined, Kennerly states, call for formation of a club to sponsor dinners, dances, recreation and entertainment for veterans and their ladies. All veterans of the late war are invited to participate in Wednesday night's meeting, he states.

OSC Cagers Trim Cougars, 50 to 48

PULLMAN, Wash., Jan. 29.—(AP)—Oregon State Collegees moved into a first place tie with Washington in northern division basketball standings last night as they defeated Washington State 50 to 48.

Despite repeated attacks by the great Gale Bishop, the Beavers nudged out a last-five-second victory when Bob Bayless, a second string WSC forward, intercepted an Oregon State pass, dribbled the length of the floor, then missed an easy setup with no one near him just as the gun ended the game.

The victorious Beavers ganged up on the mighty Bishop, swarming all over him every time he got the ball, and cut his scoring top down to eight points.

The game got off to a good Cougar start, with the Washington State men grabbing an early 21-9 lead. The Beavers chewed this down to a halftime difference of 27-22 with WSC still in front, again the Beavers chopped their way forward, holding the marker to a 30-30 tie. When there was a scant ten minutes of game left the score was again tied 40-40.

The OSC gang took the scoring lead from then on, never going behind again.

Jaywalkers Are Fined to Swell March of Dimes

Roseburg policemen, in their own observance of the March of Dimes, nabbed 81 jaywalkers crossing Jackson street Saturday, and took them to Justice of the Peace Thomas C. Hartfield, who had set up his court behind a table in front of the J. C. Penney store.

The fines, which Hartfield imposed, usually a dollar, or whatever small change the offenders had in their pockets, went to the March of Dimes.

The jaywalkers were stopped during a two-hour period early Saturday afternoon by most of the police force, which had been assigned to the job.

"Most of the people took it in good grace," Hartfield said, "and when they saw friends across the way, hailed them to come over. They got a kick out of seeing their friends get caught, too."

Only one man got as sore as the devil, and asked, "What kind of a racket is this?"

The police, whose idea it was to arrest the jaywalkers, first asked City Recorder A. J. Geddes to levy the fines. But since no city ordinance covers this offense, Hartfield consented to play the role.

Grants Pass squads were continually exchanging the lead between them, but at the end Grants Pass was ahead.

At half-time, in the ninth grade contest, Roseburg held the lead, 14-10, but during the second half, Grants Pass gained. Third quarter score in the eighth grade contest found Roseburg ahead, 21-16, but Grants Pass managed to take the game.

Medford comes here Friday to play the Roseburg Junior High School teams, Turner said.

Three persons were injured, none seriously, when an auto collided with a slow-moving freight train here last night.
