Dawson, Achiu to Wrestle in Next Headliner Here

Douglas county wrestling followers have been demanding that Matchmaker Don Owen uncover some grappler capable of defeating Bull Dawson, the villainous Alaskan who has been walloping some of the best matmen in the Northwest during recent weeks.

Owen believes he found the answer when he asked for volunteers to take on Dawson in the headline attraction of next Saturday's show at the Roseburg Armory—with a bonus of $100 coming from a victory over the rough-and-tumble matman.

Professional wrestlers are great at listening to the sound of money, but it was surprising that only one man volunteered to take the assignment—Walter "Sneeze" Achiu.

Although Achiu has been barnstorming around the nation's mats for years and years and no longer possesses the zip and stamina of a youngster, he is confident he can stop Dawson with jiu-jitsu.

Both Achiu and Dawson were on last week's card. Wait, defeating Marty Petroff and Dawson winning a technical decision when Paavo Katonen was unable to return because of a badly cut eye.

Regardless of the outcome, the match is certain to be a knockdown and drag-out affair in which the blood will likely flow freely.

Owen has arranged a sparkling preliminary bout, booking Al Szasz and Pierre LaBelle in a rematch. The two mat artists fought a sensational draw on last Saturday's program and local grappling railbirds will welcome the return engagement with enthusiasm.

Suit for Damages Before Jury Here

First case to come before the jury yesterday in the opening of circuit court here, was a civil action for damages growing out of an alleged assault and battery.

This action last week was listed fourth on the docket for hearing before the jury. Three out-of-court settlements last week and yesterday placed this case, Frank Campbell vs. E. J. Smith, first on the docket yesterday morning.

Six men and six women are on the jury hearing testimony in the case. Campbell and Smith are both Myrtle Creek residents, and Campbell is seeking damages for injuries he claims resulted from a fight with Smith last autumn.

On the jury are: Jessie May Jackson, Gard Sagerberg, Mattie Jackson, W. H. Northcraft, Duane Phipps, Minnie Easton, E. L. Maher, Loreen Allen, A. E. Rice, H. A. Taylor, Edna P. Coen and Delbert N. Poole.

World War 2 Vets Set County as Roster Boundary

Sixty veterans of World War II showed up last night for the third meeting of their new organization. They are to meet every Monday night until the election of permanent officers. It was decided to limit membership in the group to Douglas County only. Next Tuesday, a dance is planned for wives and friends of the club in the new VFW cocktail lounge, and all World War II veterans are invited.
