pressure may go as far as to upset the Iranian government that is insisting on submission of the dispute to UNO and replace it with a pro-Russian government.

That would stymie UNO—for, if Iran officially says she LIKES the Russians and is perfectly satisfied with whatever they may want to do, UNO would no longer have any say in the matter; would, in fact, be BUTTING INTO Iran's affairs.

Therefore —

It is a fair guess that Russia wants the 16-day delay in order to give her more time to bring about such an upset.

It is an equally fair guess that our State Department wants immediate action by UNO in order to forestall such a move on Russia's part.

PRESIDENT TRUMAN, incidentally, takes occasion to say that he is NOT seeking another meeting of the BIG THREE. He adds that UNO is "supposed" to take over the problems that formerly were discussed (and presumably settled) by the Big Three.

That makes a certain amount of sense. Anyone can see that UNO WON'T WORK if individual big nations are to be allowed to grab individual little nations at will.

If that is to be permitted, we might as well lay UNO to rest now alongside the departed League of Nations and admit that international co-operation to bring about a more peaceful world is hopeless.

LET'S stay clear-eyed as to this whole matter.

No reasonably intelligent person can overlook the fact that if Russia, by some high-class finagling backed by force in the BACKGROUND, should succeed in bringing about a change of government in Iran that would result in Iran's ASKING for Russian intervention in her affairs, it might get us over a dangerous spot. There can be no denying that if that happened a lot of us would heave a sigh of relief.

But the relief would be only TEMPORARY. There would still remain for settlement the MUCH TOUCHIER problem of Turkey and the Dardanelles — and the Turks (possibly egged on by the British) seem to have their dander up. They say they'll fight at the drop of a hat if Russia starts reaching for these strategic straits that have caused so much trouble since the world began.

So, you see, it may be better for us to bring the whole matter to a head NOW.

THERE is a lot of discontent with the conduct of our foreign affairs—which seems to be getting us into MORE trouble instead of getting us out of trouble. This discontent is levelled at Truman and his State Department.

Part of the discontent is genuine. Part of it is POLITICAL — for under our system the outs seek to discredit the ins. If you are wise, you will discount the political discontent that is being stirred up.

The proof of the pudding will be the eating thereof. If Truman and Byrnes succeed in HANDLING the Russians in such a way as to AVOID WAR NOW and gain Russian friendship and confidence later we will be all for them.

About all we can do now is to wait and see.

DEFIANCE NOT JUSTIFIED

By CHARLES V. STANTON

The threat by Douglas County milk producers, as reported by Louis Nichols, president of their association, to arbitrarily raise milk prices unless the OPA takes action by March 25, probably will not result in any such drastic action. The announced plan of producers, however, has attracted widespread interest and attention, and has caused the OPA to issue a warning, "that it is the job of OPA to enforce the price regulations as they are set up."

Countering Nichols' declaration that they "can't put all of us in jail," the OPA indicates that there are other methods of meeting the situation, such as injunctions and penalties for overcharges.

But there is another, and purely local, aspect which probably would operate automatically to prevent an arbitrary price increase or a milk strike by producers from becoming effective.

Considerably more than one-half of all the milk sold in the Roseburg area, distributors report, comes from Josephine and Coos counties. Those counties have a surplus of milk, while Douglas County has a shortage. Distributors buy this milk for 92 cents, the same price paid producers in the Roseburg area, and the outside producers pay the cost of transporting milk to Roseburg, which thereby reduces their margin of profit. Distributors report they are advised additional supplies are available in both the neighboring counties to offset any cut in local deliveries.

Arbitrary action in establishing local prices in direct defiance to OPA would, we believe, be ill advised. It is true our producers and distributors used such tactics on one previous occasion and got away with it. But they might run into serious complications if they tried it a second time.

It may come to the point where general revolt will be necessary eventually to throw off shackles of regimentation. As our forefathers once fought for freedom from a dictatorial government, levying tribute in taxes and goods and binding the people by regulation, so insurrection may again become the only weapon available to rid ourselves of a bureaucracy that throttles free enterprise, full production and full employment.

But rebellion is the last resort, not the first. No revolt could possibly be justified while such great numbers of our people still believe that removal of controls would constitute disaster. We still maintain a democratic government in form, if not in practice. We have recourse to democratic process of the ballot and through our representatives in Congress. We have courts in which to challenge infringement of constitutional rights.

Personally, we have lost a great deal of faith in our politically-dominated federal court system. Too many decisions, in our opinion, are based upon political expediency, rather than sound constitutional interpretation.

But milk producers, we feel, have a particularly good opportunity to show direct violation of state's rights in the present OPA control on milk, in which government executive decree is made to supersede a system established by the people through their legislative assembly. The producers' organization, we believe, should attempt a test suit of this issue in our courts, utilizing established, constitutional methods of presenting a grievance, rather than taking any defiant steps which might lead to serious consequences.

Pepper, Ball Debate Proposal to Smash Atom Bomb Plants

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP) Senator Pepper said today those who cry "communism" at the sound of a kind word for Russia are blocking the most direct road toward an enduring peace.

The Florida senator told reporters he regards as part of "the current pattern of attack" assertions made by Senator Ball (R.-Minn.) in opposing Pepper's suggestion that this country destroy its atom bombs and go into a Big Three meeting with "clean hands."

Ball said in a Senate speech yesterday that the American Communist party is "beating the drums" against an atomic control bill amendment which he described as "a minimum safeguard to national security" but which Pepper had criticized in his foreign policy address on Tuesday.

"I suspected that would be the first form of attack," Pepper said today. "You can be anti-Russian and be a good American but if you have a kind word to say for Russia you are called a Communist."

Asserting that his proposals "came from my own heart," Pepper added that he considers it "neither fair nor good judgment" to proceed on the premise that no agreement can be reached with Russia.

"Only by a reconciliation of opinion between the United States, Great Britain and Russia can we obtain lasting peace," he said.

Warns of Impatience

Ball told his colleagues that destruction of this nation's atomic bombs and the plants in which they are made as suggested by Pepper would commit the United States to a policy of appeasement because of its resulting impotence.

Russia still has an estimated 10,000,000 men under arms, and her armies are occupying Iran in violation of a treaty and threatening Turkey, the Minnesotan said. "No one knows what secret weapons Russia has developed or is producing behind her iron curtain of isolation.

"On the other hand, the United States has demobilized so rapidly that our Navy, Army and Air Force are declared by our own military leaders to be relatively impotent. What Senator Pepper proposes is that we strip ourselves of the only real military power we possess, the atomic bomb, and then confer with Russia about future security and peace."

DAILY DEVOTIONS

DR. CHARLES A. EDWARDS

One day John Ruskin saw some mud beside a little stream and scooping up a handful he took it to his laboratory to analize it. For Ruskin was a scientist as well as an art critic. He found in the mud four things—sand, clay, carbon, water—and in these he discovered four potentialities. In the sand the potential sapphire; in the clay, the opal; in the carbon, the diamon; and in the water, the potential snowflake. Likewise, in every life there are opposite poles—the actual and the potential. Take Peter, when Andrew brought him to Christ, now unpromising he appeared! Yet Jesus, with that intuition which knows men said, "Thou art Simon thou shall be called Cephus. A rock." And Peter, after his denial of his Lord became the fearless preacher at Pentecost. St. Paul is always reminding us that sinners can become saints. Christ knows your potentialities. If you will receive Him as Master of your life, He will give you power to become—to reach the highest position, to become a son of God; Jesus said, "Come ye after Me, and I will make you." Are we willing to be brought into the fullness of God? —Amen.

Rotary Holds Memorial For Mrs. George West

The meeting of the local Rotary Club on Thursday was given over entirely to a memorial service for Mrs. George (Evelyn) West, who, until the time of the illness which resulted in her death, was very active in the affairs of the Rotaryanns. All regular business of the club was dispensed with for the day. Following the regular luncheon Dr. Morris Roach spoke briefly. A vocal solo by Leroy Hiatt concluded the program. The club meeting was adjourned without ceremony.

House Moving Job Here Carried Out In Smooth Manner

Removal of the big house on South Stephens Street, south of the Rose Hotel parking lot, was completed last night. In the next 90 days, many more houses along S. Stephens Street will be moved to clear the way for the erection of business buildings, Ben Doerksen, house mover said.

Just as soon as they can get to it, the Shoemaker brothers plan to start their building on the site of the big house which was first to be moved, Dr. B. R. Shoemaker said.

Doerksen, who came here recently from Salem, has contracted to clear 800 feet of frontage on South Stephens Street. Some of the houses he has purchased, and some he is moving for their owners. Construction is Doerksen's major business, he said, but at present he is taken up with house moving.

To move his houses, Doerksen employs a specially constructed cradle mounted in front on tires taken from Douglas transport planes, and in back with tracsk that run continuously over planks laid over the pavement. At no time, Doerksen said, does anything but rubber come in contact with the street.

No Damage in Lifting

The Shoemaker house which he moved yesterday was lifted from its foundations—ordinarily the hardest part of the job—without a crack appearing in the plaster walls upstairs, he said. Big jacks were used for this part of the job; then 16-inch by 16-inch timbers were winched under the house to give it support.

The house was in South Stephens Street all afternoon. It was eased over the sidewalk and curbing in the early afternoon. Once the turn was made into the street, the house rolled south to Rice Street, then east to its present location on Thompson.

Power and telephone companies co-operated with Doerksen in lifting overhead wires, and in sending a crew of men to perch on the roof of the house to guide it under the power lines. Wires along Rice Street have been moved so that other houses may use the same route.

Occupants of the houses may continue to reside in them if they sign a release freeing Doerksen of responsibility in case of accidents.

Lively Mat Bouts On Tonight's Card

Tex Hager of Oregon and Bruno Angelo of Ohio will provide the main event fireworks tonight at the Roseburg Armory wrestling show. Both Angelo and Hager are familiar to local mat fans. Angelo has been wreaking havoc among all opponents since his first appearance here several weeks ago. Hager will be making his first re-appearance here in several months. His scheduled appearance here last week was delayed when his airline flight from the east was grounded by bad weather.

The match will follow a sure-fire formula for wrestling fireworks. Hager is a clean, fast wrestling scientist who is always popular with the fans. Angelo is just the opposite and will stop at nothing to gain victory.

A sparkling preliminary has been lined up by Matchmaker Don Owen and will start at 8:30 P. M. Frankie Clemens, smooth wrestling Klamath Falls Indian, will test Billy Rayburn, a newcomer from Georgia, who rates as extremely capable scientific grappler.

An interesting program, to be followed by dancing, is being arranged, it was reported.

Women bringing baskets of food will be admitted free while a small admission charge will be fixed for men in attendance. An advance ticket sale will be conducted by high school students.

Eire's Army Depleted As RAF Lures Recruits

DUBLIN—(AP)—Eire's Army is smaller today than at any time in the quarter of a century of its existence. Two years ago it was at the peak of its strength, a striking force of almost 100,000 highly trained men backed by some 150,000 members of the Local Defense Force.

Demobilization, which began a few months ago, has been unexpectedly heavy. Re-enlistments have been few. Gratuities for discharged men amount to as much as £100 which is big money to an Irish soldier.

Too large a proportion of the discharged men are crossing the border to Northern Ireland to join the British Army which, particularly in the RAF, offers many inducements to adventurous young men.

The peace-time strength of the Eire Regular Army will be 12,500 men.
