In the Day's News

speaking in sharp, terse sentences, he concluded: "This case is a CHALLENGE to the security council, and in our (Australia's) opinion the council DID NOT MEET IT."

LISTENING to this representative of young, sincere, ready-to-fight-at-the-drop-of-a-hat-for-what-she-believes-in Australia, we of present-day PUSSYFOTING America can't help feeling a tug of regret for our lost youth.

There was a time when WE were young and sincere and ready to fight for what we believed in — for such abstract IDEALS as the principles of the Atlantic Charter, for the rights of man, for those THINGS OF THE SPIRIT that after all count for so MUCH in making a better world.

In those days, we were a POWER FOR GOOD because people believed in us because we believed in ourselves.

THE pity of it is that the little people of America haven't changed. They still believe in these things. It is our leaders who have changed. It is our leaders who are dabbling, fascinated, in the murky waters of diplomatic power politics instead of asserting boldly in America's name the rights of man.

The little people of America STILL prefer to follow a Galahad rather than a Machiavelli.

BUT enough of moralizing. It is out of fashion in these days. Let us get on with the story.

The story is that Russia, facing a clash with world public opinion, as represented by the United Nations, has PAUSED (at least momentarily) in her career of nationalistic aggression. That is something.

The signs in the sky are plain on that point. POLAND (completely under Russia's thumb) voted with us. So did France, whose present sympathies are undoubtedly closer to Communistic Russia than to us—who is probably flirting with us because she wants and needs a big loan.

Poland tells the story. No one can doubt that Poland voted as Russia directed.

IT would be a great victory but for the uneasy thought that there is more back of the Iran case than the rights of man and the principle of world co-operation to insure peace. It is hard for us to escape the feeling that old-fashioned power politics is lurking in UNO's closet.

Girls Rifle Team Accepts Grants Pass Challenge

The Roseburg Girls' Rifle team, sponsored by the Roseburg Rod and Gun Club and included in the Roseburg Recreation program, has been challenged to a postal shoot by the girls' team at Grants Pass, H. W. Gray, supervisor of the recreation program, reports. The challenge has been accepted and arrangements are being worked out. The first competitive match is expected to be held next Wednesday, Gray said.

Marilee Yeager broke her own top score this week with a 96 out of a possible 100. Other good scores were Beverly Collidon, 86, Joan Davis, 84, Mona Bruton and Pauline Parrot, 80.

Lounge to be Improved

The Veterans Lounge, located on the second floor of the Hochstadel Building at Jackson and Washington Streets, is to be closed for a short period of time, it was announced today. Operations of the lounge is suspended to permit additional installations and changes.

VANDALS AT WORK

By CHARLES V. STANTON

Vandalism, presumably committed by juveniles, will cost the Douglas County Fair Board more than $500 to repair damage caused at the rodeo grounds in Umpqua Park. Every toilet in both men's and women's rest rooms was almost totally demolished. Seats were hammered into bits. Floats were torn out and smashed on the concrete floor. Inner equipment of water closets was ripped apart.

On the chute side of the grounds, all locks were broken, numbers ripped off and trampled into the mud. Numerous acts of defacement and destruction were uncovered.

To break into the rest rooms, it was necessary to destroy heavy hasps and locks.

These were purely acts of destruction. Nothing was stolen. The whole purpose seemed to be one of finding entertainment by destroying property.

We have never been one to cry about the faults of the younger generation. We believe each generation becomes progressively better, in general, than the one preceding. We believe the class of young people we have today is the finest the world has ever produced.

But there is a most alarming increase in the trend toward disregard for property rights. This condition is not confined to juveniles alone, for many adults seem to hold the opinion that anything not under armed guard may be taken or destroyed at will.

Destructiveness is a common attribute of extreme youth. The small child, given a suitable instrument, will proceed to wreck everything in sight.

Normally, however, as social consciousness grows, the child realizes he must not molest property other than his own. This realization of responsibility toward property can be, and should be, encouraged by parental discipline. We believe that marked increase in carry-over of childish tendencies for destructiveness into adolescence and adulthood is in large measure due to lack of parental training, indicating as well subnormal mental growth. In fact, too many adults, many of them parents, have not themselves outgrown childish impulses to wreck and steal, so could hardly be expected to develop responsible habits in their children.

There once was a time in this far western country when a man's property was safe wherever it might be. The doors of his home were never locked. The latchstring was out at every cabin. The wayfarer was welcome to occupy any shelter he might find, even though the owners or tenants were away. Supplies could be left unguarded.

But in these modern times nothing is safe unless protected by an armed guard and, even then, he is apt to be slugged while thieves make away with property under his protection.

A car left beside the highway will be stripped within a few hours. Boats along the river bank frequently are shot full of holes, or bottoms smashed with rocks. Oars, anchors or other equipment will be stolen or destroyed. The business district of every city bears continuing scars of defacement. Awnings are slashed with knives, windows are smashed, walls marred. Business houses dare not permit public use of rest rooms because of vandalism. Many people lack respect for courtesy and privileges given them, as for example numerous cases of wanton destruction in parks, playgrounds, public tennis courts, etc.

It is not enough that we provide police and courts to deal with such cases of vandalism. Such system only offers an opportunity to be "smart" by outwitting the police or evading detection. What is needed is a return to home training in public responsibility and respect for property rights.

Seals Alone at Top Of League; Oakland Beats Beavers, 2-1

(By The Associated Press)

The San Francisco team occupies the top perch alone today in the Pacific Coast Baseball League.

A 3-1 victory over the Padres at San Diego yesterday gave the San Francisco club an even score at two wins apiece in the series and placed the Seals in the van with five victories to two losses for the week-old season.

Seattle's new-found strength contributed to the Seals' success in their league-leading aspirations. For their second win of the season yeteran Jim Tobin pitched the Seattle Rainiers to a 5-4 margin to drop the Angels of Los Angeles out of a first-place tie, while Sacramento beat Hollywood, 2 to 1, and Oakland advanced to second place in the standings at the expense of Portland, 2 to 1.

Oakland's fifth win of the season came on the 7-hit pitching of Pippen and First Baseman Scarsella's second 1946 home run. Mooty held the Oaks to four hits in six innings and was then lifted for a pinch hitter.

Salmon Poised for Annual Migration up the Umpqua

REEDSPORT—State Police Officer Dick Miles and Paul Bernhard of this city, Monday tried their luck at angling for Chinook salmon in the Umpqua near Sawyer's Rapids and Dick succeeded in landing a fine chinook which tipped the scales at 30 pounds. The run of salmon has not yet started but this specimen which took the bait on Dick's tackle, indicates that the salmon are poised for migration to the upper river.

Smith River Anglers Fined on Double Charge

REEDSPORT—Sherman Green and Texas Roberts, both of the Smith River district, ran afoul of the law on March 31, when State Police Officer Dick Miles discovered them in a boat on the Smith river with three fish poles, bait and other fishing supplies, as well as a freshly killed native pheasant, and a fine, new .22 target pistol in their possession. In the Reedsport district justice court April 1 they pleaded guilty to two charges, and Justice Fred Wright fined them $50 for possessing game birds out of season, and each $25 additionally for angling in an Oregon stream stream without a license.

Wednesday Golf Tournament Won By Earnie Pearson

Earnie Pearson turned in a two over par to win the Wednesday golf tournament held at the Country Club on April 3. This score of 38 is the lowest turned in during the series of tournaments which are held each Wednesday between 2 and 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

Dr. Marshall, Bob Adams and Weston Crow tied for the handicap event with low net scores of 35. Bob Adams won long drive on Number five hole with a smash of 220 yards. Earnie Pearson won close to the pin on Number 8 with an iron, shot eight feet from the pin.

Members are reminded that qualifying time for the annual spring handicap expires Sunday April 7, and all who have not qualified are urged to do so.

Refund 26 Years Late

PORTLAND, April 4.—(AP)—A county property tax refund check for $1.63 was received by D. B. Kelly yesterday, almost 26 years after it was mailed.

Kelly took the check to County Auditor George M. Baldwin for a new cash warrant instead of the one dated Oct. 6, 1920.

Professional Boxing Billed Here April 10

Snooks Lacey, Al Petralla Will Be Headliners of Legion-Sponsored Card

Professional boxing will return to Roseburg Wednesday, April 10, when Umpqua post of the American Legion will sponsor a card featuring Snooks Lacey, colored lightweight, Hartford, Conn., against Al Petralla, Seattle, in a 10-round main event.

Lacey, former featheweight champion of the world, has been quite popular in coast arenas since graduating in to the lightweight division. He has boxed main events at Hollywood, Olympic auditorium, Los Angeles and in Seatle and Portland. He has split decisions with Willie Pep, world featherweight champion, and holds a win over Phil Terranova.

Petralla, Seattle's contender for lightweight honors, has been boxing for four years, and is recently returned from military service. He holds a K.O. over Kenny Lindsey, Vancouver, and two decisions over Bobby Volk, when both were fighting as amateurs. The Italian boy is rugged and a good boxer; a natural southpaw hitter.

Rudy Ritzman, Legion matchmaker, reports that Manuel James, Portland light heavyweight, has been signed to meet Logger Jack Hibbard, boxing veteran, recently released from Army service, in the six-round semi-final. Hibbard has been fighting regularly while in service, and won Army titles in three weight divisions. He is well known to Roseburg fans, who have seen him in numerous fistic encounters.

Three four-round preliminary bouts will complete the card, which will start at 8:30 o'clock.

Battle Royal of 5 Grapplers to Be Offered Fans Here

One of three clean, scientific matmen—Joe Lynam, Jack Kiser, Angelo Martinelli—will be favored to cop the $250 purse offered the winner of a sparkling five-man "battle royal" at the Roseburg Armory Saturday night. The wrestling free-for-all will feature Matchmaker Don Owen's weekly mat show.

Other opponents in the colorful skirmish will be a pair of well-known villains—Tony Ross, the "Todelo Terror," and Sgt. Bob Kenaston, the Gold Hill ruffian.

Local railbirds figure that meanies have two strikes against them before entering the ring in any kind of combined mat competition because they are uncooperative. The cleanies, on the other hand, usually clan together.

Lynam, the Pacific coast junior heavyweight champion, is the top favorite. He is not only a master in grappling style, but is capable of absorbing considerable punishment. Last week-end in Eugene the ex-Redmond ace lost a chance to cop the world's light-heavyweight championship in a title match with Ernie Piluso. He won the first fall, but dropped two straight falls to the Portland Italian who copped the coveted crown from Danny McShain in Hollywood some six weeks ago.

Kiser displayed his ability here last week by defeating the fistic-minded Ross in a rugged affair. Martinelli possesses a well-founded wrestling style that may carry him through to a victory. Some followers believe the more rugged Kenaston, despite the handicap of a cut eye suffered last week in beating Billy Rayburn, has an excellent chance to battle his way into the finals.

All five grapplers step into the ring along with Referee Elton Owen at the start and the free-for-all continues without a pause until only two contenders remain. The finalists return for the three-fall finale and the $250 purse. The second two eliminated also return for a one-fall engagement and a special $50 prize. The first matman downed retires for the evening—without a share in the money. For that reason there will be plenty of fireworks in the early stages of the event. The match gets under way at 8:30 o'clock.

Practice Slated for Girls Softball Team

Roseburg girls' softball team, sponsored by Gordon Bennett of the Umpqua Cleaners, will have its first practice in the Senior High School Monday. The practice will be in two sessions: High School girls at 4 P. M., town girls at 5:15 P. M.

Any girl who was unable to be at the meeting held in the Armory Wednesday is urged to contact the Roseburg Recreation office in the city hall, H. W. Gray, supervisor of the recreation program, said.

"The girls' enthusiasm is great, and we are sure Roseburg will have one of the finest girls' softball clubs in Southern Oregon," said Gray.

March Rainfall Above Normal in Roseburg Area

Precipitation for the month of March totalled 4.64 inches, 1.36 inches above the March normal, J. C. McCallister, meteorologist in charge of the Roseburg station of the U. S. Weather Bureau, reported today in his monthly climatological summary. Excess rainfall in March made up a small deficiency since the first of the year and caused a surplus of .36 of an inch measured from January 1 the total for the period being 13.44 inches. Measured from July 1, 1945, total rainfall is recorded at 34.06 inches, a surplus of 6.14 inches.

Amateur Boxers Stage Good Bouts On Armory Card

Customers at the Roseburg Armory were treated to a good amateur boxing card Friday night when 14 matches, including two exhibitions, were staged under sponsorship of the Roseburg Recreation program.

Five fights were listed for championships, one, the best bout of the evening, a furious battle between fleaweights Larry Kvedra, 73, and Jack Katzenmeyer, 82, going to a draw. In other listed title bouts, Harem, 135, beat Wagner, 137, for the lightweight award; Cecil Zachary, 100, took a decision on aggressiveness over Bob Branson, 90, for flyweight honors, and Dale Gusse, 127, tagged Maynard Tally, 127, for a first round knockout in the featherweight class. Fred Butler, 146, and Jack Amorde, 145, staged a hard battle to a draw decision. Amorde carried the first half of the fight, but was born down by Butler, who finished strong.

Results of Prelims

In preliminary matches, Lynn Warman, 135, beat Jerry Willis, 142, when Willis was sent back to his corner by Referee Kennerly after he had developed a severe nosebleed. Both boys were from Sutherlin.

Jim Shrum, 101, won a close decision from Eddie Whitelatch, 102, in a fast match.

Bob Hatcher, 142, was given the nod over Jimmy Hudson, 152, in a long-range slugging match.

John Finney, 90, and Gene Lloyd, 103, went to a draw, fighting a high speed battle, with plenty of close-in slugging.

Sellers, 92, was given a decision over Hensley, 100, due to a nose injury suffered by Hensely in the second round.

Downing beat Keller in a slow jitterbug contest, mostly dancing with few blows struck. Both boys were announced at 119 pounds.

Free-For-All Laughable

Jimmy Garrison, boxing coach, appeared in two exhibition matches, one with Ray Burdette, Sutherlin, and the other with Sgt. Zachery, Roseburg.

The opening feature, a blind man's free-for-all, furnished good entertainment to start the card. Five boys, Altus Montgomery, Don Firman, Fred Hoagland, Wallace Beaman and Albert Thomas, blindfolded and wearing a glove only on the right hand, each was handed a can partially filled with dried peas. Opponents were sought out by the noise from the cans. The issue was further complicated when two referees climbed into the ring, each shaking a rattler. Candidates were disqualified if they lost their noisemaker. Don Firman won first place.

Awards by the J. & K. Sporting Goods Store were made to Larry Kvedra and Jack Katzenmeyer for the best fight of the card.

Another amateur program will be staged in the near future, it was announced.

Further Nominations at Veterans Club Slated

Further nominations of officers will be made Monday, when the Roseburg Veterans Club of World War II meets in the Eagles Hall at 8 o'clock, Orlie A. Kennery, temporary president, announced. At the same time, membership cards will be distributed. The initiation fee was set at $1.00 and dues at 50 cents a month.

Future activities of the club wil linclude a dance a week, a banquet once a month, and, weather permitting, moonlight swimming parties, wiener roasts, horseback rides, hayrides, frolic nights, and other entertainment, Kennerly said.

Driver Exams Dated

Examinations for permits and licenses to drive automobiles will be given in the Roseburg city hall, Thursday, April 17, between the hours of 9 A. M. and 5 P. M., according to information from the secretary of state's office at Salem.

Harrison Winston Gets Sutherlin Attorney Post

Harrison Winston of Roseburg has been appointed attorney for the City of Sutherlin, he announced today. Winston recently returned from duty in the Southwestern Pacific as a heavy bomber pilot in the Army Air Forces. A member of Patrick W. Kelley Post, Veterans of Foreing Wars, he was elected post commander last month.

Spree Draws $20 Fine

Walter L. McQueen, lumber grader, was fined $20 in the city recorder's court yesterday on the charge drunkenness in a public street. Chief of Police Erwin Short reported.
