(Continued from page 1) troops in Mexico, in Venezuela, in Panama. We got them out, and our relations with all these countries seem to be improving, rather than deteriorating.

So, you see, the situation isn't hopeless. As we have grown up, our dealings with the smaller countries in our sphere of influence have become more reasonable and decent. It may work out the same way in Russia's case.

At least, one crisis has been passed without shooting. SENATOR PEPPER, who rattles too much in his hearings to be taken very seriously, shouts angrily in Washington that we are "guaranteeing British imperialism."

His statement is one of these HALF-TRUTHS that cause so much trouble. We ARE taking definite and clearly apparent steps to strengthen the British empire.

BUT—The British empire is about the only important part of the world left with a system and a way of life closely resembling our own. If we were morose enough to AID in the break-up of the British empire, we'd be left STANDING ALONE.

Who wants that? UNO—which, if it works, will be a system of world government not unlike our federal government—is having its troubles. It will have more of them.

But remember this—Our federal government started out feebly as a loose confederation of sovereign states. It grew SLOWLY—almost FALTERINGLY at the start—to its present eminence as the world's most successful form of democratic government.

Don't expect UNO to be a complete success over night. ALSO—Don't expect our troubles with Russia to end at once. We are now the greatest of the OLD powers. Russia is a rising NEW power in the world. Our ways of life differ RADICALLY. Frequent clashes of interest are inevitable.

But if there is a fair amount of patience and understanding on both sides, we ought to be able to work out our destinies amicably in the course of time. SO far as can be judged from the little that we outsiders are permitted to see, our present foreign policy is a cloudy mixture of expediency and more or less fascinated dabbling in the intricacies of world power politics. We appear to be muddling through rather than following a clear-cut line.

What we need is a foreign policy that all the peoples of the world will RESPECT for its high motives and its sincerity, and that we ourselves WILL BELIEVE IN.

Veterans Club to Meet The Roseburg Veterans Club of World War II will meet at 8 P. M. tonight in the Eagles hall. It was announced by G. A. Kennerly, Jr., temporary president. A membership drive will start at tonight's meeting, and a dance and party are planned for Friday night, April 12, to which the membership card will give admittance, Kennerly said.

School Board Scheduled The non-high school board of Douglas County is to meet Wednesday at 10 A. M. in the office of Mrs. Lois C. Correll, county school superintendent. The announcement today.

SUPPORT CANCER DRIVE

By CHARLES V. STANTON

Douglas County residents are being asked this month to support financially the effort to stamp out cancer.

Cancer threatens one out of every six people of middle age with death. The majority of these cancer victims are still at the height of their powers—fathers and mothers with dependent children; men and women whom society can least spare.

During the recent World War, between Pearl Harbor and V-J Day, the American Cancer Society reports, 294,476 Americans were killed by enemies on the various battle fronts. But during that same period, 607,193 were killed on the home front by cancer. During 1945 the cancer death toll rose to 170,000. Nor are children immune from this disease, for statistics show that cancer kills more children between the ages of 5 and 20 years than infantile paralysis, diphtheria, scarlet fever and whooping cough combined.

During April the American Cancer Society is conducting a nation-wide drive to raise funds with which to wage an all-out attack on this Number One Enemy. The society has not only interested many of the world's most renowned scientists and research men to devote full time to cancer research, but it has also secured cooperation of the National Research Council, which came to the aid of the government in the atomic bomb program. It is vital that this work be carried on, and 40 per cent of money raised in the current campaign for funds will go into the research activity.

Sixty per cent of the money raised within the State of Oregon will be used to maintain a state-wide cancer educational program. This program was started last year with the purpose of providing facilities for relief of cancer patients, training technicians, providing laboratory services to the physicians of Oregon, as well as conducting a program of information designed to lead possible sufferers into examinations and treatment before a cancer may have reached the incurable stage. If diagnosed and treated early, many forms of cancer can be completely cured. Too frequently, however, persons, either through ignorance or neglect, fail to obtain early treatment.

Another purpose of the educational program is to assist Oregon physicians in new methods of diagnosis and treatment for cervical and uterine cancer, the chief cause of death in women between the ages of 35 and 55 years. Thirty full scholarships are being made available to Oregon physicians for a refresher course in methods of diagnosis and treatment of cancer in a fall course this year at the University of Oregon.

It is the belief of the medical profession that cancer will yield its secrets to an organized research program. Until recently, research has been largely a hit-and-miss proposition. Research men, working principally without outside aid, have conducted studies independently. Considering the lack of cooperation and coordination, it is surprising that any appreciable progress has been made. But through works of many self-sacrificing explorers, the medical profession today is well equipped to deal with cancer in its early stages.

With funds obtained through public subscription and from other sources, a well organized research program now is being conducted. Able men and women in all fields of research are at work on a single objective, that of discovering the method of stopping cancer at the source. Through continued exploration, the medical profession is certain that the causes of cancer will be learned and that improved and more efficient methods of treatment will be discovered.

To carry on this great research program requires money. Certainly the cause has sufficient merit to warrant cooperation from the general public. Contributions made through the Douglas County committee, now conducting the annual campaign, will go into a most worthwhile endeavor.

Maj. E. W. Maddox Awarded Ribbon For Army Duty

CAMP CHAFFEE, Ark.—Presentation of the first Army Commendation Ribbon to be given at Camp Chaffee took place March 30, when Brig. Gen. William H. Colburn, commanding general of the post, presented Maj. Edward W. Maddox, director of supply, with the award.

Maj. Maddox was first assigned to Camp Chaffee in January, 1943, when he became the quartermaster supply director. The award was made by the command of Lieut. Gen. Walton Walker, commanding general of the Eighth Service Command, Dallas.

The citation accompanying the award read: "Major Edward W. Maddox is authorized to wear the Army Commendation Ribbon for meritorious service, as camp quartermaster and director of supply, Camp Chaffee, Ark., for the period 20 April 1943 to 18 January 1946. His devotion to duty, cooperation, precise planning and superior performance of duty resulted in an outstanding supply organization at his station."

Maj. Maddox is from Roseburg, Ore., and was in the army first in 1917 as an enlisted man. His home is now in Ft. Smith.

Maj. Edward Woodson Maddox is the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Maddox, Roseburg. He recently returned to his post following a brief visit here.

Applications for Farm Building Handled Here

Applications for farm construction under the Civilian Production Administration's new construction limitation order will be processed by county and state AAA committees. John H. Ferguson, chairman of the county AAA committee, has been notified.

Purpose of the order is to limit less-essential construction so that more materials will be available for building new homes for returning veterans. The order provides exemptions of $400 for farm houses and $100 for other farm buildings.

Details of the order, instructions and copies of the necessary application forms, while not available now, are expected in a few days.

Oregon Accidents Follow Trend in Traffic Volumes

Traffic accidents followed the upward trend of traffic volumes during the last five months of 1945, to score tragic increases in total accidents, fatalities and injuries, Secretary of State Farrell reports.

During the first seven months of the year, accidents, fatalities and injuries showed increases of 13 per cent, 23 per cent and 13 per cent respectively over the same period of 1944. But during the last five months of the year, total accidents were up 105 per cent, fatalities increased 166 per cent and injuries were 245 per cent greater than for the same period of 1944.

The release of wartime restrictions on motor vehicle use thus brought about a tragic increase in accidents, fatalities and injuries as motorists stepped up their use of vehicles, but failed to adjust their driving to the new conditions," Farrell said.

Fatalities in urban areas showed the heaviest increase following the end of the war, Farrell declared. While fatalities for the state as a whole were up 166 per cent during the last five months, fatalities in urban areas only went up 216 per cent.

The secretary of state said these figures showed conclusively that unless drivers and walkers adjust their traffic practices to the new conditions of greater vehicle use, traffic casualties for the year 1946 will hit new highs for the state of Oregon.

Arndt, Abney will Battle in Prelim On Card April 10

Dave Arndt, Portland middleweight, has been signed to box Bud Abney at Salem on the top four-round spot in a middleweight clash on the American Legion's first boxing show in three or more years at the Roseburg Armory Wednesday night, April 10.

Arndt is the young middleweight who won the Golden Gloves amateur title on the March of Dimes show in Portland last January and looms as one of the best young prospects for some time. Portland critics claim. In facing Abney, he will meet a young fellow who has scored five straight knockouts and who also is considered by Salem fans as the best bet in the fistie game since the days of Phil Hayes.

Two other four-round bouts will be announced later to complete the program of five bouts for Wednesday's show. Snooks Lacey, Hartford, Conn., lightweight, is down to hard training and Roseburg fans will witness one of the fastest men with his hands and feet they will have ever seen, it is claimed. Lacey will be facing a good fighter in Al Petralla of Seattle, a fighter who can punch with the best. It should be a tough, hard fight for 10 rounds, with the edge in favor of the eastern lightweight to win the decision. If the bout happens to end by a knockout, however, Petralla should score the victory.

The semi-final, finds a willing pair of lightweights, when Manuel James of Portland meets an old favorite in Logger Jack Hibbard of Klamath Falls. Hibbard has yet to make a bad fight and always gives his best.

Lynam Wins Over Ross in Top Tilt Of Battle Royal

In the smashing finale of a wrestling card that began with a five-man battle royal, Joe Lynam was awarded Referee Elton Owen's decision over Tony Ross at the Roseburg Armory Saturday night, while a throng of nearly 900 spectators roared approval. The decision, coming after each grappler had won a fall, was due to Lynam's never-ending aggressiveness and Tony's equally as constant foul tactics and his habit of climbing outside the ropes when the going got too tough for him.

Lynam contributed chiefly to his own defeat in the first fall of the bout by nearly knocking himself out in a plunge over the ropes onto the floor. He managed to crawl back into the ring barely within the 20-second time limit only to fall again victim to a back breaker hold. Time 1:02, Joe captured the second fall in 17:32 with judo chops after a vicious combat in which the book of rules was tossed into the discard. Neither man could register a fall within the remaining one minute, 26 seconds of the 30-minute, over-all time limit.

In the battle royal, Jack Koger was first eliminated, followed by Angelo Martinielli and Bob Kenaston in the order named. In the mix-up, Tony Ross got shoved onto the floor and Martinielli promptly engaged him in a fistie battle that raged half-way around the arena before police and the referee intervened. In the semifinal, Kenaston pinned Martinielli in 14:24 for the only scheduled fall, the victor using his customary tactics of knee punches to the stomach, followed by a body press.

Russ Government Buys Estate in New York

GLEN COVE, N. Y., April 8.—The Russian Government has purchased the beautiful wooded and unincorporated estate that George DuPont Pratt, late son of one of the founders of the Standard Oil Company of New York, built here in 1912 at an estimated cost of $1,000,000.

The Russians are slated to occupy the 37-acre estate on April 18. A spokesman for the Soviet purchasing commission said that the Jacobean building, a beach, bath houses, a swimming pool, indoor and outdoor tennis courts, wooded areas, and some of the loveliest gardens in Long Island would be used for the recreation of Russian diplomats and employees in this country.

Seals Boost Lead in Coast League

(By The Associated Press) The San Francisco Seals took home from San Diego a fortified lead in the Pacific Coast Baseball League and ambitions to make more hay while the opposition comes from the second division.

Twin-bill victories Sunday, 3 to 1 and 4 to 2 over the Padres topped off the Seals' seven-game San Diego invasion, giving them five wins in the series and a game and a half lead over second-place Oakland. With eight credits to two debits, the San Francisco club starts its third series of the season Tuesday on its home diamond against the Portland Beavers, standing next to last.

Oakland also made last week's series worth five wins to two defeats, finishing by splitting a doubleheader with the Beavers. Portland eked out the first, 2 to 1, and the Oaks came back in a 4-2 nightcap.

Los Angeles' Angels, holding third place in the league, won the series with Seattle by a 4-2 margin, taking both ends of a Sunday doubleheader, 5 to 4, and 2 to 1. At Sacramento the home team split with Hollywood, winning 4 to 3 before a Hollywood retaliation, 3 to 2.

Sign Believer MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 8.—(AP)—Kenny Kipen, 6, who had gone to play with his friend, Scotty Keugel, came running back because "there was a sign on the door." "Did it say m-e-a-s-l-e-a-t?" his mother asked Kenny, who is learning his letters but can't read. Kenny couldn't remember so he hurried over to Scotty's house again, this time with pencil and paper to make a laboriously printed copy of the sign. It read: "Please wipe your feet."

In ancient times it was customary for a victorious army to move over to the battlefields and as an act of mercy slit the throats of comrades whose bodies had been pierced by arrows.
