Moscow, speaking no Russian, and going at once into a meeting of Russians where you are expected to do the honors for your country. It's a tough assignment.

HEADING their delegation is a major general, in the full uniform of his rank. He is the military editor of Pravda.

He wears horn-rimmed glasses. If you removed his uniform and dressed him in civilian attire, he could mingle with these editors and you'd never know he hadn't come from Cincinnati or Buffalo or Yonkers.

His face is round and plump, and he has a greater smile. Uniform apart, he looks like a typical member of a typical American chamber of commerce.

ZVESTIA, another of the great Russian newspapers, is represented by Ilya Ehrenburg, a member of its editorial staff. He is also a novelist and essayist.

Ehrenburg is the physical opposite of Galaktionov.

He has none of the general's rounded contours. Instead, he is angular, almost thin. He has an alert, intense face, with deep-set eyes, and a shock of hair.

His dress is the spit and image of the less meticulously attired American editors present, with the slight carelessness as to detail that, rightly or wrongly, we have come to associate in our minds with literary men.

THE third member of the Soviet delegation is Konstantin Mikhailovich Simonov, representing the editorial staff of Red Star, the red army newspaper.

He is the youngest of the party, just turned 30. He is a novelist and a playwright, as well as a war correspondent who covered all the fighting fronts for his newspaper.

He is plump with the plumpness of youth, as contrasted with the mature, public relations man rolpolyness of the general. His hair is black and abundant, and his face, especially the eyes, has what we Americans think of as the Slavic cast.

Like Ehrenburg's, his voice is earnest and he speaks with an intensity that carries to his hearers a strong impression of sincerity and desire to convince.

Other Breaks The Browns and Cards each suffered a double reversal. The New York Giants supplied the knockout punch to their interborough rivals, 3-0 and 10-4 and the champion Chicago Cubs gave the Redbirds a thorough going over, 9-7 and 3-1.

Knuckleballer Roger Wolf knocked the Yankees out of first place, 3-1.

The Tigers disappointed the largest crowd in Detroit's history—57,149 paid admissions—bowling to the Cleveland Indians 3-1 in 12 innings to sink deeper into third place. Red Embree, who held the Tigers to six hits and would have had a shutout but for Greenberg's second home run of the season, won his own game when he doubled in two mates in the 12th.

CLOSING THE UMPQUA

By CHARLES V. STANTON

"The Umpqua River is Douglas County's greatest asset," Charles Lockwood of the Oregon State Game Department, declared Friday night, speaking at the annual banquet of the Reedsport Chamber of Commerce.

But the Umpqua River, properly developed, advertised and managed could produce as much income annually from local and tourist recreational expenditures, as would be derived from either the lumber industry or agriculture.

The Umpqua River is a perpetual resource, but, like our forests, it needs a sustained yield program. Just as forest resources can be destroyed by overcutting, as has been done in every timbered section of the country, so the value of a river can be destroyed by lack of efficient fisheries management.

The picture on the Umpqua River is not good. In fact, Frank B. Wire, game commission supervisor, described the condition as "alarming." The steelhead tally for the past season was about one-tenth the average for a season on the Rogue River.

The Rogue River is being restored as a recreational stream despite most unfavorable conditions. Summer water temperatures are considerably above what is considered a safe level. Thousands of small fish die in impounded warm water every year.

The Umpqua River is an all-year, cold-water stream. Even in the placid lower waters extreme summer temperature seldom rises above the danger point for fish life.

Many factors contribute to this condition. Doubtless the most destructive is unregulated outside trolling, which kills thousands of young, immature salmon annually.

A scientific study now is in progress to learn important facts relative to the Umpqua River fisheries, and from these studies should come some valuable recommendations.

It is intimated that it may be necessary to close the stream entirely to both commercial and sports salmon fishing for a few years. This would be a great disappointment to all and would hurt financially in shutting off tourist income.

Both Boston Nines Win Twice; Dodgers, Cardinals Beaten

Pennant-starved Boston, which hasn't boasted a championship team since 1918, has good reason for dreaming today of its first flag winner in 28 years, and with a little luck could possibly be the center of an all-city World Series next October.

The coup de grace engineered by the Red Sox placed them at the top of the American League, a full game in front of the New York Yankees. The Braves are in third place after four straight victories. Only one game separates them from the front-running Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals.

Dusette Defeats Katonan; Szasz Is Victor Over Kiser

Because his opponent, Paavo Katonan, insisted on disregarding Referee Elton Owen's repeated warnings to quit foul tactics, Georges Dusette emerged victor in the headliner of the weekly wrestling card at the Roseburg Armory Saturday night.

In the first round Dusette headlocked the Finn into submission in 16:58. The second fall went to Katonan in 8:56 with his heady hangman hold. In the final stanza, Katonan twice went into the ropes to save himself, once while in the clutch of a full Nelson and again in the grip of a headlock.

The ending of the combat was a duplicate of the result of a battle between the two men in Portland on the preceding Saturday night. They are scheduled to go at it again in that city tonight.

In the opener of Saturday night's card here, Al Szasz defeated Jack Kiser two out of three falls. Kiser scored the first fall with a series of drop kicks followed by a body press; time 19:51.

Szasz won the second fall in 14:42 with a series of twisting toe holds that sent Kiser limping to the dressing room, assisted by a ringsider. Returning to the mat in the third round, Kiser made a game effort to continue the battle, but lasted only 3 minutes, 17 seconds, when Szasz got the injured foot in another punishing clamp.

Roseburg Loses to Ashland, 4 to 3, in Season's Opener

An act of grand larceny—First Baseman Hardy's wine catch of George Sanders' line drive, robbed the Umpqua Chiefs of a win in their first game of the Southern Oregon Baseball League, Ashland winning 4 to 3 in the contest played on Friday Field Sunday afternoon.

With two down in the last of the ninth, the bases loaded, and only a single needed for a tie and a probable victory, Sanders drove a hard hit ball on a line, about head high about six feet to the right of the first baseman, Hardy dove for the liner and came up with a sparkling catch to halt the Roseburg rally and win the ball game for Ashland.

The Sons gathered their four runs in the second inning when Von Baker, starting pitcher, lost control, issuing four passes, and being nicked for three hits. Ashland was held scoreless for the balance of the contest, Baker yielding two more hits, for a total of five, during five innings. Long and Suiter, who followed him on the mound, turning the visitor's back without a bingle.

Roseburg's first tally came in the fourth inning when Mills doubled and scored on Shinn's single. Another run scored in the seventh when Virgil Sanders drew a walk, went to second on a fielder's choice, and scored on Lovell Baker's single.

The ninth-inning rally opened after the first two batters struck out, was the exciting part of the game. Virgil Sanders started the fireworks with a sharp single into right field. Bill Schelner drew a walk, and Lovell Baker was hit by a pitched ball to fill the bases. LeBernardi teased a walk off Jandreau, forcing Sanders across the plate, bringing George Sanders to bat with his screaming line drive into Harry's mitt.

Score by innings: Ashland 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 4 5 1 Roseburg 0 0 1 0 1 0 1 3 7 2

Water Taxi Blow Halts Channel Swim Attempt

AVALON, Calif., April 29.—(AP)—Jimmy Syster, who hoped to swim the 22 miles of the channel between Avalon and Point Fermin on the mainland, was forced to give up after covering five miles Saturday night.

Syster, 19-year-old Navy veteran of Pacific battles, was strong and making good progress when a water taxi struck him on the head while he was being given liquid food through a tube. The accident occurred two hours, 49 minutes after he started the swim.

Melton Racks Up 6th Straight Win For San Francisco

By WILLIAM WEATHERSBY Associated Press Sports Writer

The San Francisco faithful whose anguish followed their pride and joy of the mound into major league baseball this season had no complaints today over the dicker that brought west Big Cliff Melton to take his place.

Among the most satisfied was Manager Frank O'Doul of San Francisco's Pacific Coast League pace-makers as Melton went to the head of the league's pitchers yesterday on his sixth consecutive win, allowing only one earned run in beating Sacramento, 9 to 3.

Melton came down from the New York Giants after nine seasons, and his delivery is fast removing the pangs of the San Francisco followers over the loss of Bob Joyce. With a record of 31 wins for the Seals last season, Joyce went to the Giants for his second try in the majors and yesterday won his third straight game.

After Melton racked up his sixth victory with the backing of his mates' 15-hit barrage, the Sacramento Solons put Al Smith on the hill, and for the second time in the seven-game series he blanked the Seals, 1 to 0. San Francisco capped the series, 4 games to 3, and with 22 wins in 31 starts maintained a three-game edge over second-place Oakland.

The Oakland A's snapped their winning streak snapped at six games by the Los Angeles Angels in a spectacular series. A nightcap was called because of darkness in the eighth inning with the score at 2-all.

The San Diego Padres profited from poor fielding to take their fifth straight game, 3 to 2, over the Beavers at Portland. The second clash of a scheduled doubleheader was called off because of rain, and so the Padres wound up the series with five victories to one loss.

At Seattle the Rainiers defeated the Hollywood Stars, 6 to 3. Rain caused postponement of a nightcap. The series was split with three wins for each team.

This week third-ranking Los Angeles goes to San Francisco, Oakland to Hollywood, Seattle to Portland and San Diego to Sacramento for series opening tomorrow.

Crew Makes Quick Snow Trek to Diamond Lake

The first trip of the season of the Game Commissions spawning crew into Diamond Lake was made through the deep snow without mishap, according to the report just received from Milt O'Brien, foreman. Eight men travelled from Union Creek to the lake on two snowcats, arriving at their destination within a few hours. Formerly the journey has taken two days when travelling was by skis and snowshoes.

The snow still was eight or nine feet deep in places, while the total snowfall this winter at the lake is reported to have been 211 feet. The crew went in early to make preparations for the taking of rainbow trout eggs this spring. It is hoped that about 6,000,000 eggs will be obtained, part of which will be hatched at the Diamond Lake hatchery and the rest distributed to other stations in the state.

Unwelcome

GALESBURG, Ill., April 29.—(AP)—Prospective neighbors did some hasty scrambling to prevent a man from moving a boxcar onto a lot he owned here and using it as a residence.

The man bought the boxcar in Rock Island for $150 and had it shipped here on a huge truck. The neighbors found a farmer who would pay $150 for the boxcar and then took up a collection to pay the trucker's $100 hauling cost.

Policeman Ernest Rice then bought the lot from the owner.
