In the Day's News

almost kid yourself into thinking it's edible.

THE Los Angeles Times carried a little eye-catcher story the other day to the effect that Paris has just shipped in 900 tons of butter from Argentina.

(Trying to visualize 900 tons of butter is a little like trying to imagine a trillion. Which, oddly enough, calls to mind the fact that the national debt of the United States is now a little in excess of a quarter of a trillion dollars.)

The spend-with-both-hands boys have finally hit the jackpot. They have pushed the national debt up into the realm of astronomical figures where trying to understand it is like striving to form a mental picture of distances measured in millions of light-years.

When more billions of government expenditure are proposed, we taxpayers just shrug our shoulders and mutter: "Aw, what the heck."

BUT to get back to the Times' story of the shipment of Argentine butter to Paris. The correspondent simulated the raising of a gentle eyebrow by remarking that it seemed a trifle odd to be shipping butter from the Argentine when Normandy, only a stone's throw away, as stone-throwing goes in Europe, is practically floating in dairy products.

He ended up by suggesting that the black marketers might be able to throw light on the oddity if they were willing to talk (which they naturally are not).

A GREAT many GIs have seen Normandy. They will remember it as a fat land, liberally sprinkled with cows, and will recall that only a part of it was devastated in the fighting.

Every now and then a shell would fall on a cow—which was a pity, for when a shell falls on a cow disgustingly little good meat is left in the vicinity. The written records are hazy on the point, but word of mouth tales were loose in Europe last year to the effect that from time to time Normandy cows were killed by the accidental discharge of American weapons.

All this, of course, is mere source material which if sifted carefully by meticulous researchers might yield nuggets of fact. It would be charitable to presume that the cows of Normandy were so depleted in numbers by falling shells and bombs and the accidental discharges of weapons already referred to that they are no longer capable of supplying nearby Paris with butter.

THESE same GIs, however, will also recall that the people of Normandy thought no more of a crane than you or I would think of a quarter-section of good land. So it may be that they have been tempted by evil black marketers and are selling their good butter at fantastically high black market prices instead of disposing of it at ruinous rationed prices.

It is deplorable what war and its hand-maidens, scarcity and inflation, can accomplish in the way of debasing public morals. Let us hope that the noble idealists who are seeking to lead us along the bright and shining paths of a regimented economy do not hear of it. It might shock their simple, trusting faith in the goodness of human nature.

CUT RATE EFFICIENCY

By CHARLES V. STANTON

Federal controls succeed principally in reducing quality of goods and services, yet constant effort is made to extend regimentation. Among chief issues today are the proposed valley authorities and socialized medicine.

Do we want our progress in the Pacific Northwest impeded by bureaucratic regulation, just at a time when we are entering a period of great progress? Of course, we are told that the Columbia Valley Authority would promote a virtual Garden of Eden.

These grandiose schemes of our economic and social experimenters sound wonderful in expression, but experience belies propaganda.

Even yet the OPA feeds us its hokum about "holding the line" on prices and controlling inflation, despite the continuing advance in cost of living.

But disregarding price advances, let's take a look at what we're getting. Clothing materials are shoddy. Meats, when available, are of low grade. Milk is not only far below state standards, but is, in some instances, actually dangerous to health.

As a war measure, the federal government set up control over wages. Has the result been efficient? We have been plagued by unceasing succession of strikes, disputes, slowdowns, etc., with settlement unduly prolonged by governmental interference.

We are in dire need of increased production. The shortages of goods and commodities are critical. During the war we saw an industrial machine engaged in a miracle of production. Yet, here in a period of dangerous shortage, we find reconversion slowed to a walk and production lagging far behind capacity.

Now the federal government wants to take in hand the development of the Pacific Northwest through its proposed Columbia Valley Authority. It tells us our pastures will be greener, there will be more fish in our streams, and that we'll have a virtual Utopia.

The record for efficiency does not bear out the claims of propagandists and, unless we would put shackles on our development and reduce our medical profession to a treadmill status, we should order an end to further experimentation regarding these issues.

PIN-WORMS LICKED AT LAST!

People don't talk about Pin-Worms—but more than you suspect have this ugly infection with its embarrassing rectal itch. However, it is no longer necessary to suffer. Today, thanks to a special, medically recognized drug, a real treatment has been established. This drug is the vital ingredient in Pin-Worm Tablets developed in the laboratory of Dr. D. D. Jayne & Son. They act in a special way to remove Pin-Worms.

Do watch out for warning signs that may mean Pin-Worms in your child or yourself. Don't delay. Ask your Druggist for JAYNE'S P.W. and follow the directions. It's easy to remember: P.W. for Pin-Worms.

Beating of Handcuffed Man Charged to Deputy

PORTLAND, Ore., May 8.—(AP)—The Multnomah County grand jury yesterday indicted Robert Frederick Dillon, 32-year-old deputy sheriff, on an assault and battery charge, accusing him of beating the handcuffed convicted slayer of another deputy.

The grand jury's special report said Dillon "used excessive force and violence" toward John E. Drew, 25, after he had surrendered to a posse and been handcuffed.

Twenty-one witnesses, including Drew himself, substantiated the beating, the report stated. Drew, convicted in the fatal shooting of Deputy Sheriff Al Bowe last fall and sentenced to life imprisonment, escaped from the county jail with Kenneth L. Teague, April 22.

The grand jury said the beating occurred after the men were captured the following day. The charge against Dillon is a misdemeanor. If convicted he could get a maximum jail sentence of one year or a $500 fine.

Truman Commutes Death Sentence on Pvt. Hicswa

WASHINGTON, May 8.—(AP)—President Truman has commuted the death sentence imposed on Pfc. Joseph E. Hicswa for the slaying of two Japanese civilians last November to 30 years in prison.

The action was taken on recommendation of an official board of review of the War Department's judge advocate general's department.

Hicswa's pay and allowances were ordered forfeited and he will be given a dishonorable discharge from the Army.

This country produced in 1945 about 330 billion packages of cigarettes.

National Forest Timber for Sale

Sealed bids will be received by the Forest Supervisor, Umpqua National Forest, Roseburg, Oregon, up to 2:00 P. M., May 17, 1946, for all the live timber marked or designated for cutting on an area embracing about 4000 acres within Sections 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 33, 34, 35, and 36 of T. 26 S., R. 5 E. (Unsurveyed), Sections 19, 30, and 31 of T. 26 S., R. 6 E. (Unsurveyed), Sections 2 and 3 of T. 27 S., R. 5 E. (Surveyed), Wilamette Meridian, Umpqua National Forest, estimated to be 120,000 lineal feet of lodgepole pine poles less than 30 feet in length, 1,920,000 lineal feet of lodgepole pine poles 30 to 35 feet in length, 360,000 lineal feet of lodgepole pine poles 36 to 45 feet in length, a total of 2,400,000 lineal feet and an unestimated amount of lodgepole pine poles over 45 feet in length. No bids of less than the following minimum prices will be considered: Poles under 30 feet in length, $0.005 per lineal foot; poles 30 to 35 feet in length, $0.008 per lineal foot; poles 36 to 45 feet in length, $0.013 per lineal foot; poles over 45 feet in length, $0.018 per lineal foot. In addition to the prices bid for stumpage, $0.0025 per lineal foot for all live poles must be deposited into the Treasury of the United States as part of a special fund for paying the cost of the disposal of slash. In addition to prices paid for stumpage and slash disposal deposits at rates above specified, $0.0025 per lineal foot for the total cut of live poles must be deposited into the Treasury of the United States to cover the cost of maintenance of those portions of the North Umpqua and Cascade Lakes Forest Roads which may be used in the transportation of poles from the sale area. A deposit of $4,000.00 must accompany each bid, to be applied on the purchase price required, or retained in part as liquidated damages, according to the conditions of the sale. The right to reject any and all bids is reserved. Before bids are submitted, full information regarding the timber, conditions of sale, and the submission of bids should be obtained from the Forest Supervisor, Roseburg, Oregon. Bids at rates in excess of those permissible under MPT 460 will be reduced to the allowable maximum in making the award.

Men's Suits May Continue Scarce Until '48, Outlook

WASHINGTON, May 8.—(AP)—CPA Chief John D. Small's gloomy forecast that men's suits may remain scarce into 1948 today overshadowed industry suggestions on how to increase output 10 to 30 per cent.

The Civilian Production administrator slapped the government's cards on the table in observing to suit producers: "Anything we do now can alleviate the situation and help meet the unprecedented demand for suits. However, if that demand continues it may be a year or two before the situation is normal again."

After Small made this statement to manufacturers, other CPA officials told reporters they expect no slackening in demand for many months.

In the face of this outlook, CPA took time out to mull over manufacturers' recommendations for stepping up production quickly. At a meeting Thursday the agency will discuss further what to do about these problems outlined by producers:

- 1. An acute shortage of cotton fabric for pockets. CPA said manufacturers had reported "lots of suits laying unfinished on shelves because we can't get pocket materials."
2. A shortage of rayon linings.
3. Need for more woolen and worsted cloth if full use is to be made of available manpower and machinery.
As for the latter point, CPA said manufacturers estimate they could jump suit production by two to six million suits a year if they had all the cloth they can use.
