Small copper wires in copper tubes about the size of a pencil ... yet nearly five hundred people can talk over them at the same time. They are units of the famous coaxial cable, developed by the Bell Telephone Laboratories to help speed your calls up and down the Pacific Coast and across the country.

Many other improvements are on the way. For it is our purpose in our $400,000,000 five-year expansion program to provide an ever-widening, ever-improving telephone service ... so that the telephone steadily becomes more valuable and useful to every user.

Every day we seek to make telephone service even better than it has ever been before

The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company
121 South Stephens St. Telephone Roseburg 71

Work has begun already on our part of the first transcontinental coaxial cable along the route shown (dotted line). It will be an eight-tube cable used for long distance calls and television transmission. Actually, this project is only part of our plans to extend and speed long distance service.
