New Bank Building to Rise at Myrtle Creek

According to an announcement by E. C. Sammons, president of the United States National Bank, a new building for the Myrtle Creek branch of that institution will be erected in the very near future.

Since the establishment of the Myrtle Creek branch in June, 1945, deposits have increased substantially, Sammons explained. This growth, he stated, has necessitated the building of new and enlarged quarters. The new building, which will be built on a 50x100-foot lot recently purchased for the purpose, will be of cement and provide every modern banking facility. The banking room proper will occupy a space 50 feet by 72 feet in area. Construction will begin as soon as materials are available.
