In the Day's News

June 15. Senator Radcliffe of Maryland comes from the White House and tells reporters that the shipping strike will NOT prevent operation of the nation's merchant ships.

IN Rochester (N. Y.) a city-wide labor shutdown (called as a demonstration of labor's power) ends when a joint AFL-CIO committee accepts a city administration promise (the general strike had been called in support of a strike of municipal employees) to negotiate with organized workers so long as the "union is loyal to the United States and does not claim the right to STRIKE AGAINST THE PUBLIC."

That, again, is evidence of clearer and calmer thinking. If we can all learn to think a little more calmly and a little more clearly, this present menacing emergency can pass and the hope of a better day can dawn.

JUST a thought in passing: Oregon's gasoline consumption in April was the highest for any month in history. State Secretary Farrell reports from Salem. The gasoline industry is reconverted and GOING. You can buy all the gasoline you want (transportation permitting). You feel better to that extent.

If we can get ALL industry reconverted and going, we'll all feel much better about everything.

THIS writer, who feels often in these disturbed days that his has been a small voice crying in the wilderness, would like to repeat again his conviction that if only we had the sound common sense to accept the principle of the Golden Rule as the guide for our conduct in our dealings with each other, we would all be better off.

THE principle of the Golden Rule isn't silly, idealistic nonsense. It is GOOD BUSINESS.

THE COMMUNIST PATTERN

By CHARLES V. STANTON

Are the disturbed conditions plaguing this country today a natural aftermath of wartime strain, or is chaos deliberately planned, organized and maintained for political purposes?

We listened in recently as two men, close students of domestic and foreign affairs, discussed existing conditions, both holding to the theory that industrial reconversion and restoration of harmonious internal affairs are being deliberately sabotaged by a minority group which plans, when we have become sufficiently confused and divided, to seize political control.

In face of what is occurring today, this theory, far-fetched as it may seem, is worthy of consideration by American people who would preserve our form of government in its fundamentals.

There is no denying that things most definitely are in a mess.

With a world facing starvation, the United States, to which famine-stricken lands are looking for salvation, is being forced, by federal mismanagement, to reduce production. Our farmers, under the most trying conditions, succeeded throughout the war in setting a new high record of food production. Now, when food is needed as never before, poultrymen are being forced to liquidate their flocks, livestock is being slaughtered because it can't be fed, and reduced harvests of many major crops is forecast.

Our industrial plants astounded the world with ability to produce weapons of war. Now the war has been over nearly a year, yet, instead of being reconverted to peacetime production, industry has been thoroughly throttled. Production has fallen far behind demand, despite the fact that wartime experience revealed a production capacity far more than ample to meet present day needs if permitted free and untrammelled operation.

We have been inclined to view labor unrest, federal interference, goofy experimentation, etc., as general instability resulting from the all-out war effort. Laboring men, too, who extended themselves, and often beyond physical limitations, we have said deserved a rest and were entitled to "play around" with strikes and slow-downs while relaxing from prolonged strain.

We had not expected the OPA and other wartime agencies, with huge numbers of employees, to give up without a struggle. We anticipated they would try to cling to their well-paid jobs, at taxpayer expense, as long as possible.

But we did not expect to see Chester Bowles arrogantly and confidently defying Congress by announcing a possible return to food rationing, even while Congress debated whether the life of the OPA was to be continued, or the organization tossed into the waiting ashcan. Bowles' confidence that he would be in a position to impose food rationing certainly discounts congressional authority.

There is something sinister about present day conditions. Communistic policies are based upon the creation of chaos, division of political majorities, promotion of confusion, unrest, suspicion, riots and general disturbances, until a bewildered public accepts communistic leadership as one method of escape. This program has worked most effectively in nations which have accepted radical political ideologies.

The pattern certainly is evident in our present domestic situation. Whether it is a fanciful or real pattern is open to question. But the possibility of an organized plot should not be overlooked by thinking and concerned people.

burg for the last three years, plan to leave Monday for Seaside to spend the summer at The Tides apartments. They also expect to spend a month at Victoria, B. C., before going east in the fall.

Class to Hold Picnic — The Friendly Bible Class of the First Presbyterian Church has been invited to enjoy a potluck picnic supper Monday evening, June 3, at Plek's Shanty on the North Umpqua River. Those attending are asked to meet at the church at 4 P. M. and are requested to bring a covered dish and their own table service.

Beau Jack Gets Verdict In 2nd Bout With Greco — Beau Jack and Johnny Greco, who fought a draw back in February, did an encore last night at Madison Square Garden as the bouncing Beau from Augusta, Ga., gained a 10-round decision over the Montreal slugger.

The Beau, former lightweight champion (New York version) won eight of the 10 rounds to gain the nod from all three officials. Jack weighed 141 1/2, Greco 146.

One-Run Victories Major Factors in Big League Races

(By The Associated Press) If winning tight one-run games means a point as John McGraw used to say when the immortal Giant manager was the toast of New York, the first place Boston Red Sox and the second place St. Louis Cardinals are world series bound.

As most of the big league clubs resumed operations today following a day of rest—only the New York Yankees and Philadelphia Athletics played yesterday—a survey of the first quarter of the major league races revealed that of 301 games played roughly one-third or 88 have been decided by a single tally.

The rampant Red Sox, currently pacing the American League by six games, have the best record of pulling those tight ones out of the fire. They have won nine of 11 one-run games, percentage, far above the Detroit Tigers and Cleveland Indians who are tied for second with eight of 14 and six of 10 respectively.

Washington has won six of 11 and the St. Louis Browns have been involved in 13 close ones, winning five. Surprisingly enough the New York Yankees, who are giving the Red Sox their stiffest competition, have grabbed but three of nine one-run games.

The Cardinals' record of eight victories in 10 one-run games easily is the best in the National League with the front running Brooklyn Dodgers right behind with nine of 14.

In yesterday's only tussle, the Yankees battered the Athletics 8-1 to sweep the three game series with the Mackmen and advance them to within six games of the Red Sox.

Title at Stake in Piluso-Lynam Tilt At Armory Tonight

The world light-heavyweight championship will go on the block at the Roseburg Armory Saturday night when Ernie Piluso, champion from Portland, defends his crown against the challenger, Joe Lynam, popular Redmond grappler who has held the Australian and Pacific coast championships.

The match will be the first world title tilt in Roseburg ring history and is certain to pack the local arena to overflowing. Piluso won the title from Danny McShain in California last January and this will mark his first title defense in the Pacific Northwest. Lynam is considered the leading contender and fans believe the ex-Army sergeant capable of upsetting the Portland Italian.

Bruno Angelo, the villainous Italian who holds both the Pacific coast light-heavy and junior heavy titles, will meet Al Szasz in a non-title preliminary. Angelo recently won the light-heavy championship from Szasz in Eugene.

The program opens at 8:30 P. M., with a three-round boxing exhibition, and Elton Owen will referee all three matches.

Mann, Sacramento Hurler, Deals 0-0 Defeat to Seattle

(By The Associated Press) Garth Mann, who had sweated out most of his time this season in the dugout after a successful record last year, got the Pacific Coast Baseball League's third 1946 initiation into the exclusive circle of no-hit, no-run pitchers.

The 30-year-old right-hander attained his place in the society last night in blanking the Seattle Rainiers, 6 to 0, as his Sacramento teammates played errorless ball.

Mann fanned eight and walked three in the first inning, and another was thrown out trying to steal second, and the third was snuffed out on a double play.

Joe Demoran of Seattle and Ad Laska of Portland previously hurled no-hitters this season.

Searsella, home-run heavy weight of the league, rapped out his 15th last night, accounting for both runs, as Oakland increased its lead on a 2-0 victory over the third-place Los Angeles.

The victory, coupled with Hollywood's 3-2 defeat of the San Francisco Seals, left Oakland two games ahead of the second-ranked Seals in the pennant chase.

Portland's scheduled game with the Padres at San Diego was postponed because of traveling difficulties.

Edward T. McCarty, Rodeo Celebrity, Dies CHEYENNE, Wyo., June 1.—(AP) Edward McCarty, 38, developer of such famous bucking horses as Midnight and Five Minutes to Midnight, died of a heart attack yesterday at his ranch north of Cheyenne.

McCarty in his younger days was a leading rodeo contestant. Later he and Verne Elliott of Platteville, Colo., teamed up to produce a string of rodeo stock which performed at top shows in the United States and England.

POWELL RIVER, B. C., June 1.—(AP)—The Powell River Paper Company resumed yesterday the production of newsprint—which it supplies to many papers in Canada, the United States and Australia—following a two-day shutdown growing out of the strike by some 35,000 loggers.

"Hot" Label Taken Off Logs, Restoring Output of Paper

Premier Hart said at Victoria, meanwhile, he was confident of an early settlement of the dispute between the CIO-International Woodworkers of America and the timber operators, which entered its 18th day today.

This morning Chief Justice Sloan, federal mediator, was scheduled to present to both sides his outline of a basis for settlement. Union leaders and the operators were to reply by 5 P. M., either accepting or rejecting the proposal. The union has demanded an increase of 25 cents per hour in wages and a 40-hour work week, once offering to compromise at 18 cents. The last reported management offer was for a flat bonus of $1 per day.

The Powell company closed down its operations when I. W. A. pickets were placed on its millpond, filled with the raw materials of newsprint. The CIO union held that the logs in the pond were "hot," while Powell's AFL unions termed them "fair," and the mill closed as the two unions threshed out the problem.

The plant reopened when the I. W. A. agreed to consider a portion of the logs "fair," and leaders of the AFL unions said they would press for clearance of the remaining logs.

Scholarships in Swimming Posted

Two scholarships to the Red Cross aquatic school at Benbow Lakes, Knappton, Wash., are offered by the Douglas County Chapter of the American Red Cross, it was announced by Earl Plummer, chairman, today.

The aquatic school, which is part of the Red Cross national water safety, accident prevention and first aid program, will be held between June 19 and 29. The school at Benbow Lakes is the nearest one to Douglas County, and it is hoped that all young people, 18 or older, will take advantage of it, Plummer said.

Those interested, Plummer said, should immediately contact the Red Cross office in the Roseburg Armory or telephone 832, for information.

Germany Crisis Critical, Report Of Gen. McNarney

BERLIN, June 1.—(AP)—Gen. Joseph T. McNarney demanded yesterday fulfillment of the Potsdam agreement's provisions to administer Germany as an economic unit as necessary to pull the country out of an economic crisis which has grown and holder of an almost self-Russia, a signatory of Potsdam critical in the western zones.

The demand of the American military governor was contained in his monthly report on occupation affairs. The report is already out-dated in part by the fact that, in order to force a decision, the Americans have announced embargoing of shipments of industrial reparations out of their zone, beyond present allocations, until it is decided whether the zone will have to stand alone in a permanently divided Germany.

McNarney said the past month "must be regarded as one of virtually no progress on matters concerned with treatment of Germany as an economic unit."

Then he went on to picture the United States zone as one beset with: 1. A food situation still critical after reduction of rations from 1,275 to 1,180 calories daily for the normal consumer.

2. Growing lawlessness, featuring increasing attacks by German civilians on U. S. troops and a serious increase in food thefts by a hungry populace.

3. An export-import picture critically out of balance as the bill for food imports, chiefly from the United States, mounts.

4. A generally gloomy industrial situation, sharpened by shortages of coal and steel.

5. An overcrowding of the zone by an increase of the displaced persons population compounded by influx of hundreds of thousands of German refugees from the east and southeast.
