

Columbia Fishermen Strike for Pay Increase

ASTORIA, Ore., June 13—(AP)—Some 850 gillnet fishermen affiliated with the Columbia River Fishermen's Protective Union struck Tuesday, protesting the OPA's failure to grant a 22 per cent increase in the price of river-caught salmon.

The strike came at the opening of the salmon fishing season, after a week's closed period. Industry spokesmen said it was not likely to be a serious detriment to the fishing industry unless long protracted, because June production of salmon on the river normally is light.

The union had voted 7-1 to strike. Cannery workers belonging to the same union did not strike and will continue to handle ocean-caught salmon and bottom fish. They recently obtained wage increases from salmon packers.

Grangers Grow Social Crops that benefit all Oregonians

THE GRANGE labored for many years to have the graduated income tax enacted (in 1930) as an amendment to the State constitution.

Reasons: The Grange believes that taxes should be levied in direct proportion to ability to pay; that the major cost of government should not be borne by real property.

Results: Many millions of dollars have been saved farmers and others through direct relief from property taxes.

Projects of this nature are as vital a part of Grange activities as better agriculture itself. That is why 28,000 progressive farmers belong to the Oregon State Grange — why membership continues to grow — why the Grange is a dominant force for social progress.

Information about the purpose and accomplishments of the Oregon State Grange is contained in a booklet "Let's Look at the Record". Contact your local Grange for copy, or write direct.
