on earth NOW has this combination of an accumulated store of bombs and the materials, the equipment and the know-how to produce more of them.

"But if EVERYBODY will renounce the use of atomic energy as a war weapon and will go along together and establish ADEQUATE control of this new weapon of war we will destroy the bombs we have and will manufacture no more."

That is a dramatic gesture in the best American tradition.

WILL it get us anywhere? Realistic thinking leads us to fear that it will not.

But at least it should bring the present dangerous situation to a head. In the face of such an offer, Russia can no longer logically pretend to FEAR us.

HERE is a natural question: COULD such a scheme work?

WELL, it HAS worked in the case of individuals. There was a time when Europe was covered with fortified castles.

As this became apparent, fortified castles fell into disuse. That is to say, individuals relinquished their fortified castles when and as they became convinced that government could and would assume the job of keeping the peace.

That can happen in the case of the atomic bomb, and other weapons, when we become willing to accept the idea of SUPER-government, which will operate throughout the world as the older idea of organized government has successfully operated among individuals.

THAT is about the long and the short of it. If we are not yet ready to accept the idea of a super-government for the world, we shall have to concede regretfully that ADEQUATE control of atomic energy by international authority is not possible.

But the gesture made at New York remains. It is an impressive gesture. Present possession of the most powerful weapon the world has ever known is not a thing to be lightly given up.

The offer is proof in itself that we want peace.

FROM OREGON EXCHANGES

By CHARLES V. STANTON

One of the most interesting periods of the editor's work day is the time spent in reading exchanges—newspapers received from neighboring cities.

For instance, while Roseburg is considering the matter of a city manager, Grants Pass has made better progress and will determine its issue at a special election to be held July 10.

Incidentally, Joe Wharton, mayor of Grants Pass, who is endorsing the city manager plan, is a brother of Roseburg's mayor, Charles W. Wharton.

Eugene is studying a plan for zoning the entire length of the super-highway on Franklin boulevard. It is proposed to make this study as a protection to business interests which might suffer financial losses at a later date.

And, speaking of buildings, Mac Epley, of the Klamath Falls Herald and News, gets in the last word directed at a snooty Washington columnist who referred to Klamath Falls as a "decadent and doomed city."

The municipal budget committee at Bend came up with an innovation in connection with the official publication of the city's tentative budget. The state law requires publication of a budget and notice of public hearing prior to formal adoption.

At The Dalles, where city police are staging a crack-down on speeders and reckless motorists, cherry growers are greatly interested in an experiment in fruit shipping. An airplane loaded with 6,000 pounds of cherries was flown to Chicago.

And, continuing items of agricultural interest, Oregon City reports the strawberry picking championship to have been won by a 15-year-old boy who turned in 15 crates in one day, which netted him $11 for his efforts.

And, while Roseburg residents are decking themselves in cowboy attire as a part of the pre-rodeo celebration, they may be interested in the fact that people in Albany are donning the "free-and-easy habiliment of the woods" in preparation for their second annual Timber Carnival.

All of which brings us back to the fact that "people are pretty much alike, only some are more alike than others."

Chiefs Blank Ashland, Hold League Lead

Sporer Hurls Four-Hitter, Whiffs 11 in Victory of Home Ball Club, 6 to 0

Roseburg's Umpqua Chiefs maintained their hold on first place in the Southern Oregon baseball league by defeating the Ashland Elks, 6 to 0, at Finlay field Sunday afternoon.

Sporer, hurling four-hit ball, while striking out 11 batters, pitched to no more than three men in any one inning, except in the sixth, but also was retired on a fast double play. Five batters came to the plate in the ninth inning. Miller, left fielder, grounded to Debernardi at first. Lanier, who came in to hit for Zanon, right fielder, drew the only walk in the game, and advanced to second on Jim Jandreau's bunt, which went for an infield hit. Warren, who had previously collected two of Ashland's four hits, popped out to Virgil Sanders at second, and, while Charley Jandreau, Ashland pitcher, was at bat, his brother was trapped between first and second. Kanzer attempted to steal third, but Debernardi, on the alert for the steal, tossed to Baker, third baseman, who, in turn, flipped the ball back to Debernardi for the put-out ending the ball game.

Charley Jandreau, pitching for Ashland, turned in two strikeouts, but was rapped for ten saceties. The Chiefs checked at bat.

The Chief struck twice in the fourth inning. Witcher led off with a sharp single to left, advancing to third on a hard drive by Vonnie Baker into center field. Scherner hit a hot grounder to the shortstop, and Witcher slid under the throw to get a double. Baker scored on a squeeze bunt by Debernardi.

The Chiefs pushed two more tallies across in the fifth. George Sanders opening the fireworks with a double down the right field line, and in the sixth, Baker hit a liner into center, taking second on the throw to the plate, which was too late to catch Sanders. Witcher then drove a single deep into right field, scoring Baker.

Keeping their tallies in pairs, the Chiefs annexed two more in the seventh. Virgil Sanders, after leading off with a single into center field, was forced at second, L. Baker reaching first on a fielder's choice. Witcher was safe when Arant juggled his hard drive to the Ashland third baseman. Baker scored and Witcher went to third when V. Baker lashed a double into left-center field. Ingram went in to run for Baker and scored on Scherner's grounder to Schopf, Ashland shortstop.

Score: Ashland—000 000 000—0 4. Roseburg—000 220 20x—6 10 0. C. Jandreau and Copeland; Sporer and Huggins. Umpires: Flegel, plate; Evans, bases.

Achiu Wins Judo Bout Over Paavo

Chinaman and Finn clashed for the second time in a judo-type wrestling match at the Roseburg Armory Saturday night, and victory went to the former—Walter Achiu. The loser, Paavo Katonen, after taking the first of three scheduled falls, was strangled into insensibility in the second round and was carried to the dressing room on the shoulders of Referee Jack Poppenheim.

The Oaks' gloom resulted from Sunday's double reverses at the hands of Sacramento while the Seals were winning two from Portland. A Seal victory tonight would put San Francisco into a virtual tie with the Oaks.

Oakland's Sunday losses were by scores of 43 and 5-3. Ramsey, Sac centerfielder, scored the winning run in the opener. He singled in the ninth, went to second on an infield out and scored on Marty's single. Three Oak errors decided the seven-inning nightcap in the fourth frame. The Oaks defeated Sacramento 2-1 Saturday.

At Portland, the Seals won the Sunday double bill 6-4 and 8-5. The Saturday game was rained out.

Los Angeles finished a successful week with Sunday wins of 8-7 and 3-2, after a 6-1 victory over Seattle Saturday. The opener went 11 innings and the nightcap one over the customary seven.

Hollywood and San Diego split Sunday, the Padres winning the opener behind the veterans Seata 9-4, and Dasso, former San Diego pitcher recently acquired by Hollywood, winning the second game for the Stars 3-0. The Saturday game went to Hollywood 7-6.

Herman Stars In Twin Bill After Swap to Braves

(By the Associated Press) Billy Southworth, who doesn't consider a day well spent unless he comes up with a new "Red-skin" for his Boston Braves wigwam, appears today to have scored a 10-strike in his latest acquisition, Billy Herman, one of baseball's top-flight hitters during the past decade.

Arriving 30 minutes before game time following the trade which brought him from Brooklyn in exchange for Catcher Hoffferth, Herman drove in the Braves' initial run in the first game of Boston's doubleheader with Cincinnati which sent the Hub on its way to a twin triumph over the Reds 2-1 and 2-0.

In his second appearance at the plate, with the Braves trailing 1-0 in the fifth inning and Ryan on first, Herman slashed a double, scoring Ryan with the tying run. He followed Ryan over the plate a moment later with the winning run on Mas's single.

Mort Cooper, another former Cardinal who preceded Southworth to the Braves, followed Wright's eighth performance with a sterling two-hitter in the nightcap. Flashing his old time vigor, Cooper fanned seven in racking up his fifth triumph of the season and his 30th shut-out in his eight-year career.

Dodgers Stretch Lead The double win moved the fifth place Braves to within a game and a half of the first division and seven and a half behind the league-leading Dodgers, who increased their margin over the runner-up Cards by whipping the Chicago Cubs 4-2.

The Cards were forced to accept a split with the New York Giants when the Polo Grounders came back to humble them 9-1, after the Cards had won the opener 4-1.

The Boston Red Sox dropped their first series of the season when they could do no better than divide two games with the Chicago White Sox. After losing two in a row to the White Sox, Boston, behind Hughson, who was making his first start since May 30 due to a shoulder injury, won the opener 5-1. The Windy City boys, however, came back to route four Bosox pitchers to win the afterpiece 7-4.

After pounding out a 9-2 win over the St. Louis Browns, the Yankees cashed in on a three-base error by Pitcher Shirley to win the nightcap 7-5 in 10 innings.

Third place Detroit dropped to an even dozen games off the pace when the Washington Senators triumphed 6-3 in a game held to seven innings by rain and darkness.

The Phils extended their winning streak to four straight when they beat Pittsburgh 4-3, but the Pirates came back to hand the Phils their fifth defeat in the last 17 games 10-1.

Cleveland moved into fifth place by copying both ends of its doubleheader with the Philadelphia Athletics 2-1 in 11 innings and 3-2. Feller racked up his 11th win in the first game on Edwards' single that scored Mackiewicz. Blazing Bob struck out nine to boost his season total to 143 in 135 innings.

Louis, Conn in Top Form for Battle Wednesday Night

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK, June 17.—(P)—This week will supply the answer to one of the most vexing questions since the late Adolf Hitler wondered whether the gun was loaded and found that it was.

On Wednesday night, Emancipation Day, the once great prizefighter, Joe Louis, will climb into a blindingly illuminated ring at Yankee Stadium, while some 70,000 spectators crouched in the shadows, and find whether he can whip swift Billy Conn of Pittsburgh for the second time.

It was just five years ago, when America still was at peace, that the big Negro, fresh from the so-called "Battle of the Bums" in which he had stowed away all the excess heavyweights in the country, finally pounded Billy into submission in the 13th round.

False Idea Upset Much has been made of the fact that Louis, the champion, was behind on points when he finally tagged the will o' the wisp from the coal country. It has even been written that Conn could have won the prize bauble that night merely by having gone into his shell and lasted out the final three rounds.

That, as it happens, is wrong. An extended study of the score cards of the two judges and the referee on that fateful night has long since shown that Billy needed to do more than stay around to the final bell to win the decision. It was much closer than that, and Louis would have won going away if he had taken the 13th, 14th and 15th stanzas.

All of which is past history, but it is inserted at this point merely to set the record straight. Since that night the two have fought for keeps scarcely at all. Before he could get into the ring, Louis casually knocked out Lou Nova, Abe Simon and Buddy Baer in bouts that were forgotten the next day, Conn turned in three decision victories, the most important over Tony Zale, before he, too, heard the call.

In the ensuing years both trouped the soldier camps of the world, sauntering their respective officers and boxing exhibitions, mostly against unknowns. Conn, a natural 175-pounder, soared to over 200 pounds at one time in England.

Both in Top Shape There was the natural question whether the two of them could get into condition to fight again. That one, at least, has been answered. Both are in shape and their long and arduous training grinds. Louis honestly seems to think he is in the finest fighting trim of his life, though that is to be doubted in a man of 32 years.

Conn was ready to fight for the title a week ago, and since then has taken it very, very easy for fear of passing his peak. His manager, Johnny Ray, practically blows a gasket at the suggestion that Billy might be over-trained when the bell rings for the big one.

During the past week there has been recurrent mention of a "swing to Conn," meaning 1-21 members of boxing cognoscenti were piling on Billy's handicap. An earnest search, however, has failed to locate this undercover movement.

Money Favors Louis The odds today still were fluctuating around 12 to 5 against Conn, and the great majority of expert observers were picking Louis to win by a knockout. Some of the Louis pickers admitted they merely were stringing along with a great champion. Others were vehement in their belief that the big Negro would knock his lighter opponent kicking.

As the two prepared to engage in their final boxing sessions over in New Jersey today, Louis was at about 212 pounds, within two pounds of what he expects to do at the official weigh-in at Madison Square Garden Wednesday noon.

Conn's heft is more of a mystery. No one, so far as the writer knows, has been privileged to watch Billy step on the scales, other than those of his immediate pugilistic family. Manager Ray has said that Billy might scale as high as 182, yet Billy himself, in a moment of confidence, has placed his probable fighting weight at no higher than 175, or only a pound over his official poundage for the fight five years ago.

Dolan Kayoes Tambe SPOKANE, June 17.—(P)—Never a guy to waste time, Joey Dolan of Spokane scooped an uppercut Saturday night in the second round of his brush with Joe Tambe of Buffalo, N. Y., and the knockout punch earned him his 13th win in 14 starts. Dolan weighed 125½ and Tambe 126½. Freddie Steele of Vancouver, B. C., weighing 127, defeated Chris Gregory, 127½, Spokane, in a preliminary go.
