Roseburg Traffic Officer Attends Training School

Douglas Tudor, traffic officer of the Roseburg Police Department, went today to Corvallis to attend an intensified two weeks' course on traffic police operations at the National Institute for Traffic Training, being held at Oregon State College, June 17 to 28. Chief of Police Erwin Short announced.

The national institute, which is sponsored by a number of national organizations with an interest in traffic safety and enhanced traffic facilities, will offer courses conducted by experts in the fields of traffic enforcement, traffic engineering, and driver training. Chief Short stated.

The course in traffic police operations will be under the direction of A. R. Forster, director of training at the Northwestern University Traffic Institute. Instruction by outstanding authorities, such as Lt. Col. Franklin Kreml, director of the safety division of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, will be featured.

The Corvallis institute marks national recognition of the West's increasing traffic problem and will provide representatives from communities of the 11 western states with much needed help in solving the problems of accidents and traffic congestion, acute since the end of gasoline rationing, the Roseburg police chief said.

Swim Classes Begin in Roseburg

Swimming classes began this morning in the South Umpqua River at the foot of Temple St., with Instructor Eddie Wyatt in charge.

Children who are just learning, Wyatt said, are scheduled at 10 A. M. daily. An intermediate class for children who can swim up to 100 yards will be at 11 A. M.

The afternoon schedule will include four classes: 1:30, beginners' class for children 6 years or younger; 2 o'clock, beginners' class for children 7, 8, or 9 years old; 2:30, novices' class for children 7, 8, or 9 years old who have had swimming lessons; 3 o'clock, beginners' class for children who can swim almost 50 yards.

The schedule is to be followed five days a week, Monday through Friday, Wyatt said. Swimming students must have suits and a medical certificate showing typhoid inoculations. Monday night, between 6 and 8 o'clock, a free heart check and ear examination will be given all swimmers in the county health department office at the courthouse, Wyatt said.

Congressman, Fourth Oregon District

Session Nears End

There is still considerable "must" legislation to be completed by Congress before the end of the fiscal year, June 30. All current appropriations end on that date. The draft law ends and so does the OPA law. Both of these laws will be extended, but there is considerable work to be done to adjust the differences between the two houses of Congress.

As this is written, the Senate is working on the draft extension bill and will then take up OPA. Several appropriation bills have yet to be acted upon. So, in spite of the fact that the leadership in both House and Senate have been driving to get this legislation completed as early as possible, we are drawing near the deadline date.

The House has been somewhat ahead of the Senate in clearing its major bills. During the last two weeks, the Senate has been endeavoring to catch up by holding numerous night sessions. After the necessary legislation is completed, and by "necessary" I mean those bills which must be acted upon before the end of the fiscal year, there does not seem to be enough other pending legislation to require the Congress to stay in session very late into the summer. No one is willing to predict when this session will end, but the general opinion seems to be that the date will be somewhere around July 15th—probably a little later.

Congress Honors Deceased Members

The annual Memorial Service was held in the House of Representatives on May 28th. This service is held each year to eulogize and revere the deceased members of the Senate and House who have passed away during the year. As a rule, the Senate does not officially join this memorial service, but the Senators usually take time off to attend. This year was a bit different, inasmuch as Senator Carter Glass had passed away that morning, and the Senate had adjourned its daily session in respect to this veteran Senator. The Senate recessed and most of the members came to the House chamber to attend the prepared program.

Four Senators have passed away (including Senator Glass) during the past year, and four Representatives, including Oregon's James W. Mott. This is an unusually large number in the Senate, and a small number in the House. The Senate has 96 members, and the House 435, and in one year, not so long ago, there were 28 members of the House who passed away.

Music for the service was furnished by the U. S. Army Band orchestra and solos by Congressman Louis Rabaut of Michigan, accompanied by his daughter at the piano. Invocation and scripture readings were made by the House chaplain, Dr. James Shera Montgomery, who opens every session of the House with an impressive prayer. The addresses of eulogy were delivered by Hon. F. Edward Hebert (D.) of Louisiana and Hon. J. Harvy McGregor (R.) of Ohio.

Congresswoman Edith Nourse Rogers placed a memorial rose in a vase in front of the speaker's platform as the name of each deceased member was read by the clerk. This was followed by a one-minute period of devotional silence.

Small Business Aid

The Department of Commerce has established a division known as the "Small Business Division," under the direction of Laurence F. Arnold, a former member of Congress. The function of this division, as outlined to me in a letter from Mr. Arnold, is to answer questions from perplexed small businessmen as to how to obtain scarce materials and equipment, adjustment in price schedules, or some type of contract assistance. Such questions can either be sent to me or direct to Mr. Arnold, who may be addressed as follows:

Mr. Laurence F. Arnold,
Director,
Office of Small Business,
Department of Commerce,
Washington 25, D. C.
