Drain Man Named Aide in Plans to Keep Oregon Green

Governor Snell this week notified Forrest C. Losee, Sr., Douglas county chairman, that Earnest Whipple of Drain had been selected at the recent meeting of the Willamette Valley Logging Conference to give all possible aid to his Keep Oregon Green Committee during the dry summer months ahead.

The naming of Mr. Whipple as a representative of the logging industry means closer cooperation from the loggers of this section, the county chairman pointed out, as he is a logger and was named by Allen C. Smith, retiring president of the conference to represent the loggers of Douglas county in fire prevention work.

At the annual session of this group at Eugene in May the loggers urged their membership to give wholehearted support to Keep Oregon Green, and asked Governor Snell to name a logger in each of the eighteen Western Oregon counties to work with the local KOG committees and whose job would be to get the logging industry organized to reduce the number of man-caused forest fires. The logging conference made the nominations to the governor.

Greater Vigilance Needed

"We expect a greatly increased hazard from out-of-state travelers in our woods," Dean Paul M. Dunn, state head of KOG pointed out in a letter to the local chairman. "All of which means we must double our efforts to prevent forest and range fires caused by careless acts of our citizens. This season will see our woods extremely dry." Listing principal causes of forest fires as camp fires, cigarettes, and throwing of lighted material into dry material, Dunn urged every citizen to use a "degree of caution and common sense" when using the forests and fields on state to help Keep Oregon Green.
