In the Day's News

commodity exchanges are AUC-TION markets, with prices established by bid and take.

Bidding is influenced by the EXCITEMENT of the moment.

REMEMBER that on these AUC-TION markets, prices can fall as rapidly as they can rise.

ALL over the country, the A-SOUNDER elements of business recognize that a sharp SUSTAINED rise of prices will be bad.

Sound business knows it has EVERYTHING TO LOSE and in the long pull nothing to gain by runaway prices.

THIS thought is put forcibly by a clothing merchant in Mil-waukee (Oregon), near Portland, who announces:

"I'm changing my prices right now—a straight 5% REDUC-TION. I'll not be losing money, and if every merchant would reduce prices instead of raising them (now that costly OPA restrictions are off) we wouldn't EVER have price control."

MOST significant of all are statements by Stanley Earl, executive secretary of the Oregon state CIO council, and James E. Fading, president of the CIO International Woodworkers of America, who issue statements condemning the end of OPA and warning that labor will seek wage increases to meet rising costs.

That is natural enough and REASONABLE enough. If prices are to soar, wages will soar. Labor has the POWER to insure that.

(If both wages and prices soar, NOBODY will be any better off.)

THIS fact faces ALL business men:

Prices can drop OVER NIGHT. Wages, because of the pressures that can be and will be exerted, will FALL MUCH MORE SLOWLY.

In that direction lies bankruptcy for employers.

EVERYWHERE there is recognition that EXCEPT IN THE CASE OF HOUSING buyers can go on strike if prices go too high. But we can't DO WITHOUT HOUSES.

The National Apartment House Owners Association sends telegrams to 50,000 apartment house owners in 150 principal cities urging them to hold rent increases to 15 per cent above present rates.

In the house of representatives, Republican members draft a bill to reimpose OPA ceilings on rents. The bill is so worded as to OULAW rent increases already announced.

HOUSING is the hot spot. Something will HAVE TO BE DONE about that. Otherwise there can be revolution.

AS TO leadership in Washing- ton, this is still perfectly plain:

There has been no sincerity in this OPA mess. ALL the politi- cians and all the pressure groups are merely using it to PUT EACH OTHER IN THE HOLE.

WHATEVER help we may get in the situation that con- fronts the country will have to come from the forbearance and

OPA NOW IMPOTENT

By CHARLES V. STANTON

Regardless of what action may be taken by the Congress in prolonging the OPA, that organization is dead, insofar as its ability to function as an effective agency of government is concerned.

An agency teetering on the edge of oblivion cannot command public respect, obedience or cooperation. As long as the weight of public opinion favored OPA it could maintain a more or less effective measure of control.

Thus to continue OPA as a price control body would only serve to create further chaos and confusion, hampering production and reconversion, and stimulating the inflationary trend.

OPA's scare campaign, however, is paying dividends in that great numbers of people anticipate terrific and paralyzing inflation through removal of price controls.

If people are afraid of inflation, afraid of price increases, and translate their fear into caution, we will weather the period of reconversion without inflation.

Inflation cannot exist in the face of unrestricted production and competition. Neither can it live if people do not become panicky. Inflation demands that people spend their money competitively for scarce commodities and that they pay unreasonable prices.

Information gathered from various cities indicates an increasing trend on the part of the buying public to cease wasteful spending. People are becoming more cautious. This is a part of the fear psychology created by OPA.

In talking with the man-on-the-street one finds that, unless he is in urgent need of transportation, he does not propose to buy an automobile until new models have been built and thoroughly tested and the "bugs" removed.

One of the newest shelves in the library, containing interesting editions, is the Memorial Shelf where books are donated to the reading public in memory of persons who have died. Each of these books are individual tributes, and total around fifty.

It took some 30 deaths in California, Oregon, Washington and British Columbia and countless cases of agonizing illness to bring health authorities to united action against the menace of toxic mussels and uncleaned clams.

This week's warning against uncleaned clams should be heeded by all who wish to live. Though persons not affected by the commercial ban, dug clams during the low tides of the week-end and there is no way in which one may determine if a clam is or is not poisonous.

It has been established that clams are less dangerous than mussels, in this respect. While mussels should be shunned entirely in the proscribed months, clams may be rendered safe by careful removal of the stomach.

Dr. Vittorio Mattel of Major hospital said that some time ago Ada Blancato, a patient who had been motionless in bed for three years with tuberculosis plastic peritonitis, said: "I saw my guardian angel near my bed, while I was in an amazing light, and he told me that on Christmas Day (June 28) I would have recovered my health."

At dawn on June 28, she told attendants that "I felt suddenly a strange warmth in my body."

Dr. Mattel said the girl rose, walked, dressed herself and ate with appetite.

"I cannot speak about a miracle," Dr. Mattel said, "because I am a surgeon, but certainly we are facing a really strange case. I am sure that Ada Blancato is not a simulator because she always had fever until the day before her mysterious cure."

Ada, an orphan, has remained at Major hospital for observation.

The girl said, "My guardian angel told me that my healing would help to cure many sinners. I am waiting orders for my mission."

In the ninth century, the Danes forced each householder in Ireland to pay a tax of one ounce of gold. Failure to do so was punishable by splitting the default-er's nose.

EMPORIA, Kas., July 3. (P.) John De Long, former Navy officer, has been awaiting his chance to bid on surplus government property to add to his farm equipment.

Finally the War Assets Administration advised him he might bid on two 1942 model 80-ton coal burning steam locomotives.

Machinery For Harvesting Rates Additional Steel

Makers of urgently-needed equipment, including many types of harvesting machinery, now may obtain necessary steel supplies for their products upon certification of steel manufacturers that the steel will be used for the critical items to be delivered before September 30, 1946.

Classes of farm machinery and equipment, including repair parts for the items, which may be self-certified by manufacturers for needed steel include: Combines, harvesters, threshers; grain binders; corn binders, excluding sled and wheel type; corn pickers; field ensilage harvesters; row type; potato diggers and pickers, excluding walking plow type; bean cutters or pullers; sugar beet and onion harvesters; equipment; peanut diggers; farm haying machinery, excluding field bale loaders; ensilage cutters (soil fillers); corn shellers; potato sorters and graders; fruit and vegetable graders; washers, sackers and conveyors, and wheel-type farm tractors.

Borrowers from the Roseburg Public Library at the end of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1946, totaled 3,641 according to figures compiled by the librarian, Mrs. Hilda Reizenstein, Tuesday. This is 345 more borrowers than last year and includes residents of Roseburg and the immediate area.

Borrowers Upped At Public Library

Books now available at the local library total approximately 15,590, with 449 new editions purchased during the past year. These books do not include popular late novels which are also available to the public through a supplement system whereby the library may obtain books from Corvallis, Eugene and Salem.

One of the newest shelves in the library, containing interesting editions, is the Memorial Shelf where books are donated to the reading public in memory of persons who have died.

'Trial' Insurance Will Be Halted for Present

No new commodities will be added to this trial insurance program in the immediate future, the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation has stated.

Dairy Payments Ready For Second Quarter

Corn-Agricultural conservation (AAA) committees now are making dairy payments to producers for the April-May-June period. Applications for the payment must be filed before August 31, but producers are urged to get their applications in as soon as possible.

Since there will be no News-Review edition on Thursday, we'll give you some condensed best bits in listening for tonight and Thursday. KRNR will go on holiday schedule, which means that we'll take to the air at 7:00, giving the early morning operator another hour of sleep.

Best Bets for tonight: Spotlight Bands, 6:30; Main Line, 8:00; and Weira Circle at 10:30. New show bows into KRNR schedule at 8:30... the much publicized "Meet the Press," which drew comment from Time Magazine.

Thursday Listening Post: Regular daytime network shows... some local shows canceled due to holiday. Remotes at 9:30 and Man on the Street, but Mail Order Melodies will not be heard. A new show, "By Popular Demand," replaces Treasure Hour of Song in the 6:30 spot for the summer.

Mark four o'clock and ten o'clock as "don't miss" on Thursday. For the last few years, Fulton Lewis has repeated the same broadcast each July Fourth... his best of the year to our way of thinking. Remind yourself to tune in so you won't miss it if he does the traditional broadcast again this year.

Veterans Seeking Loans Should Go to Finance Agency

Veterans wanting to obtain GI loans should go directly to a bank, savings and loan association or other lending agency, Thomas A. Collins, contact representative for the Veterans Administration in Roseburg, advised today.

Collins declared that observing the following points of advice would save the veteran a lot of time and effort in obtaining a loan—whether it is for the purpose of building a home, establishing a business or buying a farm: 1. Don't rush into any venture; have definite plans formulated. 2. Contact a lending agency, which will process the case through the VA; the VA does not make the loan, it only guarantees to the bank a certain portion of the loan. 3. Submit original discharge papers or original separation papers to the lending agency at the time of applying for a loan in order to establish eligibility for loan guarantee and to facilitate endorsement of the papers by the VA.

At the end of May a total of $7,001,968 in GI loans had been approved for veterans in the state of Oregon, Collins said. The Roseburg contact office of the VA is located at the Veterans Hospital.
