Marines Offering Good Education

Stressing the great educational benefits to be received by immediate enlistment in the United States Marine Corps, S-Sgt. Michael Slye, recruiting representative in Roseburg each Thursday, urges all young men to give this new program deep consideration.

The education program conducted in the Marine Corps include educational and vocational guidance, correspondence courses, off-duty classes, self-teaching courses, testing and accreditation service and the dissemination of information concerning world events and current events.

Specialties which can be learned, Sgt. Slye reports, are: Printing, photography, metallurgy, machinery, engineering, radio, commercial, automotive, electrical, construction telephony, railroad, aviation, craftsmen and general.

Sgt. Slye will be at the Roseburg Armory each Thursday from 8 A. M. to 4:30 P. M. Young men interested will be under no obligations upon receiving interviews and information, Slye added.

Vets May Reenlist In Former Grade

Former army men who have been discharged longer than 90 days and who desire to return to active service need not reenlist in grade of private unless discharged in that grade, according to information received from Capt. J. F. Spence, army recruiting officer for this area. The regulation providing for the reenlistment of former service men in a grade appropriate to their experience and training, which expired July 1, 1946, has been renewed for an indefinite period.

Discharged officers, warrant officers and flight officers, who desire to make the army their career will be enlisted as permanent master sergeants or first sergeants if enlistment is accomplished within 20 days from date of discharge. Persons in this category who have been out of service longer than 20 days may still be enlisted in non-commissioned officer grades, but the actual rank offered will be determined prior to enlistment by the War Department.

The latest enlistment in the regular army from Roseburg was that of Fred L. Butler, 205 Wharton Avenue, who wil serve in the Army Air Forces in the Pacific theater.
