Chiefs Lose in Protest Ruling

The protest made by H. W. Grav, recreation director, of the decision which cost Roseburg's Umpqua Chiefs their game with Crescent City in the Southern Oregon Baseball League, was denied at a meeting of league officers and managers at Grants Pass Sunday.

The protest was based upon the fact that a passed ball was thrown into the field by a spectator, resulting in a Roseburg runner being caught off second base on a hidden ball trick.

The protest was rejected on the grounds that the team manager should have given immediate notice to the game's officials that the balance of the contest would be played under protest, but that formal notice of protest was not given until the game had been concluded.

Millions Vainly Expended to Solve Palestine Controversy, Oldest Headache in World

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent.

WASHINGTON—This is probably monkeying with a buzz-saw, but here goes. The point is, you have to take these great foreign policy problems and fit them into something you're familiar with; close at home. Only then do involved issues begin to make sense.

Take for instance, this matter of what to do about Palestine. It so happens that Maryland is the American state closest in area and population to Palestine. Vermont and New Hampshire may come closer in size and shape, but they don't have nearly as many inhabitants. Palestine is 10,000 square miles with 1,600,000 population. Maryland is 10,000 square miles and 1,800,000 population. Now supposing some high monkey monk commission from the United Nations came along and said to the people of the great free state of Maryland, "Lookit, you people down here have got to take in another 100,000 immigrants, quick. The Russians in Austria have just confiscated the property of a lot of Germans in Austria and told them to get out. They want to come to the American zone in Germany, but there isn't room. So they want to come to Maryland. Get ready to take them in."

World's Oldest Problem
You can just imagine how much of a stink there would be in Baltimore if anybody tried to put over anything like that on the State of Maryland. Yet that is just about the formula the U. S. and British governments now propose to work on Palestine. Palestine is in the news again—No. That's wrong, Palestine hasn't been out of the news since the end of World War I—since the days of the Crusades—since the beginning of the Christian era—since the days of Moses. It is the world's oldest story, the world's oldest problem. It has never been solved before and you can bet your last inflated, two-cent nickel that it isn't going to be solved now. Even if President Truman has just sent to London a new committee of deputy cabinet officers under Henry Grady to see what can be done about squeezing another 100,000 immigrants into Palestine quick. It isn't going to be solved now because this is merely another attempt to solve it by the same means that haven't worked before. By force. By dictation. By arbitrary rule repugnant to everyone save the immigrants who would be shoehorned in.

U. S. Shares Hot Potato
From World War I this was exclusively a British hot potato. Having a mouth and belly full of it was no doubt exactly what made the British talk the way they do. Anyway, the British sucked the United States in on this shortly before the end of

Dale Bolsinger Lands 43-Lb. Striped Sea Bass

Dale Bolsinger, accompanied by Frank Siroy and Marion Thomas on a fishing trip to Coos River on Saturday and Sunday, reaped unusually fine luck with Bolsinger catching a 43-pound striped sea bass. According to reports of the entrants in the Coos River fishing contest, this is the largest bass to be taken from the river. Bolsinger had not registered in the contest prior to catching the fish. Several bass caught over the weekend weighed from 23 to 28 pounds.

Now's Time For Filbert Spraying

Filbert growers who plan to spray for the control of the filbert worm are urged to make the first application of spray immediately. Filbert moths are beginning to emerge and eggs are being laid. These eggs will hatch in about eight days and the young worms will begin to enter the young filbert nut as soon as hatched. States County Agent J. Roland Parker. Spray before the eggs hatch is recommended for the best control.

Lead arsenate, used at the rate of 3 pounds to 100 gallons of water, plus a good spreader or a 40 per cent lead arsenate dust, is recommended. Through application of the spray, especially on the upper portion of the tree, is necessary for the best results. The newly hatched worm feeds lightly on the underside of the leaves before entering the nuts and it is important to see the spray or dust thoroughly covers the under side of the leaves.

Growers desiring to use a combination spray for the control of the filbert worm and blight the following spray is recommended: Bordeaux mixture 6-2-100 (6 pounds of copper sulphate, 2 pounds (caustic) lime or 3 pounds of hydrated lime, and 100 gallons of water) plus lead arsenate (3 pounds in each 100 gallons of water) plus an efficient, compatible spreader-sticker.

Cheers, Boos Greet Anti-Klan Speech

ATLANTA, July 22—(AP)—Intermittent boos were hurled at Drew Pearson, syndicated Washington columnist, during an anti-Klan speech here yesterday.

Pearson spoke on the steps of the Georgia Capitol. Patrolmen and policemen were present in large numbers.

Cheers also interrupted the columnist at several points.

A crowd estimated at 2,000 assembled to hear the critic of the hooded order lambast the Klan and quote Klan officials as saying key law enforcement agencies in the Talmadge administration would be klansmen.

Gene Talmadge, champion of "white supremacy," was nominated governor in last week's Democratic primary. The Klan also supports "white supremacy."

Pearson was introduced by Gov. Ellis Arnall, whose legal department has filed suit here to revoke the Klan's charter in Georgia.

The columnist said that "his lory will ridicule and despise the fiery cross on Stone Mountain, because the Dery cross breaks faith with the Cross of Calvary."

Stone Mountain near here is the birthplace of the modern Klan and the Klan has frequently burned giant crosses on the huge pieces of exposed granite.
