Wheelchair Girl Freed In Slaying Stepfather

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Pretty 19-year-old Jacqueline Colburn, who has been unable to walk since stricken with rheumatic fever 15 years ago, was freed today following an announcement by State's Attorney John W. Curren that the fatal stabbing and shooting of her stepfather was justifiable homicide. Jacqueline was released yesterday to the custody of her mother.

Curren said her statement that she shot and stabbed Lawrence Barregarve, 36, Monday night during a family quarrel in which the stepfather knocked her from her wheelchair indicated "a case of self-defense."

Barregarve had been arrested in 1940 and again last March on threat to kill charges but the charges were dismissed after family reconciliations. Curren said. A divorce suit by Mrs. Barregarve on cruelty charges remained pending, he added.

Goal in Employment Nearer; Shortage of Labor May Follow

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—(AP)—The much publicized goal of 60,000,000 jobs is rapidly being approached, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York reported today, and an actual labor shortage is a possibility by fall.

In its monthly review the bank cited census bureau estimates that civilian employment in the first week of June totaled 56,700,000 persons, highest in the nation's history and an increase of a million and a half over May. It noted that if the 3,000,000 in the armed forces are included, the 60,000,000 level is closely approached.

Pointing out that industry has not yet attained capacity peacetime production, the review added that as hiring in manufacturing, construction and trade continues, shortages of workers may become definite by fall.

Although the cannery currently is employing approximately 80 workers, Tuesday's crew employed only about half that number, and few of the idle workers reported for the election in which 48 votes were cast.

West Coast cannery workers generally are affiliated with the teamsters union, Lester Williams, business agent for the Roseburg Local, reports.

Sparkman Has Unofficial Majority in Alabama

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 1.—(AP)—The official canvass August 8 of Tuesday's senatorial primary was awaited today to determine if Representative John Sparkman, 46-year-old House majority whip, will be forced into a runoff for the seat of the late John H. Bankhead.

Sparkman, the ex-tenant farm boy who has served 10 years in the House, had a 223 majority over his four opponents with virtually complete returns tabulated unofficially.

Sparkman, who worked his way through the University of Alabama after borrowing $75 on a cotton crop, ran with the endorsement of the CIO-PAC and other organized labor groups, but this was not a major factor in the campaign.

Anyone having information as to the whereabouts of Robert George Hutton, whose last known address was Gresham, Ore., are asked to contact the Douglas County Selective Service Board, Levi White, chairman, said today.
