Finer, faster trains to the East!

You can go East via California for little or no additional rail fare. This way you can see the whole Pacific Coast, and take your choice of a wide selection of fine Southern Pacific trains from California to the East.

Stopover privileges permit you to visit as you wish en route. Four years of pageantry, culminating in a great centennial celebration of California's admission to statehood, are now under way, and side trips into the leisurely surroundings of the old Spanish towns are especially delightful.

In San Francisco you will enjoy the invigorating atmosphere of America's coolest summer city. Or you can bask in the sun in Southern California, see movie and radio stars in Hollywood and Los Angeles—even visit as far south as picturesque La Jolla and San Diego on your way East.

Here are just a few of the finer, faster trains you may choose from for your trip East:

THREE FAMOUS ROUTES EAST FROM CALIFORNIA

— San Francisco to Chicago

OVERLAND ROUTE

Our Overland Route trains, the "City of San Francisco," "Overland Limited," "Pacific Limited" and the "San Francisco Challenger," take you directly across the continent to Chicago, from San Francisco over California's spectacular High Sierra, across the inland of Great Salt Lake and through the Rockies.

GOLDEN STATE ROUTE

— Los Angeles to Chicago

The "Golden State Limited" (all streamlined Pullmans and reclining chair cars) and the "California," economy train, run from Los Angeles to Chicago via Phoenix, Tucson and El Paso, with Juárez just across the border. Interesting one-day side trip from El Paso enables you to see world-famous Carlsbad Caverns.

SUNSET ROUTE

— Los Angeles to New Orleans

Our Sunset Route trains, the famous "Sunset Limited" and the "Argonaut," take you through the Southwest and Texas to the Old South. New Orleans, terminus of the route and connecting point with railroads to New York, it is well worth a visit in itself. You will enjoy its interesting food, antique shops and historic attractions.

THROUGH PULLMANS • COAST-TO-COAST

NOW! Through Pullman service from Coast-to-Coast, on Southern Pacific and connecting lines. You go straight through to New York and Washington from San Francisco via the Overland Route, and to New York from Los Angeles via the Golden State Route.

COMING! Plans are now under way for two new streamlined Shasta Daylights to link Portland and San Francisco daily by daylight. Also, as new cars can be delivered, the all-Pullman Cascade will be fully streamlined.
