further negotiation by the two Americans seems hopeless.

FURTHER light on the Chinese situation is shed by a dispatch from Shanghai, quoting the director of UNRRA's China office to the effect that he can't recommend further shipment of relief supplies to China until around November.

He says: "About 120,000 tons of UNRRA supplies are clogged in the Shanghai bottleneck, and about 296,000 MORE tons are on the way. It will take at least four or five months to clear away this jam."

THAT is to say, China is so badly starved in her own mess that we can't even get to the starving Chinese the food that we have piled up in Shanghai in a sincere and humanitarian effort to relieve their suffering.

ALL BECAUSE THE LEADERS OF THE CHINESE FACTIONS CAN'T GET ALONG WITH EACH OTHER!

EVIDENCE is piling mountain-high that one of the world's needs is better, more practical, more USABLE knowledge of how human beings can GET ALONG TOGETHER.

ITALY'S de Gasperi comes before the Paris "peace" conference to protest (among other things) internationalization of the port of Trieste (which Italy claims should be hers).

He says: "What good will come of clinging to a solution which only bids for new trouble?"

ONLY business men, who know by hard experience that dissatisfied customers are certain to result in grief and money loss, have sense enough to realize that NO GOOD can come of such policies.

Diplomats seem never to have learned that lesson.

DE GASPERI, in his brief appearance before the conference, adds: "The treaty draft drawn up by the foreign ministers council is a hard treaty, indeed."

He overlooks the fact that Italy is a two-time loser. Twice in a row she picked the wrong crowd to gang up with. In the natural course of events, people (and nations) who do that pay heavy penalties.

IT has been wrong leadership, of course, that led Italy into her mistakes. But PICKING WRONG LEADERS is about the worst mistake people can make.

THE dispatches tell us that in the Luxembourg palace (built by French despots who themselves caused the world a lot of trouble) a stiff and stony silence greeted de Gasperi's words.

The cold disapproval was broken only, the dispatches add, by our Jimmy Byrnes, who shook de Gasperi's hand as he passed on his way out.

IN the cold light of reason, it is clearly apparent that Italy's mistakes (made by her WRONG leaders) are responsible for her present troubles.

Still, it would be interesting to know just what PROMISES were made to her by our side when we were working on her to get her to quit Hitler and come over to us.

Also it would be worth while to know just how we have LIVED UP to these promises.

MAKING promises to get something you want very much and then "failing" to live up to

SPIRITUAL WAR GOES ON

By CHARLES V. STANTON

One year ago today we received news of Japan's formal surrender, ending World War II.

The surrender followed a series of startling events. This nation for months had been conditioned to accept reports of heavy casualties, anticipated in amphibious landings on the Japanese mainland and in the stubborn suicidal defense the enemy was expected to maintain.

But the year which has elapsed since V-J day has not brought peace. The world remains in turmoil. Civil war continues in the hills of the Philippine Islands for Jap fugitives.

These, however, are only incidents in the larger picture of world affairs. Civilized nations, sitting at tables and trying to chart the future course of the world, find selfishness, greed, nationalism, power politics, secret treaties, alliances, ideologies and suspicion among the many barriers to accord.

The war against fascism is not ended, for fascist principles and ambitions still control the thinking of many peoples. Communism and democracy cannot compose their radical differences. Imperialistic ambition has not been subjugated.

Is our last war, like the one which preceded it, to succeed only in sowing the seed for another great global catastrophe? Man, it seems, can never learn his lessons. Throughout centuries tribes have fought tribes and nations have fought nations.

The goal of freedom toward which mankind has directed its efforts throughout all time is still remote. Entrenched before it are the forces of human greed, selfishness, lust for power and wealth, intolerance, exploitation, and accumulated hatreds and suspicions.

It is difficult, if not impossible, to chart a peaceful course through these powerful enemies, if we attempt to navigate by man-made instruments.

Yet there is a path which human foot too seldom treads—a path which leads directly to the goal. This pathway was opened many years ago when the greatest teacher the world has ever known sat upon a mountainside and delivered the constitution of His Kingdom of Peace.

When man and the nations into which he is gathered cease to place reliance upon the faulty formulas which they strive so mightily to produce, and surrender to the simple doctrine which has come down to us through the ages, we can have peace. But as long as we continue to compose a program of peace which temporizes with the evil in men's souls, our course will be wavering and beset by constant danger.

V-J day is a day of rejoicing in victory achieved, but as we celebrate our achievement at arms and pay tribute to the heroes who made it possible, we cannot entirely hide the fear that while we have attained a physical victory, our spiritual war rages on unabated, threatening again to plunge the world into a struggle more terrible and devastating than imagination can conceive.

what you have promised is another mistake that nearly always leads to trouble.

Washington Leads in Production of Apples: SEATTLE, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Washington's prospective apple crop is 30,972,000 bushels topping the entire nation, state and federal agricultural statisticians reported today, having raised their July 1 estimate of 29,904,000 bushels.

Virginia appears to be in second place this season, with an estimated 13,140,000 bushels compared with New York's 12,960,000-bushel prospective crop.

THE national apple harvest is estimated at 111,728,000 bushels, against 68,042,000 bushels picked last year.

Plumbers at Anchorage Quit in Pay Deduction: ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Plumbers walked off their jobs here and at Whittier yesterday in protest of a wage adjustment board ruling setting wages back to their June 30 level.

The board ruled that wage increases granted during the absence of OPA were unauthorized. The board announced at the same time that Alaska Airlines officials and mechanics had agreed to terms of a new contract giving workers an average increase of $760 a year plus two weeks' vacation with pay, 30 days annual sick leave with pay and three and one-half in excess of a 48-hour week.

Fifteen Timber Access Roads Being Constructed: PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 15.—(AP)—Fifteen timber access roads are being built in national forests of Oregon and Washington, Regional Forester H. J. Andrews said today.

Three more roads are planned for early construction, he added. As a result of the new roads, an estimated 20,000,000 more board feet of timber will be marketed in 1946, and 255,000,000 more in 1947, he said, and the added total will climb to 265,000,000 by 1948.

Andrews said "we are still cutting less than the total allowable sustained yield cut for the region, and we plan to approach this maximum cut as rapidly as possible."

Theo. Roosevelt National Park Bill Vetoed by Truman

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—(AP)—President Truman announced Saturday he had vetoed a house bill to establish a Theodore Roosevelt national park in the village of Medora, N. D., and a monument in memory of the late president.

"The area that would be established by this bill as the Theodore Roosevelt national park," the president said in a memorandum of disapproval, "does not possess those outstanding natural features of scenic qualities that would justify its establishment as a national park and has no direct historical association with Theodore Roosevelt."

"Neither the Maltese Cross

ranch, in which President Roosevelt had an interest, nor the Elkhorn ranch, which he owned, are embraced within the proposed park area." The president said the land within the proposed site is now a part of the Theodore Roosevelt national wildlife refuge, and is best fitted for use as a wildlife protection and management area.

He said if a national park is to be established in honor of the late president it should "more fully measure up to the standards developed and maintained in the past for national parks."
