Veteran Material Is Available for R. H. S. Grid Team

Roseburg football fans will see a great deal of open play, passing, and T-formation when the Senior High School Indians swing into action, Coach Mel Ingram said today.

With 50 players turning out for early practice and more than 100 expected after school starts, Ingram has a full team of lettermen and veterans with which to organize his first team, being able to field a complete team of experienced players.

Last year's pony backfield is available with Pope, Evans, Harvey, Ullrich, and Willhite, all lettermen. As reserves, Ingram has Phillips, a member of last year's squad; Rogers, Bonebrake, Beebe, and Poirot, all excellent prospects from last year's freshman team.
Lettermen in the line include Benson, end; Marsters and Moore, tackles; McCowan, guard; Oberhauser, center and guard; Feldkamp, center, and Horand, end, the latter a veteran but not a letterman, having failed to get in sufficient time because of illness.

Other veterans from last year's squad include Denton, end; Parkhurst, guard, and various others who will probably make this year's first string.

Black, tall, rangy end from last year's freshman team, is expected to see much service with this season's varsity.

Every prospect is for a much heavier team than last year and lots of speed, Ingram states, because of passing and receiving ability, it is Ingram's intention to shift to a T-formation and open the offensive style to take advantage of this special ability.

Ingram is being aided by Jack Newby, basketball coach and first assistant in football, and Bill Evans, volunteer assistant. "Tunney" Kennerly is expected to assist as volunteer sophomore coach.

The team will have its first scrimmage practice Friday night.
The first game will be played on the Roseburg field Sept. 20 against Myrtle Point.

Record Number of Women Seeking Career as Doctor

CHICAGO. Women in unprecedented numbers are preparing for careers as doctors.

A total of 864 of them recently completed their freshman terms in U. S. medical schools. That number established a record.

The enrollment of women medical students averaged 250 and 300 in recent years. But the drafting of able-bodied male pre-medical students in the last two years gave the coeds a chance to enlarge their headcount. They made the most of their opportunity.
Among others, gains, a dozen of them invaded the Harvard Medical School for the first time.

A survey just completed by the American Medical Association's council on medical education demonstrated, however, that men still dominate. Freshmen in the scholastic year just ended this summer totaled 5,591. For each woman there were six men.

Dr. Victor Johnson, the council's secretary, figures 3,000 veterans of World War II will be among the 6,000 students expected to enter medical schools in the fall. Current information indicates 700 women, including 18 former WACs and WAVES, will be in the incoming freshman class.

Enrollment in all medical schools this fall is expected to approximate 25,000. In the term recently ended it was 23,147.

Gov. Snell, Sen. Cordon Visit Lower Umpqua

REEDSPORT. Governor Earl Snell slipped quietly through Reedsport and Gardiner Monday, while most citizens here were busy fishing, and motored his way up Smith River to the Paul Bernhardt ranch, where he spent most of the day hunting wild pigeons. After bagging the limit, he slipped out of this district and returned to the state capital.

United States Senator Guy Cordon, accompanied by State Senator Marshall E. Cornett of Klamath Falls, passed through Reeds-port Wednesday afternoon bound from Nehalem to Coos Bay, where they were to attend a Republican rally in the evening.

INTELLIGENT SELFISHNESS

By CHARLES V. STANTON

While we boast of our system of free enterprise, the system, in operation, is only half free, Frank Jenkins, publisher of the Klamath Falls Herald and News, and president of the Southern Oregon Publishing Company, of which the News-Review is an affiliate, said Tuesday in addressing the Roseburg Kiwanis club at its regular noon luncheon meeting on the subject of labor relations.

Mr. Jenkins also spoke of "intelligent selfishness" in illustrating his meaning of "half free" enterprise, injecting the opinion that practical application of the Golden Rule to labor-management relations can be made to pay dividends in dollars and cents.

By declaring our system to be only half free enterprise, Mr. Jenkins explained that the man who engages in business or industry is free to expand and profit to the full extent of his ability, but the workingman—the man who must, because of circumstance, be employed upon a wage basis—has little or no opportunity for free enterprise, but is bound by what the labor market will provide on a competitive basis, or what his union is able to secure for him.

Mr. Jenkins' analysis, we believe, is important in an understanding of current labor-management problems and the new science of labor relations.

Too much of our effort is directed selfishly. Mr. Jenkins illustrated his idea with the case of a businessman who placed his salesmen upon a commission basis. When the salesmen began pouring in orders and making themselves a nice return for their labors, the businessman cut commission percentages. As a natural consequence, the salesmen lost enthusiasm for their work and the volume of business decreased.

Too much of our labor-management trouble today results from attempts by each side to profit at the expense of the other. That is selfishness.

On the other hand, there is such a thing as intelligent selfishness in which each side tries to produce as much profit as possible for itself by increasing profits for the other on a mutually sharing basis. A workman on a commission or incentive basis, if given unlimited opportunity to improve his own wage or salary position by greater production for his employer, makes profits for both. Under such practice our system of enterprise would be entirely free instead of being half free.

Here in Douglas county, where industry is comparatively new, we are forming policies of labor relations. The counsel of the Klamath Falls publisher, who comes from a community where industry has been established for many years, and who is a keen analyst of conditions and affairs, is deserving of serious consideration.

Incidentally, he points out an advantage on which Douglas County business and industry should capitalize. That advantage lies in resources for recreation. This is a subject frequently mentioned in this column, in view of our opinion that development of recreational facilities is collative with good business.

A major part of the labor disorders occurring in large industrial centers of the nation, Jenkins asserts, results from pure boredom. Workingmen, cooped up in crowded cities, often in tenements, engage in strikes or disorders simply for relief from monotony.

In Southern Oregon, on the other hand, a worker can utilize idle time in hunting, fishing, picnicking, etc., can have a small farm or garden tract, or find other means of entertainment denied the worker in a big city. He is, as a result, less subject to radicalism as a relief from tedium.

This brings us to plans of one Douglas County mill owner who has purchased several hundred acres of land which he proposes to grade, improve, and subdivide into acre lots, "each with a fence around it." These lots will be sold or rented to the employees in his mill, giving them space for landscaping, gardening, etc., coupled with a sense of ownership.

That, we believe, comes under Jenkins' heading of intelligent selfishness.

They visited with friends in this city for an hour, during which Senator Cordon spent part of the time in a barber's chair having his hair cut.

John S. Burt of Tennile Passes

John S. Burt, 74, well-known resident of Tennile, died this morning at his home after a short illness. He was born January 4, 1872, in Hartford, Michigan. He was married in 1904 to Miss Ste-la Rogers in Jonesboro, Ark., and they came to Oregon 25 years ago to make their home. He was a member of the Methodist Church and of the Masonic Order of Jonesboro.

Surviving are his widow, Ste-la, Tennile; two sons, Troy S.
Tennile, and Frank B. Remote; two daughters, Mrs. Lina M.
Smith, Tennile and Mrs. Edna Arthur, Reedsport; one brother, Orville Burt, Kalamazoo, Mich.;
a sister, Mrs. Mary Dodge, Taylor, Ore.; 10 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Funeral services will be held in the chapel of the Roseburg Funeral Home Sunday, Sept. 8, at 2 P. M. with the Rev. Walter Mac-Arthur officiating. Interment will be in the Tennile cemetery.

Greek-British Royal Romance Is Hinted

LONDON, Sept. 5. (AP)—British newspapers have been gossiping this week about a romance between Princess Elizabeth and Prince Phillip of Greece—but at Buckingham palace the stories were described today as "pure nonsense."

An authoritative palace source said an alliance between the 20-year-old heiress to the British throne and the Greek prince, a nephew of King George II, was quite unlikely since members of

Registration at High Schools Will Close Tomorrow

Registration of students at the Senior and Junior High schools will be concluded tomorrow morning between the hours of 9 and 12, it was announced today by Superintendent of Schools Paul S. Elliott.

During yesterday's registration periods, 112 juniors and 115 seniors registered for classes.
It is "very important" that all students complete their registration during this week's registration period, Elliott said. Classes will begin at 8:50 Monday, with a full day of studies scheduled.

The first day of classes should not be lost by failure to have registered this week, Elliott pointed out.

All students who did not attend the registration schools last year must bring to registration either a report card, transfer report, transcript, diploma, or some evidence of the grade in which they are entitled to be placed this year.

Curricula Listed
Students in the seventh and eighth grades are required to take the subjects of English, mathematics, physical education, social studies and science. They are also assigned one additional subject, based on interest and ability, from the following: band (beginners, intermediate or advanced), art, chorus, manual training, orchestra, sewing and special help classes, Elliott said.

In the ninth grade the required subjects are: English, general mathematics (or algebra), guidance and physical education. In addition, two elective subjects are selected from the following: general science, agriculture, art and crafts, band, (beginners, intermediate or advanced), orchestra, industrial arts, home economics, and girls' chorus.

A limited number of boys in the eighth and ninth grades, who have special interest and ability in sports, will be assigned their physical education class the last period of the day and will continue practice after school for participation on the school's football and basketball athletic teams.

Teachers Needed
There are two positions on the Junior High School staff in which teacher selections for the year have not been completed. These are in the subject fields of girls' physical education and vocal music. Any persons who are interested in either position for the full year, or willing to substitute until permanent appointees can be obtained, should get in touch with Superintendent of Schools Paul S. Elliott, in the Junior High School building, it was stated.

Speaker to Be Heard on School Support Measure

Local supporters of the state basic school support bill, which will appear on the November ballot, are to meet for luncheon at the Rainbow Grill Friday to hear Leslie Beals, Portland, who is touring the state in behalf of the bill.

Beals will discuss the measure with representatives of the organizations sponsoring or endorsing the bill, including the Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Legion, Oregon Federation of Women's Clubs, State Federation of Business and Professional Women, the Grange, Federation of Parent-Teacher Associations, Oregon Education Association, and the Association of School Boards.

Persons who are interested in the bill may attend the meeting.
They should telephone 346 for reservations before 10 A. M. tomorrow. The luncheon will begin promptly at noon.

KDND DIAL LOG HITMAN

Tonight's listening post: By Popular Demand, 6:30; Mysterious Traveler, 8:00; Vic and Sade, 8:30.

And now . . . Veteran's Information Guide returns to the air tomorrow night (Friday) at 7:00. Leave it to the Girls and Meet the Press at 8:00 and 8:30, respectively, on Friday.

Here's news of the new program schedule, effective next Monday, September 9. Art Baker and His Notebook will be heard in the 9:00 A. M. spot on Mondays through Fridays. Evening Vespers will move to the 4:30 spot on Mondays and . . .

Hey, kids! Hop Harrigan will be on the air Monday through Friday's at 4:45. That will give you four fifteen-minute shows each day for thrills and entertainment. Superman, 5:15; Captain Midnight, 5:30, and Tom Mix, 5:45. Take a tip from us, though . . . keep the radio tuned down fairly low, or else Mother might get so interested in the adventure stories that dinner might scorch.

Frank Hemingway, a news commentator who is different, takes over the 5 o'clock spot. Only the early birds have been able to enjoy his broadcasts to date (he's on the 7:00 A. M. news), but now he will be heard at a time when the whole family can listen.

There's more news of more changes . . . Tune in tomorrow for the next installment.
