ANYWAY, she got a rise out of OPA, which sent down word that if she'd come upstairs to the office her case would be given a hearing.

ONE of the most interesting phases of the incident was the fact that nobody paid any attention to her. Half a dozen years ago, she'd have jammed the street.

Picketing is becoming a part of our way of life, and no longer attracts interest.

IT'S a political aphorism that "nobody loves a landlord." (Hence, according to modern political rules, nobody needs to pay any attention to a landlord.)

Well, for an answer we have to go back into history. Take the word itself. LANDLORD. LORD of the land. A feudal seigneur who held in his hands the fate, including life and death, of the serfs who tilled his soil—soil, usually, given to him, as a royal favor, by his king.

Curlye, in his grim story of the French revolution, tells of one of these feudal lords who when riding one day with the king and his court saw a serf repairing the roof of a cottage. He turned to a man-at-arms. "Shoot me that varlet," he commanded.

Carlyle concludes the story: "The king and his court, laughing merrily at the prank, rode on."

IT was once the law of the land in England that the feudal landlord (lord of the land) possessed the RIGHT (legal, not HUMAN, right) to enter the house of a newly-married tenant on his wedding night and sleep with his wife.

THE psychologists, delving into the complex thing we call the human mind, tell us the reason we dream so often of falling from a height is that our ancestors lived in trees for protection and falling out of the tree when drugged by sleep was a peril so ever-present that the fear of it lurks to this day in our subconscious.

It isn't strange, you see, that hatred of the landlord lingers still in the recesses of the subconscious mind. Fear and hatred die slowly—very, very slowly. The evil men do lives long after them.

THESE opposing theories are common: 1. The world gets always better. 2. The world goes around and around.

WHICH is right—if either? The evidence is conflicting. You can take your choice. Or disregard both.

But here is a curious fact: In these supposedly progressive modern days, we are drifting back toward the despotic power that recognized the right of the king to shoot a varlet on a roof for whatever sadistic pleasure he derived from seeing the body roll down and thud on the ground, or to sleep on her wedding night with the wife of a tenant.

HELPING THE HANDICAPPED

By CHARLES V. STANTON

The second annual observance of National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week, established by an act of Congress for the first full week in October, is being held from October 6 to 12.

Few Americans realize that this country has approximately 28 million persons handicapped to some extent by disease, accident, or as a result of war.

Disabilities suffered by more than a quarter-million men during the late war inspired observance of the special week which has the primary purpose of enlisting public support for employment of the handicapped.

The program, outlined in an official bulletin, summarizes the reasons as follows: To call to public attention the conditions and needs of the physically handicapped in such unmistakable terms that, henceforth there will be a growing understanding and public acceptance of the handicapped as integral parts of our economic and social life, and a discontinuance of their status as social outcasts and economic misfits.

It is estimated that in the United States 18 million persons are suffering from diseases of the heart, 5 1/2 million are hard of hearing, 4 million have tuberculosis, 1 million are amputees, 350,000 are epileptics, 300,000 are spastics, 200,000 are wholly or partially blind, and 120,000 totally deaf.

The cost of keeping one handicapped person in dependency is estimated at from $300 to $600 annually, a burden which must fall upon relatives, or upon the public through charity, dole, or other public assistance. Yet the average cost of rehabilitating one handicapped person through job training, shifting him from dependency to self-supporting status, costs less than $300; a non-recurring expense.

Thus there is a great field for national economy in rehabilitating the physically handicapped, in addition to relieving the mental suffering and restoring the self-confidence of the afflicted person.

Experience with handicapped workers in industrial plants during the war period was most revealing. It was found that the handicapped person was able to make quick and satisfactory job adjustments, was often superior to the able-bodied in productivity, had a higher safety record, was less subject to absenteeism, and changed jobs less frequently than more physically fortunate fellow workers.

There is some job almost any handicapped person can fill, for instance, are capable of operating dictaphones, factory machines, vending stands, piano tuning and many other occupations. Sufferers from cardiac diseases, amputees and hard of hearing can be fitted into grooves where they can serve in useful capacities in industry and business.

The objectives of the week are to tell employers of the great value of handicapped workers when properly prepared and placed on the right job; to tell the handicapped of the services available through governmental and other agencies; to train and prepare them for gainful employment; to urge employers to list job openings with the U. S. Employment Service, and to let employers, labor, civic organizations, welfare agencies and the public know that handicapped workers can do good work on the right job.

We become quite out of patience at times with all of the special days, weeks and months set aside for some particular type of observance. There are not enough days nor weeks to accommodate all of the various causes being exploited, so that many overlap. But any effort to transform handicapped Americans from national liabilities to self-respecting, efficient and capable assets to themselves, their employers and their communities, we believe is well worth our cooperation.

Score Injured When Italians, Slavs Clash

GORIZIA, Venezia Giulia, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Bitter Italian-Yugoslav differences in this hotly disputed area were fanned today by an outbreak of violence in which 15 to 20 persons were injured yesterday during a demonstration of the pro-Yugoslav, Italo-Slovene Anti-Fascist Union.

The trouble broke out when crowds shouting "Duce, Duce" attempted to break up the demonstration, which had been authorized by the Allied military government as a "purely cultural" observance of the century-old Slovene tradition of celebrating the grape harvest.

Rocks, smokebombs and other missiles were hurled at the demonstrators in the worst display of violence in the Gorizia area since Aug. 9, when at least 30 persons were injured during a pro-Italian demonstration.

4-Hit Hurling Of Brecheen Blanks Red Sox

Cardinals Garner Three Tallies Off Harris to Win 2nd Game of Series

By JACK HAND ENROUTE TO BOSTON, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Harry (The Cat) Brecheen's darting screwball, the best any lefthander has shown since Carl Hubbell quit, has restored the 1946 World Series to an even proposition.

The talented southpaw from Broken Bow, Okla., winner of 15 and loser of 15 in the regular season, counted five shutouts in his record before yesterday's brilliant 4-hit job that stopped Boston 3-0.

Brecheen came up in the third inning with Catcher Del Rice perched on second base as a result of his double. "The Cat" dumped a single which drove in Rice with a run that proved enough to beat Mickey Harris, the rival southpaw.

Manager Dyer's appointment of Rice as catcher was a master move, since Rice added a leadoff single in the fifth which provoked a two-run uprising.

After Rice's single to left, Brecheen dropped a bunt down the third base line. Higgins bashed into short center field. Rice wound up on third, and the alert Brecheen on second. Moore's single drove in Rice, and Brecheen came across with the last run of the day while the Bobby Doerr-Pesky-Yule combination was trying futilely for a double play on Musial's rap to second base.

Boxer Sluggers Shackled As the teams took the day off for travel to Boston after splitting the first two in St. Louis, Manager Cronin of the Boston Red Sox still had an ace up his sleeve—Dave Ferriss, who had reeled off 25 victories of the Sox total of 104.

By holding out Ferriss to work the third game tomorrow against Murry Dickson at Fenway Park, Cronin probably will be unable to get more than two games out of his ace winner.

More than one baseball observer sensed in the Cardinals' aggressive play during the first two games the hint of a tremendous upset of the pre-series dog-in-unset comparable to the one the fleet 1942 Red Birds handed the mighty New York Yankees.

While losing the opener in 10 innings, St. Louis' game yesterday was a 3-0, the Cardinals pitchers have turned back Pesky, a .335 hitter, without a hit in nine at-bats. They also have held the great Ted Williams with the "Dyer shift" to one hit in seven trips. Rudy York's game-winning homer in the first game was the only Boston extra base hit. The Birds have registered four doubles and a triple.

Dyer's lefthanded pitching by Pollet and Brecheen deserve credit for shackling the Sox power.

The series now will continue at least through Friday at Boston, and is quite likely to be carried to a sixth game Sunday back at Sportsman's Park. A seventh, if necessary, will be played in St. Louis a week from today, after a Monday off for selling tickets.

Football Deaths Increase as More Engage in Game

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—(AP)—H. V. Porter, executive secretary of the National Federation of High School Associations, today attributed a rise in football fatalities among prep players this season to an estimated 15 per cent increase in the number engaged in the sport.

Nine deaths thus far have been noted by the Associated Press. Eight of the victims being high school youngsters and one a college student. Six fatalities directly attributed to accidents on the gridiron were reported for the entire season last year.

"An estimated 450,000 school boys are playing football this season," Porter said. "A postwar growth in enthusiasm for the sport is one of the main reasons for an increase of 15 per cent over last year. Approximately 75,000 are covered on the gridiron by insurance."

Answering a statement by William J. Bingham, chairman of the National Collegiate Football Rules Committee, that high school rule-makers should revamp their regulations in view of an "alarming" schoolboy football death toll, Porter declared that the national federation code had been set up to provide for a safer game.

Paposes Working Out for Tilt With Springfield foe

The Junior High School Paposes resumed workouts this week on their mud-mired practice field on Rose street in preparation for the season debut on Finlay field Saturday afternoon, October 19, against Springfield Junior High.

Additional tilts for this season are yet pending. Coach "Hod" Turner said Monday, while the present schedule thus far includes out-of-town meets with Medford, a return game with Springfield, and a home game against the junior eleven of Grants Pass.

Now in its second year as a Roseburg Junior High school sport, Turner reports football is being taken with unusual seriousness in spite of this being the initial pique activity of the majority of 8th and 9th graders who are shaping up exceptionally well as a playing squad. The only two returning boys from the 1945 season are Frankie Webber, guard, and Dale Blanck, tackle. Last season's team netted two wins, one tie and one loss in their junior circuit.

Practice sessions this week will be marked by polishing up of the team's offense. Turner said, and the boys will receive the fundamentals of pass defense in preparation for the Springfield tilt.

Seals Blank Oaks in Last Game for Governor's Cup

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—(AP)—San Francisco's red-hot Seals today split up $10,000 in prize money and put the gold-engraved Pacific Coast League Governor's Cup back among the family silverware as they closed out their most successful baseball season.

Lefty O'Doul's club, pennant winner in a stiff race with Oakland, won the post-season play-off to blank the trans-bay team, 6-0.

San Francisco, taking the series four games to two, thus retained the Governor's Cup for the fourth straight year—a league record—and collected $10,000 top money.

Duty Bound SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Policewoman Elizabeth Rieckey doesn't let her small size deter her from doing her duty.

She saw a 150-pound man snatch a case of whiskey from a truck, and gave chase. The culprit dropped the liquor and tried to defend himself.

Mrs. Rieckey collared the man, dragged him 50 feet to a call box and held him with one hand while she telephoned with the other.

Semi-Pro Football Aspirants Coached By Steve Fowler

Steve Fowler, 1938-39 University of Oregon backfielder, took over coaching duties Sunday as 22 experienced gridiron huskies turned out to vie for starting positions on the newly-organized Roseburg Semi-Pro Football Club, which will open its first season against Southern Oregon College of Education at Ashland October 17.

Fowler, who mentored the Fort Stevens Army eleven through their 1945 season with only one defeat, reports he will use the Notre Dame box formation with a balanced line, thus eliminating the T-formation introduced at earlier workouts.

Favoring basic offense shifts over tricky tactics, Fowler explained, "on such short organization it is my belief that the simpler the tactics, the better we will be able to execute winning plays against our opponents this year. The boys are still in the conditioning phase and will be until a few days before our first game, so we won't have a lot of time for the more complicated tactics. Most of the fellows are just getting over stiff muscles and the backfield men are still having trouble in ball handling, but we do have a lot of fine material on the club."

Weighted 193, Fowler will also play part-time fullback, thus eliminating the Ashland college coach, was a teammate of Fowler during his high school days in Ashland. At the University of Oregon, Fowler majored in physical education.

Oregon Vacation Lures Featured in Colliers Magazine

Diamond Lake, Oregon Caves, Mt. Hood winter sports, the Oregon coast at Bandon and rhododendrons are featured in the second of the 1946-47 series of Oregon travel advertisements due for publication in the October 19 issue of Colliers magazine, the Oregon State Highway Commission travel information department said this week.

A full page in color is devoted to the Oregon subjects, including text which further extolls Oregon as a travel lure in preparation for the 1947 vacation year, which, as a result of consistent winter and spring promotion, is expected to be the largest in 1946, busiest on record thus far.

In addition to the advertising, the travel information department reports several national magazines, such as Better Homes and Gardens, Elks and Look, at this date have already definitely scheduled Oregon articles in the spring to call attention to Oregon's vacation attractions. These three publications represent more than six million circulation alone. Preliminary plans have been reported by other magazines, as well as by metropolitan newspapers.
