(Continued from page 1) too clear at this distance. But it does appear to be well established that houses have been started, carried fairly well along toward completion and then STOPPED by official command.

That isn't intelligent. It would obviously be better for everybody to get these houses FINISHED so that people can live in them. If government were closer home, that would probably be done—and done rather quickly.

AS these words are written, a man named Bayles, who is described in the dispatches as the national housing administration "expediter" for this area, is in Grants Pass. He offers a suggestion that needs to be considered. He says:

"Those who believe they have been unfairly treated (that is to say, those who have houses that have been stopped in construction) have the right to petition the federal district court for a review."

That is at least the American way—although, of course, it means more delay, and the more delay the fewer houses. Open rebellion isn't the American way. We can be sure of our ground on that point.

(M. BAYLES gives the Grants Pass builders some hope that NEARLY-finished construction can be completed. BUT, he adds, other non-legal structures, not so far along, will have to be TORN DOWN and the materials "channeled into veterans' homes."

THE point is this: If responsibility rested in Salem, instead of in Washington, something would be done about it QUICKER. Washington is a long way off, and a lot of buck-passing can take place between here and there.

We'll never go back to the old days, but we certainly ought to do our best to keep as much of our government as close home as possible.

A DISPATCH from San Francisco tells of a courageous policewoman who saw a man snatch a case of whiskey from a truck and run. She gave chase and overhauled the culprit, who dropped the liquor and tried to defend himself. She collared him, dragged him 50 feet to a call box and held him with one hand while she telephoned for help with the other.

Bravo for the policewoman. She's a competent gal. But most of us would like to wring the neck of the inadequate reporter. What happened to the whiskey?

CONSTITUTIONAL REVOLT

By CHARLES V. STANTON

The Grants Pass revolt against the Civilian Production Administration and federal building restrictions seems doomed to failure. The only hope Grants Pass might have in making its rebellion a success would be in active cooperation, through like defiance, in neighboring cities. The CPA doubtless will be able to cope with violators in one city, or at least make a sufficient showing of authority to discourage rebellion elsewhere.

Widespread sympathy with the Grants Pass "rebels" has been manifest. The protest meeting this week drew interested spectators and participants from every part of the state. But it failed to produce more than criticism of CPA tactics and demands for revision of regulations.

Failure of the revolt to spread throughout the state is based upon our instinctive respect for governmental authority or stems from fear instilled in recent years by gestapo-like administration by executive agencies, with perhaps a bit of each of these factors contributing in part.

But one of the most interesting factors in this controversy is the customary resort of CPA officials, including even the administrator himself, in using the time-worn New Deal method of blaming Congress for every bureaucratic failure. Statements from Wyatt, housing expediter and absolute dictator of building construction, that the revolt is "in defiance of Congress," is significant of two things; first, that the CPA recognizes the American public still has some measure of respect for the representative department of its government, and second, that the fanatical efforts to discredit this department in the minds of the public still continues.

The fact is that Congress, under pressure from the administration, reluctantly created the office of housing expediter. The rules, regulations and restrictions under which housing agencies operate were laid down by the expediter and not by Congress. Even Congress, with all of the freak and crackpot legislation which comes before that body, would never, we believe, approve a regulation requiring a soil analysis of property upon which a building was proposed to be constructed, or require in an application for building authority the serial number of plumbing fixtures—information which obviously could not be obtained before a purchase order had been granted.

But the old college try is still the guiding policy of bungling, buck-passing bureaucrats in trying to convince the public that Congress is to blame for all our problems.

The Grants Pass revolt probably is a failure as an act of defiance, but it will have its influence in forcing more realistic regulations.

There is, however, one revolt that can, and probably will, be successful. That revolt is in keeping with our traditional and constitutional form of government—a revolt at the polls. By kicking New Dealers, administration stooges, machine politicians, and special privilege puppets out of office, electing candidates who stand for constitutional government and who are not pledged to New Deal, P.A.C., nor communistic doctrines, we can wrest control of Congress from the New Deal, left-wing, administration and thus, with one sweep, rid ourselves of the tenacious, parasitical bureaucracy, which regiments our lives and fattens on our tax dollars. A Republican Congress would free us from the controls which choke business, industrial and private life.

Mrs. Arthur Clark In Red Cross Post

Mrs. Arthur Clark, who returned to Roseburg recently following service during the war as an aide with the Military and Naval Welfare Service of the American Red Cross, has been appointed executive secretary of the Douglas County Red Cross Chapter, it was announced by Earl Plummer, chairman of the board.

Mrs. Clark succeeds Mrs. Leta Maris in the position which Mrs. Maris held since last spring. While serving with the Red Cross during the war, Mrs. Clark took special training as a hospital aide at Red Cross headquarters at Washington, D. C. She later was assigned to the station hospitals at Fort Ord and Camp Hahn, Calif.

Prior to her war service, Mrs. Clark was home service secretary of the Red Cross chapter at Vancouver, Wash., and chairman of the Douglas County Chapter from 1935 to 1936.

Mrs. Clark has moved into her old family home at Kane and Lane Streets, where her father, the late Judge J. W. Hamilton, resided.

Mrs. Keith Cashner has been appointed stenographer and will assist Mrs. Clark in the administration of local Red Cross affairs.

School Census of Douglas County to Be Taken Oct. 25

The annual Douglas county school census of children between the ages of 4 and 20 has been set for Friday, October 25, Mrs. Lulu C. Gorrell, county school superintendent, announced today.

A change in the law will permit Roseburg, as a first class district, to arrive at its school census through a "district school census ratio," instead of by a canvass of all residents of the district, as in previous years.

The quotient is known as the "ratio," and the annual census may be established by multiplying the figure by the average daily attendance in the elementary grades for the previous year.

First class school districts—such as Roseburg—may take the school census by the usual methods every five years, or oftener, if desired.

Roseburg's school census is little larger than its actual attendance because of the number of pupils who are transported to the city schools from rural districts, Superintendent of Schools Paul S. Elliott said. Thus, a census by the usual methods would not necessarily indicate a greater number of children residing here than actually attend the schools.

A number of persons in the city would like the schools to take an actual census, however, because it would be an "official" indication of the growth of the city and surrounding territory, Elliott said.

Plane Wreck Located in Lolo Area; 32 Feared Dead

SICHANG, China, Oct. 9. (Delayed)—(AP)—A search plane today located the burned wreckage of a Chinese National Airways transport plane in the wild Lolo country, 20 miles southwest of Sichang. It was believed the American pilot and the 31 Chinese aboard may have perished.

Earlier, accounts coming out of the country of the fierce tribesmen of China's far west said all aboard were safe but in the custody of the Lolos.

The Chinese Airways is organizing a party to go to the scene, high up on 14,400-foot Lohi mountain.

Bull Leaps Upward to Death in Apple Tree

COOS BAY, Ore., Oct. 10. (AP)—A bull valued by its owner at $10,000 jumped to its death in an apple tree, N. J. Nash, Sixes River, reported today.

Nash said the animal was found hanging dead in an apple tree on his ranch more than nine feet above the ground, its head lodged in the crotch of two limbs. He said the bull must have leaped 10 feet in the air to land in that fashion.

Nash said the bull, owned by Marlin Fox, Molalla, was priced at $10,000 in a pending deal with an eastern raiser. It was not insured.

Three Sales Dispose Of Garden Valley Land

Almost 1,400 acres of ranch property in the Garden Valley area, near the North Umpqua river, formerly held by Hans T. Hansen, Roseburg, have been sold in three transactions to Charles C. Voytilla, well known Douglas county stock rancher; James Wood, Umpqua, and R. E. Trautzu, formerly of Coos Bay.

The sales, which involved approximately $30,000, were handled by the Chilson and Herbster Realty Company.

Girls Drum Corps Anniversary Fete On Halloween Bill

This year's Halloween festivities October 31 will mark the seventh anniversary of the Roseburg Knights of Pythias Girls Bugle and Drum Corps. Observance will be made by the girls organization by participating in a Neewollah parade and sponsoring a masquerade ball at the Roseburg armory.

Originally formed by J. D. "Snap" Gilmore in 1934, the all-girl's musical-marching group has been active throughout the seven years since organization, appearing at various conventions throughout the state, Roseburg parades and special city ceremonies, and numerous athletic events here and out-of-town.

The present director, William Black, is now in his fourth year and reports he keeps a regular beginners' class on hand for constant rotation to fill in as the girls leave high school. The ages of the members are from 12 to 18. Weekly rehearsals are held the year around.

Original Composition Slated "Roseburg on Parade," a drum and bugle composition, written and composed by Director Black will be a highlight of the Corps' October 31 evening performance and will present this musical number to the public for the first time.

The masquerade ball, a benefit dance for the purchasing of new uniforms and instruments, will follow the parade. Black reports the present uniforms were purchased in 1939 and added that new instruments are much in need. Pre-sale of tickets for the benefit dance, which will feature Ted Hallock's famous University of Oregon orchestra, shows promise of a large crowd, Black said. Prizes are to be offered for various costumes at the masquerade event, Black added.

From where I sit . . . by Joe Marsh. Are Returning Veterans "Different"?

During the war you heard a lot about how hard it was going to be for returning veterans to get adjusted to civilian life . . . how they'd be "different."

Well, plenty of them have returned to our town, and a finer, steadier bunch you couldn't ask for. Most of them are back at the same jobs . . . going with the same nice home-town girls (getting married, some of them, and setting up families) . . . renewing the same old friendships.

Even their amusements are the same. Nothing more exciting than fishing Seward's creek or pitching horseshows . . . enjoying an outdoor barbecue with friendly wholesome beer and pleasant talk.

If they've changed at all it's in the direction of maturity and tolerance . . . tolerance for everything except dictators, and those who would destroy our democratic principles of live and let live. And from where I sit, that's another reason to be proud of them.
