and others beneath bits of the debris. State Highway Patrolman E. E. Peters said the plane skidded for 300 yards before the crumpled and twisted fuselage came to a stop. One motor was thrown 30 yards from the fuselage, and another motor and landing wheel 50 yards from the spot where the body of the plane came to rest.

Knight said eight of the passengers were sailors. The passenger list released by the transport service at Oakland was: R. J. Pettigrew, Elizabeth, N. J. Seaman Robert A. Gregory, Somerville, Mass.; J. W. Trogon, Spartanburg, S. C.; Steven A. Smith, Springfield, Ill.; A. Gunza, East Patterson, N. J.; Ray A. Butler, Marlboro, Mass.; H. Whilden, Kennett, Mo.; Mrs. A. G. Thompson, Falls City, Neb.; Miss June Thompson, Falls City, Neb.; Mrs. Mary Boland, Toronto, Canada.

The names of the three crew members were not released.

Timber Inspection on At Head of Little River

M. M. Nelson, supervisor of the Umpqua National Forest, accompanied by Ranger George W. Churchill of the North Umpqua District, is on an inspection trip this week in the country at the headwaters of Little River. He is seeking information on timber resources in the area. His party also includes Louis Fullerton, president of the Kiwanis Club, and the Rev. Walter A. MacArthur, pastor of the First Methodist Church.

U. S. Cracks Down on Czechoslovakia for Slur

in an effort to advance "American imperialism."

There was no official statement to this effect, but the evidence appears to be that at some critical moment in the long Paris struggle Byrnes himself ordered or approved the economic crack-down on Czechoslovakia.

Strains Friendship Bond

An even more drastic action than the temporary suspension last summer of a $90,000,000 loan and credit to Poland, the rap at the Czechs also was in sharp contrast to this country's traditional friendship toward Prague.

The cancellation of the Czech surplus property credit and the suspension of the loan negotiations were explained for a variety of reasons, but officials agreed that except for the Czech-Russian situation these might readily have been smoothed out.

Aside from the Czechs' support of the Russian position at Paris, the United States objected to two other factors: (1) a Czech deal to resell $10,000,000 worth of surplus property to Romania at a profit and (2) to the failure of the Czechs to agree formally to the rights of American citizens with respect to property and commercial operations in that country.

The Czechs actually are getting $10,000,000 worth of war surplus. The credit originally was $50,000,000, and the United States told the Czech diplomatic mission here in a note of Sept. 28 that this government would make good on its commitments definitely undertaken up to that time. However, none of the goods which the Czechs received under this arrangement will be sold to the Rumanians.

Despite this and indications that differences between Russia and the United States increased at Paris, Byrnes was optimistic over prospects for agreements on peace in Europe.

"The task of making peace is a tedious one requiring great pressure," he told newsmen. "We feel we have made progress and I certainly hope that when the council of foreign ministers meets in New York November 4 we will complete the five peace treaties we have been working on."

He added in response to a specific question, he does not consider that the Paris peace conference was a failure.

make a radio report to the nation at a time still to be announced.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.), who accompanied Byrnes, said there were both "peace credit and peace debit at Paris but on the whole the balance shows a net advance for peace."

Vandenberg said he would amplify his views on the Paris session in a speech Saturday night. Byrnes' speech tomorrow is expected to cover the whole field of issues between Russia and the United States—differences given new emphasis by the action against Czechoslovakia.

The White House announced today that President Truman will address the opening session of the United Nations assembly in New York Oct. 23.

P. N. G. Club to Meet—The Past Noble Grands Club will meet tonight, October 17, at a 7:30 o'clock dessert-supper at the I. O.
