Who is to fill the shoes of power that formerly were worn by Britain—the UNITED STATES OR RUSSIA?

That question is now being debated. Until it is settled, the NEW PEACE won't be here. Settling it will take time.

ROME, who brought to the world the Pax Romana (peace of Rome) wasn't built in a day. Britain, who brought to the world the Pax Britannica (peace of Britain) wasn't built in a day.

We don't yet know whether the next peace will be the Peace of America or the Peace of Russia. It will pretty surely be one or the other. But it won't come to pass in a day.

Keep your patience, and hope for the best.

THERE is a story in the papers this week that can easily be misunderstood.

We learn from secret files now being made public that in 1942 FDR insisted on ALL OUT HELP TO RUSSIA, no matter what happened elsewhere.

That isn't true. Mr. Roosevelt was wholly sound in insisting on all-out help for Russia then. If Hitler had licked Russia in 1942, he would have had limitless power in his hands.

When you're fighting a war of survival, you HAVE TO WIN. You can't be too choosy about your friends and allies when your life is at stake.

RUSSIA is of course a problem NOW. But in 1942 Hitler's bloody and seemingly invincible legions were pounding toward apparently certain victory.

Mr. Roosevelt was trying to stop them, and was leaving the problem of Russia to a later and safer time.

Who can say he was wrong?

OPA takes off more controls. The signs are plain that we're moving steadily in the direction of ALL CONTROLS OFF (except probably rent) and return to a free economy.

Don't dust off your hands and say: "That's another job done." The job isn't done. We're just trying another play. Controls, as they have been administered, have failed to bring us what we want.

So we're going off on the other tangent.

WILL it work? Only time can tell. TIME AND THE ATTITUDE OF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE. If we are willing to make the sacrifices that will be called for, it will work.

If we are unwilling, it won't work. WHAT are the sacrifices that are called for? The answer is plain: WE WILL HAVE TO DECLARE, FOR THE TIME BEING, A MORATORIUM ON SELFISHNESS AND GREED.

If we are willing to do that, we can lick the dragon of inflation.

COASTAL STREAMS BILL

The Coastal Streams Fishing bill, commonly referred to as Fish Bill 312, appearing on the Nov. 5 ballot, has been frequently mentioned in this column. Having had a minor hand in shaping this piece of legislation, we have a deep personal interest in urging its passage, and we hope that Douglas County, in particular, will give this measure an overwhelming affirmative vote, as the expression of sentiment on this bill will be of much influence in connection with future conservation issues.

The title of this bill, as it appears upon the ballot, is somewhat misleading to those who do not familiarize themselves with the entire bill. The first phrase of the ballot title sets forth the purpose of the bill "To prohibit commercial fishing in Nestucca Bay and tributaries, Euchre Creek, Hunters Creek, Floras Creek and Pistol River." Many people probably will get no further than that first phrase as they read their ballots, and unless they have previously informed themselves concerning the bill, will jump to conclusion that the purpose is to prohibit ALL commercial fishing.

Actually, Fish Bill 312 does NOT prohibit commercial fishing, nor does it materially restrict or reduce the commercial catch of salmon. Less than 1 per cent of the total commercial catch of food fish would be lost through operation of this bill. It is designed, however, to preserve the coastal runs of steelhead trout, admittedly a game fish rather than a food fish; to eliminate set nets, a most destructive method of commercial fishing already outlawed in Washington and California, and restrict seasons sufficiently to permit some escapement of fish to the fresh water spawning beds.

Ninety per cent of the food fish sold to packers for canning or retailing over the butcher's block are taken by outside trollers rather than by net fishermen. Thus, if all net fishing should be stopped in coastal streams, only 10 per cent of the total catch of fish would be lost. But Bill 312 makes only minor reductions in commercial seasons on salmon and, therefore, would affect only a very small percentage of commercial food fish.

Bill 312, which gets its title from its affirmative ballot number, prescribes commercial fishing seasons for all coastal streams. Varying slightly, due to the time of runs on each stream, the bill would roughly set the season for net fishing from July 15 to Nov. 20. On the Umpqua River, the season would be from July 1 to Nov. 15, instead of from April 15 to Nov. 15 as at present.

The bill would bar the use of set nets in all coastal waters except Tillamook bay, but would permit the use of drift nets during legal season.

This bill DOES NOT affect the Columbia River. It pertains only to coastal streams south of the Columbia. It adopts the premise that the steelhead is primarily a game fish and should not be taken for commercial purposes. It therefore sets late November or early December as the close of the net season, instead of permitting nets until March as at present on streams where steelheads are caught commercially, a practice stopped several years ago on the Umpqua River, resulting in large increase in the winter run of steelheads. The winter steelhead run usually starts in late November or early December and continues into April. It is estimated that the operation of this bill would save approximately two million steelheads from nets.

One of the most important provisions of the bill is the section requiring the Fish Commission and the Game Commission to engage in a joint study of each coastal stream. Such studies already are in progress on the Rogue and Umpqua rivers. The two commissions would be required to submit their findings and recommendations to the legislature from time to time as a guide respecting seasons, deadlines, limits and gear. This provision would set forth a scientific means of managing our streams for conservation purposes.

Bill 312 has the support of large numbers of commercial fishermen who realize that their industry will be completely destroyed unless some methods of conservation are put into practice. The bill was drawn to include recommendations of a report prepared jointly by representatives of the commercial fishing industry and sportsmen's groups. It is a compromise measure upon which both sides agreed. The referendum was invoked by a small group of dissident fishermen, inspired by packers. The packers have a direct interest in this measure because, under OPA ceiling prices, there is a differential of about 8 cents between troll-caught and seine-caught fish. This differential is supposed to be passed on to the consumer but seldom is, the packer thus making more money on the sale of fish taken in nets—a profit he is anxious to retain.

The bill passed the state legislature, 42 to 17, in the House; 24 to 5 in the Senate, indicating the convictions of the legislators who had given the measure careful study.

Ward Store Holds Year's Banner Sale

Montgomery Ward's largest nation-wide sale of the year, the annual "Ward Week," opened October 10 and continues through October 26, local store publicity and advertising manager, Robert Elliott, said today.

Using the slogan, "Where all America shops and saves," the store in Roseburg has received a great amount of new stock for this special sale at reduced prices, Elliott said, and reports an elaborate advertising campaign in progress to cover all of Douglas County.

A sales contest, consisting of a red and a blue team of the local store's 58 employees is being held throughout with prizes awarded daily to the person credited with top sales. The winning team will be guests of the losers at a dinner-party at the close of the "Ward Week" sales campaign.

6 Wrestlers Vie On Tonight's Bill

A capacity crowd of wrestling fans is expected tonight at the Roseburg Armory as six top flight light heavyweights battle it out in the lower bracket matches of a tournament to decide the Pacific Coast light heavy-weight champion.

The Gray Mask was the winner of last week's upper bracket matches and will meet tonight's winner in the championship match. Jack Kiser, Sammy Cohen, Billy McEun, Frankie Hart, Buck Davidson and Bulldog Jackson will be the six box-bonders in tonight's show. They will draw for opponents for three first-round matches. The three survivors will draw for a bye and the lucky man will sit it out while the other two battle for the right to enter the final match against him. Action will start at 8:30 P.M.

DIAL-O-LOG

Take a look at Sunday's schedules... You'll find it mighty fine listening all through the day and evening. We'll put an O. K. on the 1:00 o'clock House of Mystery for the small fry... It's good and gruesome, but they take the chills away with the explanations that are offered at the end of the show. No nightmares for the little folk after they listen to this.

Gabriel Heatter's "Brighter Tomorrow" was a most pleasing surprise. You may not like him as a commentator, but this show is definitely interesting and well suited to his style. As a matter of fact, we're so satiated with mysteries and who-dun-its that almost any other show sounds super.

We'll still put What's the Name of That Song? and Twenty Questions at the head of our list for Sunday night. Both of them are variations of old parlor games, but they're entertaining and easy to listen to.

May we remind you again that we'll be happy to send for tickets for you if you are going down Hollywood way and would like to attend any of the broadcasts? Queen For A Day goes touring the last of this month, but any other time we'd be happy to get the tickets if you'll let us know the date you plan to be there. Note to late sleepers: Papa Johnson sez: "Dere's better pickens when you get up wid do chickens."
