our national security.

The only way to get economy in government is to ECONOMIZE.

ALONG the line of trends, Ives of New York, who defeated New Dealer Lehman for senator in the recent election, is described as a "lean, quiet, 50-year-old Republican who believes in unions but advocates rights for management."

That sounds like good common sense. Given enough power to defend their rights but not enough to upset the industrial applecart, unions are indispensable in our system.

Giving ALL the power to the unions and NONE to management just doesn't work. We've learned that lesson the hard way.

THE truth is that labor relations, like business itself, need to be governed by the principle of the Golden Rule.

The principle of the Golden Rule, if applied realistically to business, WOULD WORK. It would work out in the form of greater profits, arising out of satisfied customers.

It would work in the same way if applied to labor relations.

HAL BOYLE, one of the best of the war reporters, offers this challenging observation on the peace-time America of today:

"America, to one returning after several years abroad, seems like a giant crippled by pygmy fears. Or, perhaps, like a schizophrenic lion in a field of mice, brooding over which one may grow up and give him trouble.

"The national temper, bold, resourceful and aggressive under the strain of war, appears to have DETERIORATED under the frictions of victory and uneasy peace."

THERE is too much truth in that observation to be pleasant.

America, since V-J Day, seems to have degenerated into a nation of introverts, brooding over what is wrong with us. What we need, as Boyle suggests, is to BE OURSELVES again. To have faith in our destiny and confidence in the ability to meet and shape it.

Willingness to work hard for something we want and believe in will help to get us out of our present mood.

(IN all of this talk about national uncertainty, leave Oregon out. Oregon is all right. Just leave us alone and we'll work out our destiny.)

Contract Trucker Wins Accident Pay Decision

PORTLAND, Nov. 15.—(AP)—A trucker hauling logs for a company under a contract rate was held yesterday by Circuit Judge Walter L. Tooze to be an employee of the logging company and entitled to accident compensation under the workmen's compensation act.

The opinion was given on appeal of Ed C. Bowser from the State Industrial Accident Commission's denial of a claim.

The judge held the commission in error in finding that Bowser was an independent contractor.

The employer — McDonough Logging Company, operating in Tillamook county — considered Bowser and other truckers independent contractors and had made no contribution to the accident fund for them, nor did the accident commission request contributions.

Judge Tooze said that although Bowser provided his own equipment and maintained it, receiving $6 a thousand feet, he was "as a matter of fact and of law" an employee of the company within the meaning of the workmen's compensation act.

The black rat came into Europe between the 8th and 11th centuries and was responsible for the horrible plagues which occurred soon after his arrival.

HOUSING MISMANAGEMENT

By CHARLES V. STANTON

October building permits in Roseburg followed the declining trend which began with the imposition of restrictions by the CPA.

During the early part of the year, construction permits were surpassing all previous records. The building industry was apparently on the way to a new record. Then the so-called veterans housing program was initiated, designed to speed construction of homes, and construction activities immediately went into a dizzy spin. The same situation is reported from all parts of the country. Such is the experience with planned economy in all branches of our domestic life.

Lifting of building restrictions undoubtedly will restore the tempo of construction, but it will take many months to eliminate material shortages resulting from bureaucratic muddling, even after controls are removed.

A great many people have been fooled by the use of the word "veterans" in connection with the housing program. That word was tacked to the plan for political purposes only. In fact, it has been the veteran who has been most adversely affected. But the CPA and the OPA respond to critics with the assertion that deviation from the bureaucratic scheme would injure the veteran and that those who propose elimination of controls are attempting to take privileges rightfully belonging to the veteran—and they are able to make a good many people believe it.

The truth is that the veterans preferential system used by the CPA is a decided disservice to veterans.

What the veteran needs is a home—a shelter for himself and his family. The only way in which we can relieve the housing shortage is to build more homes. If the veteran cannot build a home for himself, while some other individual is able to do so, then the veteran has an opportunity to occupy the home which the builder vacates. Polls conducted by reputable organizations show that the majority of veterans do not want to build homes but prefer to rent. No rental property will be available in quantity until there is an over-supply of homes. Thus everything which retards full scale home constructions delays the time when veterans can find rented shelter.

Building costs at the present time are highly inflated. Few veterans have the money with which to build at existing prices. Many would prefer to pay less money for an older residence. Yet many civilians are prepared to build houses despite current costs if they could secure authority. But the unrealistic attitude of CPA and OPA has retarded home construction by civilians and has thus made it increasingly difficult for veterans to find homes.

One of the most asinine acts of the CPA has been the halting of partially completed homes. In numerous cases work has been stopped after a dwelling had been nearly finished and after the builder had secured all necessary materials to complete the job. One case now pending from Roseburg concerns a dwelling 90 per cent finished.

One of our friends had his prospective home half finished when halted by a stop order. He had all necessary material with which to complete construction. But confronted with a stop order, and with the rainy season approaching, he was forced to tear down the structure in order to prevent damage to the materials already fabricated. Yet, had he completed the dwelling, his present residence was to have been occupied by a veteran member of the family.

Prospects are that controls over building will be removed in the near future, in keeping with the administrative plan to eliminate price, wage and commodity restrictions as rapidly as possible.

We predict that if this is done there will be a quick revival of building activity and that veterans housing will be much more adequately served than under the present controlled system.

Student Loan Fund Plan Approved By Roseburg Rotary

Unanimous approval for the creation of a student loan fund for the benefit of deserving college and university students was given Thursday at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Roseburg Rotary Club.

Details of the plan, whereby members of the Rotary Club would make voluntary donations to the fund, which would be used to aid deserving students, were disclosed by Frank Denton, chairman of Rotary's service committee.

The funds would be administered by a special board of trustees. Students needing aid for highr education would be granted loans to be paid back when they are in a position to do so.

The fund would be a "monument that would really mean something to the Rotarians of Roseburg," Denton said. The success of student loan funds administered by Rotary Clubs in other cities was pointed out.

"Many students would have to drop out of school for lack of a loan, and a little boost would put them over," one member said at the meeting.

Kelsey Hobday, Jr., high school Rotarian, was presented with a Rotary Club emblem to wear on his sweater.

Verdict Awards Money To Plaintiff in Suit

First jury case of the November term of the circuit court resulted in a verdict for the plaintiff Thursday, John B. Olinghouse being awarded $1,330.46 in wages alleged to be due.

The defendant, Mrs. Glenora Tanner, as administratrix of the estate of Mary Ann Wilson, deceased, had rejected the plaintiff's claim for work, labor and services performed for M. A. Wilson prior to her death. The plaintiff had filed action in the circuit court for the recovery of his claim.

The plaintiff was represented by Harrison R. Winston and the defendant by Ray B. Compton and George Loqoma.

Victory Spirit Spurs Indians As Tilt Nears

Roseburg High Gridsters In Top Form for Battle With Medford Tonight

Roseburg High's Indians, possessing probably the best mental winning spirit of any previous local eleven ever to go up against a Medford football club, left yesterday afternoon for Grants Pass in order to get in a brief snappy workout before tonight's all-important District 2 playoff tilt.

With but the one thought, victory over Medford, in their minds, the squad of 25 boys were termed by Coaches Mel Ingram and John Newby as "mentally right," neither over-confident, or worried, but spiked with the fact that a win over the Tigers would be satisfaction alone without necessarily going on to capture the state grid crown.

Roseburg's Indians hold a high-scoring season record similar to that of the Black Tornado Club, both undefeated with seven wins and one tie. The Indians have racked up 273 points and held opponents to 35, while Medford scored 297 points as to opponents' 85.

Big Chance Offered

Tonight's contest will decide the semi-final entry into the state playoffs in Portland and also Roseburg's greatest chance in a decade of knocking off a highly-touted gridiron machine which has loomed over them for more than a quarter of a century. Actually, local supporters claim, a victory over the Tornadoing-Tigers would mean more than a championship of the state.

Tension on the part of Roseburg team supporters reached an all-time high during the past week as much controversy flew between the two cities.

Medford openly stated that Roseburg has their impressive string of victories as a result of a hand-picked schedule, consisting of opponents very inferior to their own season's matches.

Adding insult to injury, according to enthusiastic Indian followers, a special story, originating in Medford, appeared in a Portland paper in which Principal Lester D. Harris of Medford High School stated that Roseburg had "declined to abide by a flip of a coin or play on either their own field or the Medford turf."

This statement was immediately refuted by Omer J. Monger, Roseburg High principal, declaring Medford "flatly refused" to toss a coin, branding the Roseburg field "a quagmire unfit for championship play." The result was that the Roseburg officials declined to play on the Medford grounds and agreed on the suggestion of a neutral field.

Even though the two teams of the same state district, have played teams of different sections of the state, they have played two common foes this season, both winning over Grants Pass and Ashland by impressive scores.

Records Compared

The two clubs' season records stand to date:

Roseburg
32	Myrtle Point	0
33	Lebanon	0
26	University High	7
13	Springfield	7
13	Cottage Grove	12
50	Junction City	0
40	Ashland	6
44	Grants Pass	6
Medford
26	Albany	13
20	Marshfield	0
19	Eugene	19
7	Klamath Falls	0
55	Bend	7
65	Ashland	21
58	Grants Pass	0

Although a sports writer of the Medford Mail Tribune said Wednesday it was not especially to the liking of the Tigers to schedule the contest on the Grants Pass field because of the tall turf which might mean a slippery ball and field, the Indians had no trouble in maneuvering last week on the field against the Grants Pass Cavemen.

Early Lead Sought

Determined to start out after an early lead, the Indians' biggest offensive threat will be Ed Harvey, swivel-hipped Ball-toting righthalf, aided by running mates Duane Pope, Ty Evans and Doug Keene. The Harvey-Pope combination proved a constant headache to Tri-County League opponents in its ability to slip through tacklers for long gains and repeated scoring. These two halves also have made fine showing as passers. Evans, a fine plunger, takes care of the punting duties at the quarter post. Keene has proven himself throughout the season as an outstanding broken-field runner, ball-hawk, and effective blocker.

Workhorse and pickup man of the backfield for the Indians will be Johnny Ulrich, fullback, who has covered more yardage this season than most carriers of high school caliber can boast in three seasons.

Stand-outs on the line will be leftend Bill Benson, end-around artist, who makes pass snagging appear easy, and Bill Marsters, scrapping 200-pound tackle who has a knack for opening offensive holes and closing the gap on defense. Rounding out the line are King Moore at right tackle, who recently returned to the squad following an early season injury; Bob Wilhite and Tom McCown, a pair of rock-and-sock guards, and Bob Feldkamp, scrappy pivot.

Kickoff time for the playoff tilt is 8 P. M. under the direction of officials from Portland, who were selected by the Oregon State Officials Association.

Garb Confusion Avoided

The Indians will not don their new jerseys tonight, as they vie against Medford at Grants Pass, since the jerseys are black and would be confused with Medford's, according to Principal Omer J. Monger.

Complete new playing suits were ordered at the opening of the present grid season, he stated, but the pants failed to arrive. The jerseys are black in color with orange numerals, coinciding with Medford's black and red colors.

Monger also announced that two Roseburg merchants have presented 12 water-proof parkas to the squad and Russian lambskin coats to Coaches Mel Ingram and John Newby.

As an added incentive for victory tonight, the Indians will be furnished a free trip to the Shriners' East-West All-Star football game New Year's Day in San Francisco, completely financed by local merchants, providing they win.

'Pep' Rally Staged

Approximately 250 rabid rooters for the Roseburg High School football squad turned out Wednesday night to block traffic throughout Jackson St. for a special pep rally in support of tonight's playoff tilt with Medford at the Grants Pass field.

Supported by the high school band, Yell Queen Irene Trapalis led the high-spirited students through numerous cheers as they serpentined through the business section and lauded the team members and coaches present at the all-student demonstration.

Cazell, Piluso to Clash on Saturday Mat Card Here

Indian Ike Cazell, the Montana Redskin who has become the scourge of Pacific Northwest wrestling circles, will meet head-locking Ernie Piluso in the first half of a double main-event at the Roseburg Armory Saturday night.

Topping Matchmaker Don Oven's weekly mat show will be a long-awaited meeting between Frankie Hart and Paavo Katonen.

Cazell and Piluso are expected to stage one of the most colorful and dynamic battles in recent months — comparable to last week's Donnybrook in which Sammy Cohen lifted the lightheavyweight crown from the head of the Gray Mask.

Cazell is more feared than the Mask, Jack Lipscomb, Pete Belcastro, Tony Ross, Bulldog Jackson and the other villains. He has won few decisions, but has sent several rough-and-tough grapplers, as well as "cleanies," to the shelf before losing on technicalities. He will be meeting a worthy opponent in Piluso. The Portland Italian, who until recently held the world championship, has been around for years and had met and beaten some of the toughest characters in the business. His headlock, developed not more than a year ago, is one of the most effective holds in the game. Douglas County grappling followers are assured of a very entertaining skirmish when Cazell and Piluso tangle. The Portland Italian has proven his ability against any type of foe.

The other one-hour battle, really the No. 1 attraction, will be in marked contrast to the No. 2 match. Hart, the sensational young Canadian, and Katonen, the bulky Finnish grappler, are expected to stage a great scientific bout. Although expected to be a straight-away match, it could turn into a fistic feud. Katonen, a former coast champ, has been known to use his ham-like mitts effectively—to go along with his amazing strength and long years of experience.

A three-round boxing exhibition has been planned for a preliminary, opening the program at 8:30 P. M. Elton Owen will referee all three matches.

KDNB DIAL-LOG

Not that we think it's of any particular interest to anyone, but if you happen to be home tonight you can tune in the play-by-play of the Roseburg-Medford football game starting at 8 o'clock. KUIN in Grants Pass will also carry and will feed the game to KWIN Ashland on a three-station hook-up. Nice guys there at GP. They're furnishing the technicians and setting up the lines for the whole deal. Marshall Pengra will handle the play and Del McKay the half time and pre-game color. As a public service, four local automobile dealers are sponsoring the release. If you want to say thank you, say it to Lockwood Motors, Hansen Motor Tire Department, Si Dillard Motor Co., and the Roseburg Motor Co. P. S.: The netwrk ain't happy . . . . we hadda cancel five of their shows.

Note: Mr. Pengra is the author of the above lines. In case you're confused by the opening line, it's just his subtle humor. He knows durn well that you'll all be hanging on his words.
