elections.

What do we hope to gain?

WE'RE probably just registering our opinion. By and large, our stand is an academically admirable one. We're saying to the world that WE think elections should be wholly free — that everybody should have his say at the polls, unscrutinized by secret police and unhampered by DOMINANT cliques and governments.

We're TRYING to talk to the people in these countries who don't like communism and who don't want to be absorbed into the communist system. There must be many such. These little countries have always wanted independence. They have fought for it for centuries. They are probably no more eager to be ruled by Russia than they were in past centuries to be ruled by Rome, by Austria, etc.

They want to run their own affairs, and our stand for free elections ought to be popular with them. It ought to build in these areas the belief that America is the champion of freedom not only for the individual but for small peoples.

THE trouble is that we are more or less talking without an audience—like a man muttering to himself in a padded room. Russian censorship sees to it that all peoples under the communist thumb hear only what Russia wants them to hear. Our efforts are badly blocked by the highly efficient iron curtain.

ARE we wasting our time?

Not necessarily.

AS nearly as we can see at the present moment, two systems are building up in the world.

One is the single-party, totalitarian, the individual lives and works for the glory of the state system inspired and led by Russia. The other is the system, led by America, wherein the state exists to serve the welfare of the individual.

Over the long pull, our system is going to appeal MORE to individual men throughout the world than the Russian system. OVER THE LONG PULL, its appeal will be so great as to penetrate iron curtains, wherever they may be.

So, it seems reasonable to believe, we should lose no opportunity to explain our system and to stand up for its basic principles throughout the world.

HERE is a thought, offered for what it is worth:

Russians, barely out from under serfdom, are probably SINCERELY SATISFIED NOW with their system. Throughout the present generation, they are likely to remain satisfied with it.

But, OVER THE LONG PULL, it can't stand up in the minds and in the hopes and aspirations of men against the American system of freedom for the individual to do what he wants to do within the limits of the rights of others.

No Traffic Accidents Here During Bad Weather

Despite bad highway conditions during the stormy weather of the past week, the Roseburg area has been free of traffic accidents involving death or personal injury, Deputy Sheriff Dick Baker said today.

The report covers highways in each direction for an approximately 20-mile distance.

Floyd C. Frear, county roadmaster, reported no roads washed out, although the Loon Lake road has been damaged considerably by slides and partial washout by the lake which has backed over the road in some sections.

The Umpqua River, Frear said, has not raised beyond the usual point for this time of the year.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

By CHARLES V. STANTON

An unusual advertisement appears in today's News-Review, launching a new campaign to secure additional financing for the proposed Swimming Pool—Civic Center project advanced by Roseburg's Park and Playground Commission. A committee, headed by A. S. Coen, is sponsoring the project, urging cash contributions to the fund through either single or multple year pledges.

Included in the long-range plan is a modern swimming pool, eventually to be enclosed for all-year use; a wading pool for small children, separate from the adult pool; an auditorium of ample size for small or large gatherings; a gymnasium for general use by adult and youth groups.

The plan is projected on a pay-as-you-go basis—one project at a time, but working toward a goal of full development.

The committee, Mr. Coen states, estimates total cost at from $400,000 to $500,000, of which approximately one-half would represent cost of the swimming pool. The Park Commission now has available the sum of $28,000. It is hoped the current campaign will increase the fund sufficiently to permit start of construction in 1947 of at least an open-air pool. Enclosure can be arranged at a later date when more money is obtained.

Unique in the advertisement announcing this project is the use of futuristic news items explaining in a most interesting manner the multiple purposes to be served by the proposed civic center.

Some persons may be startled by the magnitude of the plan, but the committee does not anticipate that the project can be brought to completion in the immediate future. Instead, the proposal is to proceed by units, each unit being of moderate cost, but culminating in a well-coordinated plant of sufficient size to serve a city of from 25,000 to 30,000 population.

An effort will be made to secure as many continuing pledges as possible. If the committee is successful in promoting annual contributions over a period of years, consummation of the project is assured.

Special mention should be made of the contribution by Montgomery Ward and Company and Henninger's Marts in making the Park Commission's advertisement possible. Because of the extreme shortage of newsprint, the News-Review was unable to furnish space for the desired full-page announcement. The two civic-minded business firms, both desiring more advertising space for their own purposes and needing display for the holiday season, voluntarily relinquished their previously contracted space to permit publication of the Commission's advertisement.

Pressure upon the News-Review for more advertising space is increasing, yet the newsprint situation appears to be worsening instead of improving. In our recent contacts with paper mills we have been unable to secure assurance of any substantial or adequate increase for the coming year.

At present the News-Review is satisfying only a bare majority of the demands for space. For instance, during this week, to date, we have rejected between four and five full pages of advertising, despite the fact that we have endangered our paper supply for the balance of the year by exceeding our weekly allotment.
