

Legion Host To Kiddies at Yule Party at Armory

The American Legion was host to Santa and more than a score of youngsters at their annual Christmas party in the Roseburg Armory Tuesday night.

Santa's arrival was prelude by the singing of Christmas carols and general entertainment. Amidst the ringing of bells and the excited chatter of kiddies, Santa was ushered in by little Betty Jo Moore, who strutted along and flourished a drum majorette's baton. Favors were passed among the children, then Santa was on his way to see the children at Lookingglass.

The evening was concluded with refreshments and music. Offering entertainment were Parks Schneider, who showed the boys how to make music with the ebony bones; the Misses Janice Jackson, Joan Beckwith and Fay Monroe, who sang in trio several songs to the accompaniment by Mrs. Fred Wenger.

Bernard Steinberger offered a variety of selections on the accordion and later in the evening, with the aid of several Legionnaires, supplied the music for dancing. Mrs. Rudy Ritzman played the piano for group singing, conducted by Post Commander E. A. Springer. Fred Wenger was commissioned as Santa's representative. Guest of the evening was Mrs. Margaret E. Neel, charter member of Post 169, Seattle, Wash., the first all-woman American Legion post in the Northwest, composed of nurses from World War I. Introduction was made by Comrade Carl Mosher.

Mirrors that transmit as well as reflect light are new developments in structural glass. The mirrors function as a reflective surface when seen from one side and simultaneously as windows when viewed from the other.

New forms of alloy coatings for steel use tin and zinc combined.
