should split into factions, each commanded by an adjutant-general of its own? In such an event there would be present in Georgia, an American commonwealth, all the raw materials of a civil war exactly similar to that which in China we so greatly decry and condemn.

IT is improbable, of course, but it could happen. The issue of white supremacy in Georgia is as explosive as the issues that divide the Kuomintang and the communists in China. If shooting started in Georgia, the faces of our diplomats would be extremely red.

THIS is the real nib of the matter:

The "white supremacy" issue in Talmadge-ridden Georgia and Bilbo-ridden Mississippi has been greatly aggravated by cold-blooded, selfish, "practical" politicians in the North who have been interested very little, if at all, in removing racial discrimination in the South but very much interested indeed in winning colored votes in the North.

Everyone has known all about that for years. Everyone has taken it for granted. At best, we have shrugged it off with the disgusted observation that "politicians are like that." The Talmadge ruckus in Georgia and the Bilbo incident in Mississippi should teach us that we can't play with garbage without getting defiled and can't play with fire without getting burned.

If we are going to tolerate scaly and dishonest and insincere political methods, we must sooner or later pay the price. Georgia and Mississippi are advance payments on the price we must pay for the cynical and conscienceless struggle for colored votes that so long has been a disgrace in Northern political campaigns.

Rejected Draftee Denied Benefits In Court Ruling

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 —(AP)— The Supreme Court ruled unanimously yesterday that a draftee who reported for induction on Armistice Day, 1918, but was sent back home is not entitled to a certificate of honorable discharge from the Army.

The major import of the decision is that persons who had that experience are not veterans and hence not entitled to any of the rights and privileges Congress has provided for veterans.

The ruling was given on an appeal by James John Lamb, of Davenport, Iowa. Lamb contended he was entitled to "an honorable discharge" certificate instead of what he did get—a "discharge from draft" certificate.

The court upheld conviction of Thomas Balogh, a Jehovah's Witness, in U. S. District Court in Brooklyn on charges of refusing to report for induction in the armed forces. Balogh was sentenced to two years imprisonment. He had claimed exemption as a student preparing for the ministry.

The order attracted attention because the court in several cases has reversed convictions of Jehovah's Witnesses. It gave no reasons for today's finding, simply announcing the order with a notation that Justice Murphy disagreed with it.

Balogh had won a reversal from the U. S. Circuit Court in New York. The high tribunal's order set that aside.

Hot Subject

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 21.—(AP)—Fire destroyed the University of Portland's heating system, but the 1,489 students donned sweaters and overcoats and began taking final examinations anyway.

Most found their fingers cramped a bit writing answers, but the speech course final examination, consisting of extemporaneous speeches, was fine.

Its subject: "Heat."

PLEASE, MR. COMMISSIONER!

By CHARLES V. STANTON

Representatives from the State Game Commission and Fish Commission have been invited to attend a public meeting of sportsmen at the Knights of Pythias lodge hall tonight for a discussion of tentative regulations, both sports and commercial, on the Umpqua River.

Sports fishermen are aroused by tentative regulations prohibiting angling for spring Chinook salmon.

Regulations, as proposed by commissions, would prohibit hook and line fishing for Chinook salmon, while also eliminating net fishing until July 1.

For some reason which we do not understand and have not had time to investigate, the commission would permit salmon angling in the tidewater area, below the Reedsport highway bridge, throughout the month of July. We presume this provision was made because net fishing for Chinooks opens in July and it was the theory that anglers should have equal opportunity.

Angling would be permitted after Sept. 1 for silverside salmon, with the angling deadline at The Forks.

Up-river sports fishermen contend that the proposed regulations are more drastic than called for by existing conditions.

Closure of the North and South forks to salmon angling is held to be unnecessary. Sportsmen also feel that a limited amount of angling for Chinook salmon should be allowed.

The Roseburg Rod and Gun Club delegation, appearing before the Game Commission at the hearing when rules and regulations for the season were promulgated, proposed a reduction in bag limits to three fish in any one day or in any seven consecutive days. The daily and weekly catches were made equal as a consideration to those fishermen who have only infrequent opportunity to engage in the sport. Catch records for the season indicate that approximately one-half last season's Chinook take by anglers was by five fishermen—men who spent many hours on the river, fishing almost daily. By a small weekly limit, fish taken by hook and line would be more widely distributed and the total catch greatly reduced. The only anglers seriously discommoded would be those who did little else in season.

The Roseburg Rod and Gun Club has invited representatives of the two commissions to be present at their meeting tonight to listen to the pleas and arguments for modification of tentative rules and regulations. Sportsmen of the upper Umpqua area have sponsored a vigorous and extensive conservation program. They feel that their voluntary contribution has been effective. They contend that they should not be penalized by complete elimination of one of their chief sources of spring recreation, simply because the river no longer will carry the load of commercial fishing. There is a feeling that sports fishing has been "sold out" by the Game Commission as a compromise with the commercial fishery.

It is our personal belief that there should be little damage to the Chinook salmon run if limited sports angling were permitted. No unfairness is involved. The river cannot stand continued net fishing for this particular species. That fact is obvious. But while persons now engaged in the commercial fishery would be prohibited from fishing for gain, they still would have equal opportunity with all other residents for enjoyment of the sports fishery.

Only a very small percentage of migrating spring Chinook salmon will strike a spinner. The take, in ratio to the volume of migration, is extremely small. Therefore, if bag limits are set sufficiently low to permit enjoyment of this wonderful recreation, while, at the same time, assuring ample escapement, we believe the Game Commission should give serious consideration to amending its regulations before voting final adoption.

Perhaps we're a bit selfish. For years we've been using Chinook fishing as a means of escape when the sun begins to shine in the early spring months. We certainly haven't damaged the river. We've caught exactly four salmon during the past six years. But we've spent many lazy hours in a boat, trolling or anchored, watching the clouds roll by, relaxed and half dozing while waiting the strike that seldom came. But if the commission persists in its ruling, we'll have no excuse to avoid mowing lawns, trimming shrubs, weeding flower beds, and the hundred and one other things a woman always can find for a man to do as long as he sticks around the house.

Please, Mr. Commissioner, let us have a spring Chinook season—limited though it may be!

Eyeglasses For Post-Operation Use Are Devised

SOUTHBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 21 —(AP)— A new type of eyeglasses for persons who have had cataracts removed was announced today by the American Optical Company.

The cataract operation destroys the lens of the eye usually. Spectacles specially formed substitute for the lost lens.

The new spectacles are only about half the weight of those previously in use, which had glasses shaped somewhat like bullseyes. The new ones weigh only slightly more than ordinary glasses.

These glasses also protect the eyes against ultraviolet light, with a chemical compound in the glass that filters out the sun-tan rays.

Normally the human eye lens filters the ultraviolet. Dr. E. D. Tillyre, director of research for the American Optical Company, recently demonstrated that persons who have lost their lenses through operations, can actually see with ultraviolet light, something that normal eyes usually cannot do.

These people wore lenses excluding all the rays except ultraviolet and were able to read the characters on a test chart. This ability has little use because the ultraviolet is dangerous to eyes if long-continued.

Fines Levied on Four on Charges of Drunkenness

Frank James Vest, 44, Bellingham, Wash., was fined $50 for drunkenness on a public highway, Justice of the Peace Hartfiel reported Monday. Vest was arrested at Riddle, after driving his automobile into a ditch.

Other persons fined for drunkenness Monday included: Joseph Almer Lawrason, 45, Riddle, drunkenness in a public place, $30; George Frank Hamlin, 21, Riddle, and John Vincent Lewis, 25, drunkenness on a public highway, each $25.

Ex-Sutherlin Resident, Noted Geologist, Dies

SHREVEPORT, La., Jan. 21—(AP)—M. Valerius, 75, retired petroleum geologist, died here Saturday at the home of his son, C. N. Valerius, district manager for Barnsdall Oil Company.

Valerius was widely known as a geologist, having been a member of the firm of Valerius, McNutt and Hughes at Tulsa, Okla., one of the first to engage in consultant work in the petroleum industry. His geological work led to discovery of the first oil field in western Kansas, the Fairfort field in Russell County.

He was a native of Sigourney, Ia., and had lived at Sutherlin, Oregon.

RHS Basketeers Scheduled Tonight At Cottage Grove

By ROYAL S. DENTON

Coach Jack Newby's Indian hoop crew left today for Cottage Grove, where they battle in their fifth Tri-County conference basketball game tonight.

The Indians, who have proven themselves fully capable of holding up when the chips are down, have literally had their ups and and downs this season, knocking out tough pre-season opponents, but falling to Eugene High and St. Mary's in league tussles. They won in other conference tilts with Elmira and the Gaels at the Eugene court, and licked Springfield here Saturday.

The Lions of Cottage Grove, blasted to a 51-15 defeat by the St. Mary's club last Saturday, have won but one contest in four starts, and declare that they have been dogged by bad luck.

In their game with Eugene High, their star letterman guard, Newton, was out because of an accident the previous day in a manual arts class. In their tussle with Junction City's Tigers, two boys, both ex-navy veterans, were ruled ineligible as being one day too old to compete in high school hoop competition.

A win for Roseburg will mean a four-win and two losses and is quite possible as the Indians definitely displayed their actual court power against Springfield Saturday night when they trounced the Millers, 43-39.

With the elevation of Jerry Coen and Charles Taylor to the varsity squad, the Indians' reserve strength showed improvement against Springfield, and Daryl Blanck, 6-foot four-inches sopohomore center, finally came through with his true capabilities Saturday night in using his height and shooting ability to an advantage.

Roseburg's Warriors vie with the Cottage Grove Jaycees in the preliminary with expectations of regaining their stride in the win column after losing to both Eugene and Springfield last weekend for their first defeat of the season. The Lions' seconds thumped St. Mary's Bees, 36-15, while Roseburg handed the Crusaders twin defeats of 40-21 and 27-16.

Sale to Pirates Disappointment To Hank Greenberg

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK, Jan. 21—(AP)—The mystery surrounding Hank Greenberg's sudden departure from the Detroit Tigers and the American League defened today when it became known the league's seven other clubs had failed to claim the home run king.

Only one waiver request could possibly have been made up to last Saturday, when Greenberg was sold to the Pittsburgh Pirates. This means that President Larry MacPhail of the New York Yankees and others in the American League did not even bother to put in a claim for him.

MacPhail, explaining why he let Greenberg be waived out of the league, said he had tried three times since last fall to land Greenberg, but that each time he was turned down. Yet when he might have had opportunity to get Greenberg for the $10,000 waiver price, he failed to take advantage of it.

MacPhail declared the Tigers would not have allowed Greenberg to go to the Yankees, or any other potentially strong American League club. That might have been true, but neither MacPhail nor anybody else gave the Tigers a chance to prove or disprove it.

Hank Disappointed

Greenberg, himself, expressed surprise and disapointment upon being sold by the Tigers. In a statement to the press yesterday, the Bronx-born slugger said:

"The news that I was sold to Pittsburgh, which I heard over the radio, came as a complete surprise.

"My whole Major League baseball career has been spent in a Detroit uniform and I regret leaving my teammates, many of whom are my close friends.

"Naturally after this long and pleasant relationship I am disappointed to be sold from the Detroit club and waived out of the American League."

Greenberg, saying he would not comment on "wild rumors about my retirement," added he would be ready to sit down with Pirate officials and talk salary terms following the arrival of the stork to his home.

"The baby may be born tonight or tomorrow. After I get through pacing the floor I'll be ready to sit down and talk to Roy Harney (Pirate general manager)." He was quoted as saying he would not have any difficulties reaching an agreement. He was reported to have received $60,000 from the Tigers last year.

Former GAR Head, 100, Undergoes Eye Operation

SEATTLE, Jan. 20. —(AP)— Hiram R. Gale, 100, Seattle's sole surviving Grand Army of the Republic veteran, was trying on new glasses today following a successful operation for the removal of a cataract from his left eye. He was the 1945-46 national commander of the GAR.

His left eye became blinded five years ago. His right eye vision was impaired the past few months. The operation was performed by Dr. Hollis Maness, senior surgeon at the United States public health service marine hospital, and Gale's son, Edgar, said the surgeons told him his father was probably the oldest person ever to undergo the operation.

Stoll Resigns as Head Of Employment Service

PORTLAND, Jan. 21. — (AP) — Lee C. Stoll, state director of the Oregon employment service since March, 1939, announced he had resigned effective Feb. 15.

He said he would devote full time to the work of the Portland area labor-management committee. Stoll explained that when the employment service was returned to state control Nov. 15 he told Governor Snell he would remain until the merger of the employment service with the state unemployment compensation commission had been completed.

Bark Beetle Threatens Northwest Spruce Areas

PORTLAND, Jan. 21. — (AP) — Sitka spruce stands in the Pacific northwest and Alaska are threatened by a bark beetle infesting the timber, the Oregon academy of science was told at a weekend meeting.

Robert L. Furniss, U. S. bureau of entomology and plant quarantine representative, said surveys indicated 35,000,000 board feet of Alaska's best Sitka stand west of Ketchikan destroyed and warned the Northwest may expect similar outbreaks.

Army Offers Good Jobs to Graduates Of High Schools

As its contribution to tte national need for full employment in 1947 the new regular army will make available 40,000 good jobs every month, T-Sgt. H. L. Mehrens of the U. S. Army recruiting service said Monday.

The announcement was directed especially to recent high school graduates who have been advised by university and college heads to delay entrance into college due to present conditions on the campuses.

"The high school graduate who goes directly to college finds himself faced with crowded conditions, both as to housing and in the class-rooms," Sergeant Mehrens said.

"Teen-agers are froced to compete with mature veterans who are proving outstanding students and virtually dominate athletic activities."

"Service in the new United States army develops latent capabilities and affords oportunity for youth to obtain self-discipline and the maturity of mind and body which create the self-confidence so essential for competition in this highly technical age. Many of the educational advantages offered under the G. I. bill of rights are still in effect.

"Consequently, upon termination of his enlistment the young veteran finds himself far better equipped to face life, either on the college campus, or in the business world."

Fines Levied On Traffic Offenders

Traffic offenders paid $475 in fines, largely for overload offenses, this week, Justice of the Peace Hartfiel reported. Largest fine — $80 — was paid by Calvin Person for an overload violation. Other fines were:

Bernard G. Fenwick, overload, $10; Everett W. Brittain, unit overload, $20, and unit overload, $40; Wilbur B. Meredith, overload, $70; James L. Rutherford, axle overload, $20; Randall W. Travis, overload, $30; Harold F. Messenger, overload, $50; Thomas R. Waggoner, unit overload, $40; Leonard G. Anderson, overload, $50; Ralph E. Krohn, unit overload, $10; Abner J. Bush, overload, $15, and Theryle B. Rigsby, speeding, $10.

Byron E. Burt, no muffler, $10, and no tail light, $10; Raymond R. Hilde, no vehicle license, $10; Rocco Calamia, overload, $10; Wilbur B. Goodnough, overload, $60.

Luxury Tax Warning Issued to Merchants

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—(AP) — The internal revenue bureau said today a merchant may — if he chooses — refund to a purchaser an amount equal to part or all of the 20 per cent federal excise tax on furs, jewelry, silverware and cosmetics.

However, the bureau emphasized, the merchant is forbidden to advertise or tell a customer orally that he will pay the tax himself, refund it or absorb it. To do so is a violation of revenue laws and subject to a penalty of a fine up to $1,000.

Poison Claims Dog That Saved Two Families

SEATTLE, Jan. 21. — (AP) — Cookie, the young Dachshund credited with saving the lives of two families when their home in Auburn burned during a November snowstorm, was dead today—victim of a dog poisoner.

Cookie jumped on a bed to awaken Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Curry when the house caught fire, then ran to the bed of Edwin Curry, 7, and awakened him. The Currys roused Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Darnell and their son, Duane Darnell, also residing at the home.

A veterinarian said death came from eating poisoned meat.

Albany Teachers to Quit If Salaries Not Upped

ALBANY, Ore., Jan. 21. —(AP) Albany school teachers held firm today to a threat to leave the school system at the end of the school year if salary increases are not voted.

Henry Otto, spokesman for the teachers, told the school board the teachers want a flat $600 increase and a minimum annual salary of $2400. The minimum now is $1900.

The board chairman, Mrs. C. G. Cowgill, estimated the increases would cost $48,000, and said a special election probably would be needed to authorize the action.

Suit Shortage

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Jan. 21.—(AP) —Mayor H. D. Allison has trouble finding suits to fit his five-foot frame.

He ordered a new wardrobe for the United States conference of mayors at Washington.

Wednesday the Plymouth Clothing Company notified him of receipt of his suit and coat.

That night fire destroyed the company's entire stock.

He'll attend the conference — in his old clothes.
