In the Day's News

progress comes down to a FAIR DIVISION of things.

Hard experience, in this postwar world, is teaching us that we can't divide what isn't produced.

IN London, on the same day, Hugh Dalton, chancellor of the exchequer (secretary of the treasury) in Britain's labor government, says in a public address that unless the British people WORK HARDER the British experiment in socialism will wind up in still greater distress, rather than in social progress.

He adds bluntly:

"Britain is living on borrowed money and must produce more goods for export or face a lower standard of life and more unemployment."

DALTON spoke at Newcastle, center of Britain's now nationalized (government owned and operated) coal industry. As he was speaking, the great Austin Motor Works at Birmingham, employing 17,000 people, had just shut down for an indefinite period because of lack of coal.

Other industrial plants in Britain were going on short time. Steel production is down 15 per cent. All because of LACK OF COAL.

Coal is scarce in England NOT because there isn't coal enough in the ground but because not enough of it is being dug and brought to the surface for use as fuel.

That is the rub.

SOCIALISM, you see, is no magic wand that when waved effortlessly will bring forth abundance. If socialism is to work, it must be by better organization for MORE PRODUCTION.

Socialism, in theory, concerns itself with evener distribution of what is produced. Britain is learning by hard experience that when ENOUGH ISN'T PRODUCED evener distribution doesn't satisfy people's wants.

No matter how evenly the food supply may be divided, you will go HUNGRY if there isn't enough food to go around.

IN Washington, Representative Taber, of New York, wants to cut a million persons off the government's total of 2,300,000 civilian employees. He asserts that in 1939 we had less than a million civilian employees on the federal payroll and thinks we can get along now with 1,300,000.

Senator George, of Georgia, agrees that we must have reduction of federal payrolls, but thinks that a cut of half a million would do the trick.

The argument against reduction is that if we cut too deeply we will reduce the services the federal government can render to the people.

KEEP this fact clear in your mind:

The cost of federal government rests squarely upon the back of your neck. The heavier the burden of government, the heavier is the handicap you must carry in the race to make a living for yourself and your family.

As it stands now, some 50-odd millions of employed workers must carry on their backs as they go about their daily jobs the weight of some 2,300,000 federal employees. If certainly stands to reason that if the number of federal employees could be cut to 1,300,000 the weight on your neck would be considerably reduced.

If you didn't have to carry around so much dead weight, you could DO MORE.

AVIATION POSSIBILITIES

By CHARLES V. STANTON

What would an airport adequate to handle commercial passenger planes mean in Roseburg's transportation picture?

The answer can be partially determined from a report recently made by the United Air Lines on the volume of business handled in the first six months of operation into Klamath Falls.

In a period of only six months, United carried 5,614 persons in and out of Klamath Falls, outgoing passengers numbering 3,084, while 2,530 were arrivals.

Klamath Falls had a difficult time securing mainline service. Originally scheduled to stop at Bend, the United was permitted to include Klamath Falls only after a hard struggle by residents of that community to secure amendments to the program outlined by the Civil Aeronautics Authority for the company's operations. The first six months of service indicates how important the airways become and how quickly business is originated.

In addition to passenger travel, Klamath Falls originated and received airmail totaling 12,376 pounds, together with 5,202 pounds of express.

When one considers that this business came from a community which is furnished four daily trains in each direction, together with bus service and all other usual forms of transportation, one begins to wonder what would happen in a community such as Roseburg, where we have only one train, and that a slowpoke, combination milk and cattle contraption operated in the dead of night.

Roseburg's situation is considerably different from that of Klamath Falls. Flying conditions east of the Cascades are much more favorable, the United Air Lines having maintained 95 per cent of its flights on schedule. Due to fog conditions, we could not expect any such flight maintenance record. Nor could we expect mainline or through service immediately. This eventually will come, providing we prepare adequate facilities, but such service probably is several years in the future. We could, however, have feeder service connecting with the mainline, coupled with service to intermediate points between mainline terminals. This feeder service is anxious to include Roseburg on its itinerary, but is forbidden to stop here until better facilities are provided.

Before Roseburg can secure air service, we must have a completely new airport. Only one location meeting standards for commercial flights is available, the site being located in Garden Valley. The matter of a site is made extremely difficult because of our rough terrain. There must be a very low angle between the landing strip and obstructions, such as hills, as commercial planes negotiate landings and take-offs. This angle is made low enough by CAA regulations to include safety factors, giving a degree of tolerance for error in instrument readings.

Purchase and construction of an airport will be extremely costly. But it is possible that through cooperative effort between the city, county and state in matching federal funds, something may be accomplished in the coming months.

The Roseburg Chamber of Commerce has a strong committee working on the problem. This committee has made excellent progress during the past year and is working industriously in promotional efforts.

Klamath Falls' experience should be indication that the Roseburg community would be greatly benefited by commercial flying and that ample business is available to justify further consideration of every possibility for airport development.

Papooses Defeat Ashland Juniors in Close Tilt, 29-25

By ROYAL S. DENTON

Roseburg's Junior High Papooses almost met disaster at the local cage at the hands of Ashland's juniors, but managed to retain a four-point lead and beat the Baby Grizzlies 29-25.

Evenly matched on height, both clubs displayed spurts of high caliber basketball, while at other times they slumped in various court departments.

Leading 16-7 at the end of the initial stanza, Roseburg's driving offense netted a six goal lead before Early, Ashland forward, managed to break through for their first two points.

In the second period the Papooses continued to break the snappy zone-denfense of the Grizzlies and fired successfully at the bucket to build up a halftime lead of 22-11.

Unlike the Papoose crew of previous games this season, Coach H. H. Turner's club fell far below par on ball-handling in the second half, Ashland holding Roseburg to four points scored, and racked up 10 additionals for themselves to trail, 26-21, at the beginning of the final period.

In the fourth quarter a gifter by Weber increased the Papooses' score to 27, followed by Ashland's Wines and Early boosting their count to 25 on consecutive two-pointers, to put the game on ice. Rodgers and Blanck insured the Roseburg lead with a goal apiece in the final minute, however, to win by remarkably close margin of four points.

Fairly clean throughout, Roseburg was whistled down but seven times, while Ashland's fouls totaled nine. The Papooses connected for 11 field goals and sunk five free throws in 11 attempts. Ashland hit 12 field goals, but tallied on only one gifter in seven losses.

Next weekend the Papooses get a return engagement with the Grizzlies at Ashland, and Saturday night vie with Medford at that city.

Lineups:

Roseburg (29)	Pos.	(25) Ashland
Weber, 9	F	8, Early
Olson, 1	F	4, Langer
Blanck, 5	C	5, Bond
Rodgers, 7	G	2, Wine
Mathews,	G	6, Hascom

Substitutions: Roseburg—Gary 2, Strickling, Ingram, Rietman, Henninger, Parr; Ashland—Short, Robertson, Landing. Official: Newby.

Rainbow Grillers Scheduled With Reedsport High

Rainbow Grillers will get their first test of Oregon State A. A. U. court ability Sunday afternoon at 2:30 when they meet an American Legion quintet at Reedsport High School gymnasium in a non-conference tilt.

The Grillers, first half series champions of the Douglas County Commercial League and twice-victors over Sutherlin's Pastime Tavern, northern county division leaders, have entered the A. A. U. competition for entrance into the state tourney to be held in March at Portland.

The Reedsport veterans club, possessing several coastal sector stars, including Wayne DeWitt, Douglas County all-star B Leaguers and all-stater are current leaders in the Coos Independence League's northern division.

A playoff between the Douglas County League winners and the Coos circuit will decide the entry from this sector of the state.

Gene Krewson, managing owner of the Grillers, reports he has signed Roseburg high school coach Jack Newby for one of the forward positions for the preliminary playoffs and possible state competition, and Newby, who suffering a fractured shoulder this week, will not accompany the team Sunday.

Hoop League Managers' Meeting Scheduled

An important meeting for all managers of Douglas County hoop league members is slated for Tuesday, February 11, at the Rainbow Grill, League Secretary Gene Krewson announced today. The meet will take place immediately following the University of Oregon Alumni Banquet, schedule for 6:30 P. M. All managers are urged to attend or have team representatives on hand.

Umpqua Chief Gridders Equipment Requested

Members of last fall's Umpqua Chiefs football team are requested to turn in all equipment issued them during the season, for cleaning and storage, to J. K. Sporting Goods at 125 W Cass street.

More than $1300 of equipment was issued during the season, H. G. Jefferies reports, and only one-half of the equipment has been turned in. Equipment must be cleaned at once, Jefferies stated, or complete dilapidation will result.

Pellone Scores Upset Over Bob Montgomery

DETROIT, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Tony Pellone of New York, rated an underdog in his 10-round lightweight scrap with Bob Montgomery last night, came through with an upset decision over the recognized world lightweight champion in New York and Pennsylvania.

Neither the unanimous decision nor the crowd's whole-hearted approval was in doubt after the first few rounds as the 22-year-old Pellone, led the punching all the way and once sent his Philadelphia oponent half slipping to the canvas for a count of two.

Louis-Godoy Bout Dull; Crowd Small

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 8.—(AP)—World's Heavyweight Boxing Champion Joe Louis' first exhibition with Arturo Godoy last night in his Latin-American tour drew a small crowd which expressed little pleasure and considerable disfavor.

The great 60,000-seat bull ring was about one fifth occupied, there was no announcement of attendance or receipts but it looked as if everyone but the fighters lost money. They got their's before they came here; Louis $50,000 and Godoy, Chilean champion, -10,500.

Louis and his trainers took passage on the first morning plane for San Salvador, where Joe is to put on an exhibition with his sparring partner, Walter Heafer.

The heavyweights boxed 10 two-minute rounds with 14-ounce gloves. It was a tame affair which contained very little slugging and no damage. Godoy, who showed a tendency to stick close to the champion and prevent him from opening up, unofficially earned the sixth and eighth rounds by a narrow margin. Louis outclassed the Chilean during the rest, except for the first and third rounds which unofficially were called even.

Louis weighed 213, Godoy 210.

4 Top Wrestlers Billed Tonight

Two top-flight wrestling matches will be featured at the Roseburg Armory tonight, opening at 8:30 o'clock.

Headlining Matchmaker Don Owen's weekly mat show will be scientific classic between Georges Dusette, French-Canadian, and Billy Weidner, airplane-spin artist from Arizona.

In marked contrast will be a knock-down, drag-out affair between Tony Ross, the so-called "Toledo Terror," and Frankie Hart, the popular Canadian who recently won an eight-man, single-elimination tournament in Eugene.

The well-balanced program is expected to attract another large crowd of Douglas County mat followers, many of whom have been requesting the Weidner-Dusette engagement.

Elton Owen will referee both matches.

Springfield Quint To Be Foe of RHS Hoopsters Tonight

Coach Jack Newby's Roseburg High School hoopsters travel today to Springfield where they'll square off with the husky band of Millers tonight at 7:30 in an attempt to make it two out of two over the fourth place northerners.

Although the Indians' chances at the Tri-County title are not bright, winning sweeps by Roseburg over tonight's opponents, Elmira and Eugene in the two meetings remaining on the schedule, would assure a sturdy second place standing.

Roseburg's only chance at knocking Eugene's strong Axemen from the top pedestal is for the contending state titlists to be knocked over by University High and Junction City next week, with the Indians getting their chance February 28.

The Junior-varsity quintet takes on another tough opponent in tonight's preliminary. The Springfield Bees slaughtered the Warriors in their previous fray, 25-11.

Roseburg's Sophomores also see action tonght, travelling to Myrtle Creek, where thy'll meet the Vikings frosh.

Accompanying Coach Newby's two squads to Springfield this afternoon will be the Knights of Pythias 28-piece Girls Drum and Bugle Corps under the direction of William Black which will perform at halftime.
