naturally be followed by demands for stiff wage increases (resulting, probably, in strikes and unavoidable stoppage of production) the owners of securities should RUSH TO SELL while the selling is still good, thus bringing on sharp breaks in the stock exchanges.

It is just a plain sequence of cause and effect, which anybody ought to be able to figure out for himself.

YOU must have been reading the news from China, where the powers that be are struggling with one of the great modern inflations.

The Chinese have been fighting for about ten years. First they fought the Japs—displaying, at times, unexampled heroism, patriotism and devotion. But, during all the time when they were fighting the Japs, their production was running down. At the same time, their supply of printing press money was increasing, for it doesn't take much time or effort to produce printing press money.

Eventually, we came along and licked the Japs. But when we licked the Japs, the Chinese leaders didn't have sense enough to stop fighting and go to producing. Having no longer a foreign enemy to fight, they started fighting among themselves. They are still at it.

AS a result, Chinese production is still non-existent, but Chinese inflation has become a fearful and wonderful thing to gaze upon. The Chinese dollar—which in the days when China was a fairly stable PRODUCING country was quoted on the international exchange markets at two dollars Chinese for one dollar American—was selling on the Shanghai black market, the last time this writer saw a quotation, at the fantastic rate of 20,000 dollars Chinese for one dollar American.

The American dollar has been doing some fancy inflationary spiraling on its own account, as our production has fallen behind demand, but in comparison with China, where production has practically stopped, it has stood still.

It is getting about time for us ALL to realize that ALL we can hope for out of this process of jacking up prices and then jacking up wages to match is an ultimate situation similar to that which the Chinese have got themselves into.

It isn't a pleasant situation. But we'll get ourselves into it eventually unless we have sense enough to quit fighting among ourselves over prices and wages and get down to production.

EARLY RECOLLECTIONS

By CHARLES V. STANTON

We might head this column "Confessions of a Juvenile Delinquent," as we pick data from a letter by T. V. Gurney of Glide who sends us information concerning the post offices of Earl and Alene.

News-Review readers are certainly doing a swell job in digging out information on early day post offices in Douglas County, and we have a large file of communications to be forwarded to Mr. Lewis A. McArthur, who is compiling a history of Oregon post offices for the Oregon Historical Society.

Supplementing Mr. Gurney's information, we have from Mrs. Bertha B. Pennell of Tiller the exact township and range descriptions of the sites of Earl and Alene post offices, as well as Ila post office, which was located east of Yoncalla and north of Elkhead. And Mrs. Wallace Smiley, Reedsport, also contributes data on Earl and Alene.

The two stations, located on tributaries of the Siuslaw River, were originally in Douglas County, but boundaries later were changed and the sites are now in Lane County. Alene post office was established in 1892, and is believed to get its title from the first name of Mrs. George P. Carl, whose husband was the first postmaster.

Earl post office apparently took its name from Earl Johnson, by whom it was established in 1898.

Gurney might have been able to supply more information but he left the area in 1910 and hasn't been back.

"I got into a lot of mischief and finally an old preacher ran me off the river," he confesses. He also admits that he and a chum made things "interesting" in the town of Florence, particularly when they painted the town dogs.

"There were two pug dogs who took a beautiful paint job," Gurney recalls.

As to the location of the two post offices, Gurney writes:

A few miles below Mapleton on the Siuslaw river, quite a large creek flows into the river from the south. The name of this creek is Sweet creek, named after the three Sweet brothers who settled at the mouth of the stream.

About twelve miles up the creek is a high falls. The road went up Sweet creek to the falls. There was a settlement in upper Sweet creek valley called Earl. The people in the upper valley packed in their supplies on horses. The post office was named Earl and was located in the home of Mrs. Alice Johnson.

The Alene post office was on lower Maple creek, located in the George P. Carl home. The Carl place was about a mile or two up Maple creek from where it empties into a lake.

Mr. Gurney has many other interesting recollections of early days in the Siuslaw country.

He recounts an 8th grade examination in which he and a girl were the only two pupils. As his mother was the school teacher, the chairman of the school board would trust her to conduct the examination but took over the job himself. He put the two youngsters into separate rooms in the Johnson home. When it came to the history test, the girl student had trouble. The board chairman kept asking Gurney questions and Gurney, each time, gave a wrong answer. All the wrong answers turned up in the girl's examination paper and she flunked the history exam.

And when it came to the spelling test, the chairman couldn't pronounce the words, so called upon Gurney's mother, but to assure impartiality, kept careful watch of the spelling book over teacher's shoulder, and almost ruined the examination when his long beard kept tickling Mrs. Gurney's neck.

Gurney has not lost his recollection of the beauty of the Siuslaw country, and recalls distinctly that the lamb's tongue of that region, the beautiful early spring flower, was a delicate lavender shade, instead of the creamy white type prevalent in the central Umpqua Valley.

For further data on old post offices, we are indebted to Mrs. J. H. Kruse, Yoncalla; Margaret Smith, Sutherlin; Mrs. Viola Ward Josselyn, Ashland; Alva R. Manning, Oakland; Mrs. E. E. Emmitt, Roseburg; Mrs. Gussie Neal, Coquille, and Mrs. Edith Ackert, Roseburg, in addition to those previously mentioned.

Of the original list of names supplied us by Historian McArthur, we have succeeded in identifying all except Alderbrook, 1856-59; Bentzen (no data), Locust Grove, 1858-63, and Louis, 1888-96. We also desire information on origin of the name "Elgarose."
