HOBBY BANQUET AND PROGRAM IS ENJOYED

"The Hobby Night" banquet at the Umpqua Hotel last Monday evening was of the largest and most enjoyable parties held this year by the B. P. W. C. The spring yellow of daffodils, fairy dainty acacia and yellow and green tapers not only carried out the club colors but gave the tables a gay spring dress. Ninety-seven guests and members convened at seven o'clock for dinner and program. Out of town guests included the Associated Business Women's Club of Sutherlin and their gentlemen escorts, Mrs. Leona Bryant of Coquille, a past state president of the State Federation of B. P. W. C., Dr. Mary Williams and Mrs. Cordelia Rice both of Myrtle Creek.

Mrs. Alvin Wetherell, president of the local club welcomed the guests and Mrs. Nance Duncan, in behalf of the local club presented the Sutherlin club with a number of books as a token of good will towards the Sutherlin's first project, that of building up their city library. Mrs. Evelyn Russell, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Helen Saar, sang several lovely numbers. Mrs. Leona Bryant gave an enthusiastic talk on the value of women's civic clubs being affiliated with the State and National Federation of B. P. W. C. One of the many advantages enumerated was the unity of purpose of women in business and professions in their social civic projects, as well as supplying material by which they might improve their position in their respective vocations. It simplifies the long range program planning since programs are compiled by experts in organization and program planning. Not only do the federations supply outlines but also abundant research material.

As the name implies hobby night calls for a display of hobbies that the members indulge in. Among some of them displayed the other evening were a set of camel bells brought from India, by Mrs. Maude Kilder, made of solid brass with original inlaid enamel, each one having a different pitched chime according to size. Mrs. Mildred Herman displayed some of her collection of miniature shoes. Mrs. Emily Judd's golf trophies showed to what degree of success she had developed her hobby. One of the most interesting and elaborate displays was that of Mrs. Katie Sinninger, a past president of Roseburg club, now of Medical Lake, who carries in wood, she had several ensembles of personality wood figures, one a group of "nags", a string of mules and a hill-billy outfit, a centerpiece snow scene, most complete with frozen lake, snow banks, boys on sleds, fire, dogs and background landscape and she also had a set of wood plaques. Laura Iles showed a few of her large collection of ceramic and pottery birds. Stella Spencer brought a few pieces of very old and very lovely milk-glass dishes, another of her hobbies is poetry.

Some told of hobbies of fishing, riding, gardening, writing, reading, painting, photography, collecting pictures, stamps or recipes, some a little less boisterous preferred a rocking chair, some wished a book with the chair, some just a chair without the rocking. The men were most interested in fishing, wood-turning, reading (even funny books) and collecting pipes. Mrs. Edna Helgeson showed some oil and water color scenes painted of Arizona desert scenes, also a sample of a more practical hobby, a home-made cake and Mildred Herman won the cake. One of the most entertaining of the hobbies was that which Rev. W. A. MacArthur illustrated very artistically to the group. Using a navel board easel, wired for trick lighting effect, Mr. MacArthur asked five guests to make any mark on the board, each of a different color, from that he developed an artistic composition of subject, line and color. This lovely party was in charge of the following committee, Stella Spencer, who was also toastmistress for the evening. Laura Iles, Emily Judd and Maude Kilder.
